By the Associated Press.

PONTIAC, Mich., Sept. 1.—Circuit Judge George B. Hartrick said today that the Black Legion enlisted at least 86 State, county and city officers and employes among its members in Oakland County. The judge's statement was included in a report of his one-man grand jury investigation of Black Legion activities.

Those listed as members included a member of the State Legislature, the County Prosecutor, the former City Treasurer and Chiefs of Police of Pontiac and Royal Oak.

In delivering the grand jury report, Judge Frank D. Fitzgerald announced in Lansing that he would recommend all State employes shown to be members of the Black Legion be discharged. Chairman John S. McDonald of the State Liquor Control Commission said that Gordon C. McDougall, branch manager in Pontiac who was named in the report, would be dismissed.

The bickering of rival politicians within the order caused it to break up, the report stated.

The grand jury implemented the indictments of 21 persons on charges of the burning of a communist camp in the county. He was assisted in his inquiry by Buell Doelle, Assistant Attorney-General, and Clinton McGee, special prosecutor.

Two Leaders Fugitives.

Outlining the organization of the Black Legion in Michigan, Judge Hartrick's report named Virgil F. (Curly) Effinger of Lima, O., now a fugitive on charges of criminal syndicalism, as national head of the order, and Isaac (Peg-leg) White, a fired Detroit policeman, and also a fugitive, as first Michigan commander, with duties of recruiting members in Illinois and Indiana.

"Politicians joining the order in Oakland County, the report said, disregarded its prejudices and fought to make use of it in political campaigns because to them "a vote was a vote looked upon as a vote, regardless of whether it emanated from a Catholic, a Jew or a Communist."

Commenting on attempts this year to form a women's auxiliary of the order, the report found it "of little consequence, a movement with infinitely greater significance than the afternoon bridge club."

No evidence of criminality exists at the present time," Judge Hartrick found, "which will substantiate a criminal charge against" the Oakland officers and employes named in the Black Legion members.

Urging suspension of public judgment until the "full facts" are known, the report said:

"Hysterical or unthinking action will not cure the curse of bigotry, prejudice and 'playboy' antics which lead adult men under the cover of night, in hood and robe, to tinker with the constitutional safeguards which our forefathers established nearly 150 years ago."

Officers and Members.

Those named as members, published, the report said, "to permit explaining where this is deemed necessary, and more drastic action is justified by the facts," included: State Representative Joseph A. Craig; MacDougall, branch manager of the Liquor Control Commission; Charles W. Cole, division manager for the State Sales Tax administration; Oswald See, supervisor of a state hospital at Pontiac; Prosecutor David C. Vance and two assistants; six county sheriffs; Earl L. Clark, County Drain Commissioner; George A. Johnson, city treasurer; Fred H. Reid and W. Ray Ransom, city assessors; Police Chief Charles McClellan of Pontiac, and Police Chief Alfred L. Reynolds of Royal Oak.

Reporting that Cyril Janosh, former Royal Oak policeman, and Roy Ude and William Childs of Hazel Park, sought for questioning, could not be located, Juge Hartrick stated:

"Evidence of criminality exists which makes the testimony of these men necessary to the complete finding of this inquiring body. As a consequence, no final report can be made until they have been made available as witnesses."

Nearly 300 witnesses were ex-

AVERAGE TEMPERATURE 83.4 DURING HOTTEST SUMMER

99-Year Record for St. Louis Exceeded the 1934 Heat by .01 of a Degree.

The summer of 1936, which ended yesterday in the records of the United States Weather Bureau, was the hottest in the 99 years for which the bureau has records. The average temperature for June, July and August was 83.4, exceeding by .01 of a degree the average for 1934, previously the hottest on record.

August, with an average temperature of 85.6, was the hottest August on record, and July, with an average temperature of 87.4, was the hottest month ever recorded in St. Louis. June's average was 77.2.

FIVE INDICTED FOR 'PAID' MURDER OF SHIP'S ENGINEER

Prosecutor at Oakland, Cal., Says One Man Admitted Getting $60 for Part in Crime.

By the Associated Press.

OAKLAND, Cal., Sept. 1. — Five men were indicted for murder by the Alameda County grand jury yesterday in the killing of a steamship's chief engineer. District Attorney Earl Warren said the "paid" crime grew out of bitterness between left wing and conservative labor factions. Labor representatives have denied this was the cause.

Those indicted were: Earl King, secretary of the Bay District Marine Firemen, Oilers, Wipers and Water Tenders Union; George Wallace and E. H. Ramsay, all in custody; and two who have not been arrested.

Warren said testimony of Wallace, recently arrested in Brownsville, Tex., implicated King, Ramsay, Ben Sacowitz, who is being sought, and a seaman known only as "Wimpy."

Wallace said he was paid $60 for his part in the killing of George W. Alberts, chief engineer of the freighter Point Lobos, who was found beaten and stabbed to death in his cabin last March, the prosecutor said. Warren described Alberts as strongly opposed to leftist workers in his crew.

DRIVER ACCUSED OF LEAVING ACCIDENT SCENE FINED $325

Milton Green Also Charged With Carelessness and Drunken Driving.

Milton Green, 6339A Suburban avenue, Wellston, was fined $325 on charges of leaving the scene of an accident, careless driving and driving while intoxicated, by Police Judge James F. Nangle today.

After his car struck another at Hodiamont and Bartmer avenues last night, Green drove on.

He said he thought the other car had not been damaged, and denied he was drunk, asserting he had only had a "few beers."

BOY, 13, INHERITS $1,233,333

Fortune Left in 1917 by Head of Chicago Utility.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Sept. 1.—John L. Grant Jr., 13 years old, has inherited $1,233,333, it was revealed yesterday when Oscar Caplan, assistant Probate Judge, appointed the Harris Trust & Savings Bank guardian of the boy's interests.

The estate was left by his grandfather, James F. Meagher, former president of the People's Gas Light & Coke Co., who died in 1917, to his four children. The last of them, young Grant's mother, died last May. The entire amount then passed on to the boy, only child of a railway supply dealer and a student at a Chicago school.

DAIRY ACQUITTED OF POSSESSING WATERED MILK

"NOT CONVINCED" ON RESPONSIBILITY

This Is Foreman's Comment—City Sought Only to Show Possession, However—to Appeal.

The Golden Eagle Dairy, 2239 Gravois avenue, was found not guilty of possession of milk which had been adulterated with water in violation of the city milk control ordinance yesterday by a jury of six men in Police Judge James F. Nangle's court. The jury deliberated three minutes.

The company, operated by Bernard and William Wilken, was the first of 16 distributors charged with violation of the milk ordinance to go to trial. Assistant City Counselor Martin Barrow, assigned to prosecute milk ordinance violations, said the city had the right of appeal in such cases and that he would take an appeal to the Court of Criminal Correction.

Although Barrow repeatedly emphasized that the company was charged only with possession of adulterated milk and that there was no charge that its owners, themselves, watered it, James Fries, 1503A Chestnut street, unemployed concrete worker who served as foreman, said members of the jury reached a quick verdict because they had not been convinced that the operators of the dairy were responsible for water in the milk. Testimony of Chief City Chemist E. L. Kisner, who said tests showed the presence of added water, was convincing, Fries said.

Much Technical Testimony.

Much of the testimony consisted of technical description of tests applied to a sample taken from one of the company's trucks July 28 by City Milk Inspector Edward S. Benjamin. The city milk ordinance requires that milk contain not less than 3.25 per cent butter fat, not less than 8.5 per cent nonfatty solids, and not more than 88.25 per cent water or fluid.

Kisner testified that different tests, both approved by the American Public Health Association, applied to the fluid of the specimen and to its extracted solids, were corroborative of the finding that water had been added and that the fluid content was in excess of that permitted by ordinance.

This testimony was contradicted by E. C. Wright, head of the Dairy Laboratory, 2615A Olive street, who makes tests for dairies. He said that a sample he obtained from the Golden Eagle Dairy the same day the city made its test showed the water content was 88.03, well within the limit of 88.25 per cent.

Others on Jury.

Other members of the jury were: Michael J. Haley, 3503 Barrett street; H. F. Finke, 4238 McPherson avenue; Herbert Cox, 1727 South Eighteenth street; James Irgang, 4065A Giles avenue, and Archie Thompson, 4268 Humphrey street.

Karl P. Spencer, attorney for the Golden Eagle Dairy and four other companies, obtained a change of venue from Police Court No. 1 to Police Court No. 2 last Saturday when the five cases were called. He alleged bias and prejudice on the part of Judge Nangle, who was sitting in No. 1 Saturday as a provisional judge. Yesterday Nangle took the bench in No. 2 for the first time as permanent judge.

Spencer, in spite of previous allegations of bias and prejudice, accepted Judge Nangle to hear the Golden Eagle Dairy case but added that he reserved the right to object to him in the other cases.

Cases Continued to Friday.

The other cases, in all of which adulteration of milk with water is charged, were continued to Friday. The companies were: Pioneer Dairy, 2829 Oregon avenue; Valley Springs Dairy, 1331 Arsenal street; Clover Leaf Dairy, 2653 Iowa avenue, and the South Side Consumers' Dairy, 2921 Salena street.

The second case of the Valley Farm Dairy, 3147 Iowa avenue, which pleaded guilty of a previous charge of adulterating milk with water and was fined $5, was set for 2 p. m., Sept. 9, when it was called before Provisional Police Judge Edward Ruddy today and Frank A. Zeis, attorney for the company, asked that a jury hear the case.

PAROLED FROM JAIL SO HE CAN GO TO PRISON

Joseph Cusumano Thus Prevents Forfeiture of $5000 Bond.

Joseph Cusumano, former operator of cafes and saloons in St. Louis, surrendered today to the United States Marshal to begin serving a two-year sentence in Leavenworth penitentiary imposed last November by Federal Judge Charles B. Davis, after a jury found Cusumano guilty of maintaining an illicit still at his home, 5136 Easton avenue.

His attorney, George C. Dyer, said that after his conviction here Cusumano went East and was arrested and convicted at Erie, Pa., for making false injury claims in faked automobile accidents, using as "proof" a leg which was broken before he left St. Louis. He was sentenced to two and a half years at hard labor on the Blawnux (Pa.) workhouse, and had served five months of it when the United States Court of Appeals affirmed his conviction a week ago and issued a mandate requiring Cusumano to begin his sentence within 30 days or forfeit his $5000 bond, signed by his father, Frank, and Mrs. Marie Sansone, mother of Tony Sansone, Democratic politician now under narcotic charges.

To save forfeiture, Dyer went to Erie and persuaded authorities to release Cusumano on parole, with the understanding that he would surrender here to begin his Federal sentence.

Y. W. C. A. SECRETARY FOUND MURDERED IN CALIFORNIA

Riverside Woman Apparently Had Been Criminally Attacked in Gully Near La Jolla.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Sept. 1.—The body of Ruth Muir, about 35, secretary of the Riverside (Cal.) Y. W. C. A., was found in a gully near the ocean front in suburban La Jolla today. Captain of Detectives Harry J. Kelly said he was told "she apparently was criminally attacked and then murdered."

Two women found the body. Miss Muir was prominent in civic affairs at Riverside.

Miss Muir was a Vassar graduate and had been in Y. W. C. A. work for about 15 years.

She had gone to La Jolla with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Muir of San Antonio, Tex., for her annual vacation. Muir is a San Antonio banker.

Last night about 9:30 o'clock, Miss Muir walked from her house to put an automobile in the garage. That was the last seen of her.

EXCAVATION WORKER KILLED BY CAVE-IN AT CHURCH

Arthur Keppler Buried Under Six Feet of Earth, Taken Out By Firemen.

Arthur Keppler, 5953 Theodosia avenue, a laborer, was killed at 11:30 a. m. today, when caught under the wall of an excavation, 16 feet deep, in front of Water Tower Baptist Church, 2109 East Grand avenue, which caved in. He was buried under six feet of earth, and was taken out by firemen and workmen.

The excavation, which extended along the front wall of the church, was being dug for a foundation on which to construct a new front wall. Keppler was buried under the fallen earth for about 30 minutes. Another workman on a secondary scaffold leaped to safety when the wall caved in.

NEW TRIAL DENIED IN BABY HOAX CASE

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

KAHOKA, Mo., Sept. 1.—Motions for a new trial filed by the four defendants in the criminal conspiracy case which resulted from the Muench baby hoax were overruled today by Circuit Judge Walter A. Higbee after hearing the arguments of counsel.

The Court formally pronounced thesentence determined by the jury which found thefour guilty Aug. 22—fines of $450 for Mrs. Nellie Tipton Muench and Attorney Wilfred Jones; $350 for Mrs. Muench's husband, Dr. Ludwig O. Muench, and $150 for Mrs. Helen Berroyer.

An appeal was granted to the St. Louis Court of Appeals. Each of the defendants gave new bond of $300 pending determination of the appeal.

The St. Louis Court of Appeals already is familiar with the facts in the case. Its three Judges concurred lats year in a decree restoring to Anna Ware, unmarried Pennsylvania house maid, the child which Mrs. Muench had sought to pass off as her own.

The conspiracy alleged was an attempt to transfer custody of a child without approval of the Juvenile Court of St. Louis.

RUDY VALLEE FLOORS MAN ACCUSED OF THROWING BOTTLE

Orchestra Leader Later Apologizes When Told He Hit Wrong Dancer.

By the Associated Press.

TORONTO, Ontario, Sept. 1.—Rudy Vallee, crooning orchestra leader, landed a "neat, hard left" on the jaw of a man who he was told threw an empty liquor bottle at him last night, the Toronto Globe reported today.

The man, one of a crowd of 1000 dancers at the Canadian National Exposition, fell to the floor and was carried from the hall, the newspaper declared.

"Vallee was in the middle of a musical number and his back was turned to the dancers, when someone threw an empty liquor bottle," the paper quoted Shoss as saying. "The bottle landed just behind him and rolled to his feet.

"His microphone control man pointed to one of the dancers as the bottle thrower, and Vallee, without hesitation, delivered a neat, hard left to the jaw.

"Two other members of the victim's party immediately claimed their friend was not the guilty one. Vallee at once offered his hand and apologized to the man he struck."

84 MOTORISTS ARRESTED IN 24 HOURS FOR SPEEDING

Total of 449 Stopped on That Charge Since Aug. 24 When Safety Drive Started.

Beginning the second week of the drive on traffic law violators, police arrested 84 motorists for speeding and 89 for other traffic offenses in the 24-hour period between 4 a. m. yesterday and 4 a. m. today.

This makes a total number of 1417 arrests since the drive began —449 for speeding and 968 for other violations.

Eye-Witness Account Of Air Raid on Madrid

(Copyright, 1936.)

MADRID, Sept. 1.—(Uncensored Dispatch by Airplane Courier to Paris.)—Pedestrians dashing madly for cover through the nearest doorways. Drivers feverishly abandoning their automobiles in the middle of the street. Men, women and children, gripped with fright, stampeding to the cellars. Automobile horns shrieking wildly. Red militia sentries shouting to civilians to get off the streets. Babies crying. Pandemonium.

That is the drama of a great metropolis unexpectedly visited by a winged monster dropping missiles from the night sky.

In this uncensored dispatch I am able to tell of the sights I saw and the sounds I heard last Friday when, for the first time since Spain's civil war broke out, insurgent planes raided the heart of the capital, where 1,000,000 inhabitants dwell.

Raid Under Bright Moon.

Under a big, bright moon Madrid lay quiet but tense in the heavy heat of a Spanish summer. Just as the city's clocks chimed the hour of midnight, the purring of airplane motors overhead was suddenly heard.

A bedlam of automobile horns and human voices was instantly set up as the city's anti-aircraft batteries swung into action with the rattling of their rapid-fire guns.

All civilians on the streets ran indoors and to the cellars. Waiters, still loyal to their duty in spite of the widespread fear, hastily rescued sidewalk tables, pulling them into the cafes.

From my hotel window I had a panoramic view of a good section of the city's streets. The thoroughfares were cleared of pedestrians and motorists in astonishingly quick time. The honking and shrieking of auto horns subsided.

Bomb Near War Ministry.

The first bomb landed with a loud detonation in front of the garden entrance of the building occupied by the War Ministry, four blocks from the American embassy.

The missile tore up the pavement 75 feet from the Government building itself. The insurgent planes were flying low and their aim seemed to be excellent.

If that first explosive had been a 220-pound T. N. T. bomb, there is little doubt that the whole front of the War Ministry building would have been smashed to pieces. But the bomb was comparatively small and the only damage to the Ministry's quarters was the shattering of several windows.

The second was an incendiary bomb that fell near the Madrid Postoffice and the Ministry of Communcations building, but did not set fire to the structures. The third bomb landed on the edge of the railway station.

With the fourth the insurgent raiders scored a bull's-eye hit on the Socialist party's garage. Fifteen persons were reported injured when the garage was blasted into ruins. Thirty-two cars were wrecked.

Three Planes in Raid.

The other three bombs injured four persons. Officially there was no report of deaths. The Government insists only one insurgent

DEAD IN CIVIL WAR IN SPAIN ESTIMATED AT 75,000 TO 100,000

(Copyright, 1936, by the Associated Press.)

MADRID, Aug. 22 — (Uncensored)—By courier to Hendaye, France, Sept. 1.)

ESTIMATES of casualties in the first five weeks of Spain's civil war, based on reports to the Red Cross and other available statistics, place the dead at 75,000 to 100,000.

The wounded are about 300,000.

Both sides have exaggerated the losses inflicted on each other, but official circles are understood to admit privately that the dead are about 85,000.

Many smaller towns have been almost depopulated as a result of passing from the hands of Government forces to those of rebels, and vice versa. The first side to capture a town has been known to exterminate all animals at once. When a town is retaken, mass executions are carried out in retaliation for the destruction.

SPANISH LOYALIST FLYERS BOMB HOSPITAL AT BURGOS

(Copyright, 1936, by the Associated Press.)

BURGOS, Spain, Sept. 1.—A 1300-bed hospital was wrecked yesterday in the first Government air raid on this rebel city.

Rebel leaders, whose own planes already had dropped bombs on Madrid, said four were killed and 23 wounded as the result of yesterday's bombardment. All four, the Fascists said, were killed when one of four bombs hit the hospital, which contained 400 war wounded.

Two bombs struck a home for the infirm and aged, the rebel leaders said.

Rebel accounts of the hospital bombing said wounded men walking in the garden were hit and that a father and brother, praying over the body of a soldier in a hospital room, were killed. Two operating rooms were smashed.

Gen. Miguel Cabanellas protested to the International Red Cross headquarters at Geneva, stating the hospital displayed the Red Cross insignia prominently.

SPANISH LEFTISTS TROOPS CHEER FRENCH GENERAL

Soldiers Leave Trenches Near French Boundary and Sing and Shout.

By the Associated Press.

BIRIATOU, France, Sept. 1. — The French General Chauvin received a tumultuous welcome from Spanish Government militia men when he arrived yesterday at the border to inspect damage done by shells falling in French territory.

He was driven up to the frontier and caused a sensation among troops encamped on the other side of the line. They swarmed from trenches, sang the "Marseillaise" and shouted "Long live France! Long live Spain!"

Insurgents Continue Attempt to Take City Despite Danger of Hitting Own Men Held in Chains by Loyalists.

FASCISTS PROTEST AGAINST ACTION

Say It Is "Contrary to Most Elementary Human Rights" — Defenders Driven to Last Stand Outside of Town.

By the Associated Press.

BIRIATOU, Franco-Spanish Border, Sept. 1.—Rebel shellfire forced the defenders of Irun tonight to retreat to their last line trenches on the hills a mile outside the city.

If this barrier falls, the Government's only choice is capitulation or a final stand in Irun itself. Already, field pieces were being installed inside the city in apparent preparation for a fight to the end.

Col. Jose Beorlegui's foreign legionnaires and monarchist militiamen killed many Government soldiers, directing a deadly fire at the redoubts on the far side of Puente Ridge.

Time and again this correspondent saw direct hits from the rebel six-inch guns blow a trenchful of defenders into the air. Each time, reinforcements were rushed from Irun to face the next shell.

(Copyright, 1936, by the Associated Press.)

IRUN, Spain, Sept. 1.—A fleet of rebel war planes which Government officers said were made in Germany and Italy bombed Irun and other Spanish coastal cities today.

The rebels, undeterred by chaining of Fascist hostages in exposed places, a procedure they called "monstrous," smashed Irun buildings, homes and defenses with air bombs and with shells from field guns mounted on a ridge.

Reports of the summary execution of some of the rebel hostages by Government militiamen apparently was the signal for the insurgent offensive. One of the hostages, the Bishop of Valladolid, was reported to have asked that his hands be left free for prayer.

Water and gas reservoirs near the railway station were demolished. An unoccupied convent was wrecked. Two bodies were found in the ruins of a Republican headquarters.

Four Government planes retaliated late in the day by bombing rebel ranks as insurgent land forces made a slight advance against defenders on the summit of Mount Turiarte, just outside Irun. The Government artillery shelled rebel positions.

Shell Hits French Town.

A rebel shell fell in the French town of Behobie, but caused no damage. Explosion of bombs on the Spanish side of the frontier shook houses in Hendaye.

Rebel and Government planes, just before dusk, had a machine gun fight over French territory.

Then the Government flyers attempted to bomb Spanish rebel positions. Two bright red biplanes dropped six bombs on the rebel guns which had been raising havoc with Irun's defenses.

The rebels had installed anti-aircraft guns in their Enderiaza headquarters, but the planes dodged their fire.

Suddenly a rebel plane came over the hills to chase the bombers. The two Government planes dived for cover, crossing French territory, with the faster rebel fighter pursuing.

While one Government ship veered off, the rebel plane chased the other bomber with a crackle of machine gun fire at an altitude of 2000 feet.

Eventually the Government planes escaped and proceeded to attack the rebel batteries, which had almost demolished Government machine gun nests on the hills dominating Irun.

Infantry Storms Hills.

Heavy forces of rebel infantry, apparently intending to take hastily-improvised Government defense positions by storm, started up the hills late in the day.

Reports from Bilbao, west of Irun on the coast, said Fascist bombing planes began an assault during the night. Several buildings at Bilbao were destroyed.

Fifty bombs fell in Irun during the first hour of the raid from the air. The assault died down at 10:30 a. m., after the planes had scored a hit before the railroad sta-

MORE AERIAL BOMBS DROPPED ON MADRID

(Copyright, 1936, by the Associated Press.)

MADRID, Sept. 1.—The Leftist Government, fighting to suppress the Fascist revolution, now in its seventh week, today announced a series of victories in scattered engagements with the rebels.

The War Ministry reported:

Halting of an insurgent advance in Badajoz Province by Government fighting planes.

Ambush of rebel forces near Sierra de Ronda, Malaga Province, by groups of armed farmers, who killed 23 Fascists and wounded many more. The farmers were reported to have captured a large quantity of arms and ammunition.

Occupation of the towns of Alpujarreeds, Jubiles and Mieles, in Almeria.

Another Air Attack.

The capital was awakened shortly before dawn by a fresh rebel air attack. The Fascist planes dropped several bombs into the streets but a preliminary survey showed only slight damage.

The population was aroused by sirens. Searchlights swept the sky. Anti-aircraft batteries and machine guns fired at the raiders.

The attack lasted for almost three-quarters of an hour. Then small groups of citizens began to emerge from subway stations, basements and lower floors of their homes.

Later the War Ministry reported the air raid had been repelled by anti-aircraft units and that the rebel planes were forced to flee.

An air raid at Bilboa was said by the Government to have been frustrated by a Government submarine, which fired from the dock where it was being repaired. The airplane fled without dropping its full load of bombs, officials said.

Preparations progressed to protect the capital against further air raids. Loud speakers were stationed in various sections of the city to sound warnings as soon as detectors signal the approach of planes. Street cars were supplied with small green light bulbs which cannot be seen from the air. Special squads of workmen were instructed to be constantly on duty to repair possible breaks in gas and water mains and electric cables.

Shakeup of Cabinet.

The new cabinet members were proposed to include one Communist, one Socialist, one representative of the Confederation of Labor, and Indalecio Prieto, Socialist leader who fermerly headed the ministries of public works and finance.

Names of the prospective cabinet appointees were not disclosed with the exception of Prieto, who probably would serve as minister without portfolio.

Both Domingo and Lara are in Paris, where they went to talk to "French political friends," accompanied by Dolores Irriburi, Communist deputy known as La Pasionaria.

More Fascists Sentenced.

One of the defendants was reported to be Rafael Salazar Alonso, former Minister of the Interior, who was arrested by a group of anarchists. Alonso, on entering jail, was declared to have remarked: "I wish everybody to know how thankful I am to these anarchists for their kind treatment."

The previously-ordered moratorium on payment of all obligations except salaries was extended until Sept. 6.

Government operatives seized 80,000,000 pesetas (about $10,400,000) in the residence of Manual Muguiro, a banker. Food stored in the home of Cesar de la Mora, prominent Rightist, was confiscated.

Fernando de los Rios, former Socialist minister, was named dean of Madrid University.

FEDERAL INJUNCTION SOUGHT AGAINST MODERN WOODMEN

Illegal Transfer of Funds Alleged, Accounting Demanded; Three St. Louisans Plaintiffs.

By the Associated Press.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Sept. 1.—Charging the illegal transfer of funds, an injunction suit filed in Federal District Court today against the Modern Woodmen of America and three of its officers sought a full accounting of the corporation's funds.

U. S. District Judge Charles G. Briggle set Sept. 21 as the date for a hearing on the requests for a temporary restraining order. Attorneys said that on that date the appointment of a receiver would also be asked.

The bill of complaint was filed in behalf of Elmer C. Strother, Emil Ritter and L. H. Ferguson of St. Louis, policyholders.

The complaint alleged that the corporation had failed to comply with the Illinois laws relating to fraternal beneficiary associations since July 1, 1919.

The plaintiffs asked the Court temporarily to restrain the corporation and its officers from issuing any further transfers of policies or from soliciting any policyholders to change their certificates.

The complaint charged that false returns had been made to the Illinois Department of Insurance in 1932, 1933, 1934 and 1935 "in order to conceal, hide and keep secret the unlawful transfer and use of $1,229,082.10, which amount was illegally and unlawfully transferred from the benefit or mortuary fund to the general or expense fund."

Militiamen declared three of the six planes were of German manufacture (Fokker) while the others were of Italian make (Caproni).

Moving of Hostages.

The hostages had been carted from Fort Guadalupe after warnings had been sent to rebel commanders that their supporters would be the first to be killed during an attack.

The action of the Government militiamen in thrusting hostages before the bombardment brought a protest "to the civilized world" from the rebel provisional Government headquarters at Burgos.

The rebels said the procedure was "contrary to the rules of war and the most elementary human rights." They declared further that supporters of the Madrid Government had evacuated their families and "all elements of the population siding with the People's Front, but maintain at Fuenterrabia exposed to the bombardment women and children making them serve as a human wall against the Nationalist attack."

Evacuation of Irun was ordered by Government commanders shortly after receipt of a rebel ultimatum to surrender which was coupled with the threat to "reduce Irun to ashes" by a land, sea and air bombardment.

Streams of refugees poured across the French border into Hendaye although Government officials refused to allow families of suspected rebel sympathizers to leave the besieged area.

Sporadic firing continued throughout the night as Government and Fascist troops engaged in brief skirmishes.

Dorothy Gish Arrested for Speeding

First to land was John P. Sary, Elmhurst, N. Y., who taxied in at 11.43 a. m. Layland Haward, New York, was second, while Marjory Jane Gage, another New York entry, was the third in.

The group had a barbecue lunch together before taking off for El Paso, the next scheduled stop.

TWO MORE CITY EMPLOYES GET DISMISSAL NOTICES

Park Commissioner Mestres Says He Wants to Make His Own Appointments.

Oscar Hasekamp, Park Department secretary, and Mrs. Corrinne Pauly, department stenographer, received notice today that their services would not be required after Sept. 20. Both were appointed in May, 1933, by the late William A. Miller, who was succeeded as Park Commissioner by Joseph J. Mestres three months ago.

Mestres said there was no political significance in the dismissals, but that he wished to make his own appointments. Hasekamp, who resides at 3107 Clay avenue, received $210 a month. Mrs. Pauly lives at 1468 Adelaide avenue. Her monthly salary was $126.50.

Judge to Question Jurors in Poole Murder Trial at Detroit.

DETROIT, Sept. 1.—From a jury panel of 175 the State tried today to find 14 unbiased persons to hear evidence that hooded night-riders of the Black Legion executed Charles A. Poole, WPA worker, on a country road May 12.

The killing of Poole because of false gossip that he beat his wife unmasked the terroristic activities of the secret society and led to investigations which have charged more than 80 persons with crimes attributed to the order.

Twelve men are accused in the Poole case. Circuit Judge Joseph A. Moynihan, seeking to avert possibility that any of the order's members in Wayne County (Detroit) might become a trial juror, planned to question the panel himself. Attorneys agreed that the jury would be locked up nightly during the trial which may last three weeks.

plane carried out the night raid. Actually, there were three.

A strange assortment of weapons was employed by the Red militia in its efforts to bring down the raiders. In addition to the anti-aircraft batteries and machine guns, the militia men were firing into the air with shotguns.

At 5 o'clock Saturday morning there was another outburst of machine gun and rifle fire, leading to the fear that another air raid was in progress. It developed that the militia, posted on the rooftops of downtown buildings, were firing on Government planes which had taken off in anticipation of a new insurgent attack.

'PLEADED WITH' GEOGHAN TO PUSH DRUKMAN CASE

Testimony of New York Police Commissioner in District Attorney's Removal Trial.

By the Associated Press.

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 1.—Police Commissioner Valentine of New York testified today at the removal hearing of District Attorney William F. X. Geoghan that he urged Geoghan, his friend of 20 years, to resubmit the Drukman murder case to the grand jury.

"I told Geoghan last September that I was ashamed of the Drukman case and he ought to be ashamed of it," Valentine testified before Gov. Herbert Lehman. "I told him about the ugly rumors of bribery of police and District Attorney's men. . . . Rumors I knew had to be true. . . . And I asked him again to bring this case out into the open and resubmit it to a grand jury."

"Not once but 10 times," said Valentine, pounding his knee and a nearby desk violently. "He told me that night he would not reopen the Drukman case."

Geoghan sat at his counsel table leaning back. Both men were red of face, obviously angry.

Only a few minutes before Valentine had sat by and listened to the white-haired District Attorney deny that Valentine had ever asked for resubmission of the Drukman case to a grand jury.

The grand jury failed to return an indictment. Later three men were convicted.

Became Political Issue.

The Drukman murder case became suddenly a political issue in New York City last fall when Geoghan's opponent in the November election—Dr. Joseph D. McGoldrick—charged that murder "is safe in Brooklyn" with the Democratic Geoghan in the District Attorney's office.

The Kings County prosecutor, fighting removal on charges of incompetence, blamed the police in the Drukman case. Valentine insists that he did everything he could to get the Drukman case solved. He testified Mayor LaGuardia had stated that "this case will never be closed up until there is a resubmission or an indictment." LaGuardia is a Republican-Fusion Mayor, and Valentine is his appointee.

"I then asked Geoghan for a conference. This was in September," Valentine said. He had already said he asked Geoghan to resubmit the case in May, June and August.

Valentine said Geoghan was "very reluctant" to arrange the September meeting, which was finally held in the Columbus Club. "He wanted to meet me on a street corner, but I reminded him of the dignity of his office," the Commissioner recited.

Valentine's voice became a shout as he recited that he had told Geoghan at the conference: "'My God, man, what kind of a crime do you have to commit in Brooklyn?' I pleaded. I threatened, I did everything but physically assault him, in trying to get him to resubmit the entire case."

Georghan related yesterday that Valentine had "tipped off" Republican-Fusion strategy to him. He referred to the September conference.

Made Political Issue.

He said: "Commissioner Valentine came . . . to me (I will say as an act of friendship) and I will use the colloquial term . . . to 'tip me off' that Mr. McGoldrick had certain information that he was going to use in the campaign against me; and the information he gave me was—'it is the Drukman case.'"

Subsequently the Republican-Fusionist, Dr. McGoldrick, charged in his unsuccessful campaign against Geoghan that "murder is safe in Brooklyn" and referred repeatedly to the killing of Samuel Drukman, an obscure clerk, in the Brooklyn garage of his employers, the Luckman brothers.

Special Prosecutor Hiram C. Todd read to Geoghan the heretofore secret testimony of Assistant District Attorney Harry S. Sullivan before an extraordinary grand jury last November.

Todd quoted Sullivan as saying that he thought the case was a "phoney" and that the April grand jury which failed to return Drukman case indictments was "fixed." It was also Sullivan's opinion, according to the record, that Geoghan "knew" last summer there should have been an investigation.

After reading the Sullivan opinion, Todd asked Geoghan to answer whether he should have investigated.

"Hindsight is better than foresight," Geoghan replied, and pointed to his written reply to the Governor, denying all charges against him. Previously, on direct examination by the Governor, the District Attorney agreed that, in the light of succeeding events, an investigation might have been warranted, but contended he knew nothing of bribery until witnesses started coming forward before an extraordinary grand jury last fall.

Hindsight and Foresight.

He said: "As we look back in retrospect, realizing now that this case has become, and was, a political issue in the last campaign, that newspapers have written generously—prophetically, in fact—about it, that it has been commented upon by newspapers in editorials, yes, we say, now, it might have been a good thing to have investigated that grand jury. But how many men in this world find hindsight so much easier than foresight?"

Geoghan said that, when Todd superseded him as special prosecutor, the latter had the help of volunteers, including April Grand Juror Theodore Cohn, who told of an attempt to bribe him to vote against indictment.

"If he had come to me," Geoghan said, "and told me what he told Mr. Todd, I would have had an investigation under way within 24 hours or less after he communicated that information to me. But he didn't do it."

MORE COUNTIES INCLUDED IN DROUTH FREIGHT RATES

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—The Interstate Commerce Commission today modified an order providing reduced rates on cattle shipments from drouth-stricken areas to include 72 additional counties in Kansas, Nebraska and Montana, affecting 24 roads serving feeding grounds in 15 states.

The reduced rates provide for a charge of 85 per cent of the regular rates for taking the cattle out, and 15 per cent for returning them.

The feeding grounds are located in Colorado, Idaho, Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, South Dakota, North Dakota, Washington, Wisconsin and Wyoming.

ENGLISH DRIVER FOR 39 YEARS FINED, MUST TAKE NEW TEST

Sir Walter Windham Disqualified Month on Traffic Charge; King's Aid Also Fined.

LONDON, Sept. 1.—Sir Walter Windham, pioneer of aviation and motoring and one-time foreign service messenger for the King, must take a driver's test. Until he does, he must exhibit the sign "L" (learner) on his car. Sir Walter, who has driven a car for 39 years, was fined £3 ($15) on a charge of driving dangerously, and was disqualified for a month. Major the Hon. A. H. L. Hardinge, King Edward's private secretary, was fined 30 shillings (about $7.50) at Bromley for speeding.

Sir Walter, now 69 years old, was the first to carry foreign dispatches to Whitehall Court by automobile. In 1909 he was credited with being the first to send an air-mail letter, a dispatch from England to France. He founded the first aerial post in India in 1910 and was the first aerial passenger in Asia.

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR DERN TODAY

Roosevelt and Other Notables to Attend Ceremony at Salt Lake City.

By the Associated Press.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Sept. 1.—With President Roosevelt and other officials of high rank in attendance, burial services for Secretary of War George H. Dern will be held this afternoon in the Latter Day Saints (Mormon) Tabernacle. A crowd of 10,000 was expected to witness the ceremony, the first funeral for a non-member of the church to be held in the huge structure.

The funeral train, closely followed by one bearing President Roosevelt, arrived at black-draped Union Station at 8 a. m. The Presidential special, diverted from a tour of the Midwestern drouth belt that Roosevelt might attend the service here, arrived 10 minutes after the funeral section.

Beginning at 10 a. m., a line of men, women and children began passing the open casket in the rotunda of the Utah Capitol, where it was to lie in state until 2 p. m. The tabernacle services were to begin at 3 o'clock, to be followed by military and Masonic graveside services at Mount Olivet Cemetery adjoining the University of Utah campus.

Notables on Funeral Train.

Secretary of Commerce Daniel I. Roper was the first of the Cabinet and other high Government officials to leave the funeral train. Attorney-General Homer S. Cummings and Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, among others, followed with bowed heads. Acting Secretary of War Harry Woodring was with them.

Six regular army soldiers bore the casket from the train through lines of city and State officials who knew the War Secretary in his rise from mining clerk to the Governorship of Utah before he was named to the Cabinet.

About 300 persons were permitted inside the station, all by special secret service pass. Among them was Gov. Henry H. Blood. Outside, 2000 persons stood with bared heads as the casket was carried to a waiting hearse, surrounded by a special guard of State and city motorcycle police and soldiers.

Mrs. Dern, her face hidden by a long black veil, followed the casket with the children and close friends.

Wallace Joins Roosevelt.

President Roosevelt remained in his train, planning to leave it only a short while before the funeral. He was joined by Secretary Wallace. Already with him were high-ranking administration leaders who accompanied him here, including Rexford Tugwell, Undersecretary of Agriculture; Harry L. Hopkins, Works Progress Administrator; and William I. Myers, of the Farm Credit Administration.

Edward McGrady, Acting Secretary of Labor; Admiral William H. Standley, Acting Secretary of the Navy, and Major-General Malin Craig, chief of staff, also were here for the funeral.

A procession, including 1600 national guardsmen and regular soldiers from nearby Fort Douglas, was organized for the cortege to Mount Olivet Cemetery.

President to Leave at 6 P. M.

No appointments were made for President Roosevelt during his stay in the city. After the services, he arranged to return immediately to his train. He will leave at 6 p. m. tonight for Des Moines, Ia., where Thursday he will hold drouth conferences with the heads of seven states, including Gov. Alf M. Landon of Kansas, his Republican opponent for the presidency.

His special joined the Dern funeral train yesterday at Sidney, Neb., and followed it across Wyoming as the second section.

The President refused to make any public appearances after leaving Sidney. There he spoke from an automobile on the benefits of summer fallowing in planning against drouths, visited the nearby resettlement project of O. D. Burris and conferred with Federal and State officials on his train.

GOLDEN DAYS ARE HERE AGAIN FOR DEATH VALLEY SCOTTY

Has Half-Million, He Says, and Figures It's Time to Finish His Castle.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 1.—Death Valley Scotty (born Walter Scott) went back into the rocks of Death Valley in mid-July with a new string of mules in search of gold.

"I brought half a million (in gold dust) back from the rocks," he said today, flashing a $100 bill from a roll of $1000 notes. "I figured it's time to finish the castle. I started it in 1922 and spent $2,381,000 on it and then stopped when they questioned my title years ago and the foreigners tried to take the land away.

"I gotta put up big walls to save the castle from the spouts (desert floods), finish the moat and lake, and put on the tile and other things of the outside."

The main dwellings are luxuriously furnished, the music room containing a $75,000 pipe organ, the master bedroom and furnishings costing $180,000. There are 15 fireplaces, and 175,000 railroad ties are piled in the canyons for fuel.

WRIT BARRING OUSTER OF SHEAHAN STANDS

Missouri Supreme Court Denies Prosecutor Anderson's Motion to Set It Aside.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Sept. 1.—A motion to set aside an absolute writ of prohibition issued by the Missouri Supreme Court, restraining Circuit Judge Witthaus and Prosecuting Attorney C. Arthur Anderson from ousting Dr. Edwin L. Sheahan as superintendent of the St. Louis County Hospital, was overruled yesterday by the Supreme Court.

The Court did not write an opinion on the case, merely making an entry denying the motion. The writ had been made pernanent last Aug. 20, on failure of the respondents, Judge Witthaus and Anderson, to file a return on it.

Ouster proceedings against Dr. Sheahan resulted in a jury verdict last March 7 in Judge Witthaus' court for ouster of the superintendent. Counsel for Dr. Sheahan filed application for a writ of prohibition to restrain county authorities from ousting him.

In the motion overruled yesterday Anderson contended he had been incapacitated by illness and was unable to make the return within the time set for it.

KELVINATOR AIR-CONDITIONING

THE ROBERT J. AMBRUSTER MORTUARY

Central to All Cemeteries

THE illustration shows how directly any cemetery may be reached from this Mortuary. Owing to the limits of space the locations are approximate and the distances relative, but the furthest may be reached in twenty minutes; Union Station in fifteen minutes.

Not only is the Mortuary central to all cemeteries, but it may also be reached by motor in ten minutes from most St. Louis neighborhoods and the suburbs.

All corteges are routed over concrete thoroughfares, free from congested traffic and city noises.

It is a Mortuary for all people, irrespective of faith or creed. Respect for opinion is given to all. Reverence, as befitting the solemnity of the occasion, is invariable. The kind, order or method of service is as requested. Our part in a professional and directional way are the refinements applied from the experience of many years.

Funerals from distant points in this country and from abroad requiring service in St. Louis are given the same careful attention as if occurring locally, without change in our moderate price schedules.

EX-CONVICT SHOT BY ANOTHER IN APARTMENT HALL

J. E. Shipp Fires on Rolla (Blackie) Dean in Row Over Former's Treatment of Stepdaughter.

SAYS VICTIM BEAT, THREATENED HIM

Gov. Park Restored Citizenship of Wounded Man on Plea of Politicians and Labor Leaders.

Rolla ("Blackie") Dean, a former convict frequently questioned by police in their investigation of numerous bombings in the city and county, was shot and wounded seriously shortly before 9 o'clock last night in a hall of the University Apartments, 3703 Washington boulevard, by John E. Shipp, also a former convict. They had quarreled over Shipp's treatment of his stepdaughter, Mrs. Bernice Douglas, a friend of Dean.

Dean occupies a first-floor apartment at that address, and Shipp, bartender in a restaurant there, has a second-floor apartment. Shipp and his wife met Dean and Mrs. Douglas in the hall last night, according to the statements of all four to police, and Shipp fired one shot at Dean, wounding him in the right thigh.

Says Dean Threatened Him.

"He beat me and threatened me Sunday night," Shipp told police. "When I saw him in the hall I was afraid of him. I took out my revolver and fired one shot at him."

Mrs. Shipp told police Dean had entered the Shipp apartment Sunday night and, without provocation, had beaten her husband. Mrs. Douglas' version of the Sunday night incident was that it was a "family quarrel" occasioned by Dean's resentment of what he considered to be the "disinterested attitude" of Mrs. Douglas' mother and stepfather toward her. She lives in their apartment with her 16-year-old daughter, Eileen.

Mrs. Douglas, who is 31 years old, was with Dean at City Hospital today, where she told reporters she intended to marry him when he recovered. Doctors at the hospital were unable to remove the bullet from Dean's thigh immediately. A blood transfusion was ordered.

Dean, 30, was sentenced in January, 1927, to 10 years in prison for robbery. He was one of two men who held up an ice cream company in September, 1926, and stole $142. The robbers were pursued and captured by police after a chase in which a Negro youth was killed by a bullet fired from the robbers' car.

Dean's Citizenship Restored.

Inquiry after the shooting disclosed that Dean's citizenship had been restored by Gov. Park on March 29, 1935. His petition for restoration of citizenship bore the names of 30 St. Louisans, chiefly Democratic politicians and labor union officials. Among the names attached to the petition were:

Robert E. Hannegan, chairman of the Democratic City Committee; State Senator J. P. Shea, State Senator W. J. Doran, State Representative William C. Fritz, Jule Rickel, Tenth Ward Democratic Committeman; L. G. May, Twenty-seventh Ward Democratic Committeman; Justice of the Peace James A. Burke, Twenty-second Ward Democratic Committeeman; Constable John J. Dwyer, Deputy Constable Clarence C. Zinzer, Deputy Constable Thomas Callanan; Clerk John F. O'Connor of Justice Burke's Court; Andrew Gazzolo, real estate, 3500 Franklin avenue; Elmer L. Moone, attorney, 3740 St. Louis avenue; Paul Dillon, attorney, 907 Bank of Commerce Building; Joseph M. Quinn, secretary, 3624 Labadie avenue.

Thomas F. Quinn, president of the Building Trades Council; John J. Church, secretary, Building Trades Council; William Ryan, business agent, 5815 Washington boulevard; John Ray, business representative, 5384 Arlington avenue; Edward Seymour, business representative, 4580 Wren avenue; George Wyland, business representative, 4227 St. Louis avenue; Thomas E. Conroy, business representative, Local 603, 3105 North Marsh street; R. H. Schulte, secretary, Chauffeurs' Local 606, 3660 Bow avenue; R. J. White, business representative, Local 603, 5044 Vernon avenue; and William Frenger, secretary, 1939 Cherokee street.

Dean has been picked up more than 100 times for investigation and a year ago was one of three men shown to newspaper reporters at police headquarters by Maj. Albert Reed Lambert, Vice-President of the Board of Police Commissioners, as "the men responsible for most of the bombings in St. Louis." Dean was never convicted on such a charge, however.

Shipp, in 1926, was sentenced at Memphis, Tenn., to three years in prison for receiving stolen property. After his release he came to St. Louis, and in 1931 filed a complaint against Robert Kaiser, then Chief of Detectives, alleging that he had been arrested without cause and held for 72 hours. The Police Board, after an investigation, filed the charges and took no action against Kaiser. Shipp is 52 years old.

QUARREL OVER HER CAUSE OF SHOOTING

POISON INQUIRY BEGUN IN TWO INDIANA DEATHS

Chemists Find Substance in Stomach of One Woman—Two Men Ill.

By the Associated Press.

BEDFORD, Ind., Sept. 1.—Coroner R. E. Wynne investigated today the recent deaths of Mrs. Katie Fultz, 50 years old, and Mrs. Ruth Frances Dillon, 25, after State chemists reported finding evidence of poison in Mrs. Fultz's stomach.

Dr. Wynne said he would seek to determine whether a wholesale poisoning had been attempted of persons living at the Fultz home, eight miles west of this city. Samuel Kern, brother of Mrs. Dillon, and John Tuddy, a nephew, had been seriously ill, but are recovering.

Kern, Tuddy and Mrs. Dillon lived with Mrs. Fultz, who is survived by a sister, Mrs. Frank Pace, living in Bedford. Mrs. Dillon died Aug. 23 and Mrs. Fultz on Aug. 28.

Dr. Wynne said he was informed Mrs. Pace was the beneficiary of the estate of Mrs. Fultz, who owned a large farm and some other property in Lawrence County.

STATE BACKS MERAMEC HEALTH CLEANUP IN COUNTY

Jefferson City Promises Full Co-operation in Campaign to Begin in About a Week.

Dr. Theodore R. Meyer, Health Commissioner of St. Louis County, and Lorenz Ordelheide, sanitary engineer, returned today from Jefferson City, where they said they had been assured "full co-operation" of the State Health Department in their campaign to investigate health conditions on the Meramec River and clean up where necessary.

The campaign will begin in about a week, Dr. Meyer said, or as soon as the work of inspecting the water supply at all the rural schools in the county has been completed. The chief work will be to investigate the water supply and sewage disposal at every resort, private club or home along the river and to point out any unsanitary or dangerous conditions to the owners.

All resorts also will be inspected for screens and food handlers will be given physical examinations. The campaign will be largely educational, Dr. Meyer said, and the health laws will be invoked only under extreme circumstances. Every place that is passed by the county authorities will be given a certificate of approval by the State Board of Health. Dr. Meyer said that in his capacity as a deputy State health commissioner he would also go across the river into Jefferson County and investigate sanitary conditions.

OHIO DENIES PLEA TO GIVE UP MAN, FUGITIVE 23 YEARS

Gov. Davey Refuses Oklahoma Request for C. B. Chilton, Now Reputable Cleveland Citizen.

By the Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 1. — At least temporarily free to resume his life as a reputable Cleveland citizen, Carlton B. Chilton faced today possibility of a new fight to return him to Oklahoma to complete a reformatory sentence broken when he fled 23 years ago.

Owen J. Watts, representative of the Oklahoma Attorney-General intended to return to Oklahoma City today to confer with Gov. E. W. Marland. Watts declined to make any statement, but there were indications that Oklahoma could press its demand for his extradition, denied late yesterday by Gov. Martin L. Davel of Ohio, by instituting Federal Court mandamus proceedings.

Meanwhile another organization rallied to the support of Chilton, who escaped from the Granite reformatory in 1913 after serving a half of a two-year term for a bank theft he committed when 17 years old. Marshal C. W. Ossman of Brooklyn Village, president of the Cuyahoga County Police Chiefs' Association, announced the association had voted unanimously to uphold Gov. Davey's action. Cleveland is the seat of Cuyahega County.

Comment by Marland.

Gov. Marland expressed surprise when he learned of Gov. Davey's decision but said: "I have no criticism to make. He (Davey) undoubtedly did his duty as he saw it. I hope, however, that other states do not follow his example in refusing extradition of escaped convicts, no matter how long they made good their escape."

As he announced his decision in his office after two hours of testimony, Gov. Davey said: "I can see no possible good to society to send this man back. A long time ago Christ said, 'Go and sin no more.'" Amid a complete silence, he added, "and so the request for extradition is denied."

Numerous friends and representatives of Cleveland civic organizations who had come to the hearing to give support to Chilton, now 41, rushed to congratulate him. For a moment, he seemed not to realize what the Governor had said.

Watts, who had pleaded that Chilton's return was essential to maintenance of the trusty system in Oklahoma, was among the first to shake his hand.

Then Chilton said, almost inaudibly, "I'm awfully glad Gov. Davey did not send me back. I hope now Gov. Marland will grant me a pardon."

Testimony of Chilton.

Earlier he took the witness stand in his own defense and told how with a companion he knew only as "Shaw" he walked into a Calvin (Ok.) bank in 1913.

"There was no one there," he continued. "The safe door was open and money was lying around the counters. I don't know why we did it, but we took the money."

Chilton said he went to St. Louis, Mo., and then to Pacific, Mo., where his family formerly had lived.

"The president of the bank came up the next day," he continued. "I gave back the money I had left (about $30 had been spent) and went back with him.

"My lawyers told me to plead guilty, that I'd get two years and they'd get me a parole. Then I went to Granite and they made me a trusty. I had been there about 10 months when I just got tired of waiting for a parole."

In Army During World War.

He described his flight, his wanderings about the country, an enlistment in the army during the World War, and finally a letter to President Roosevelt through which he obtained his present $102-a-month job as a statistician for the United States Department of Labor.

Watts, presenting his request, declared "the welfare of 1500 inmates of our penal institutions is at stake in this case." He said the freedom of all trusties would have to be curtailed if Chilton were not returned.

"To say that other trusties would escape if Chilton is allowed to remain in Ohio," Gov. Davey replied in his decision, "is hardly a sufficient argument in my judgment. If they did and made good as Mr. Chilton has, we would all be better off."

GRAND JURY RECONVENES, NO MORE VOTE INQUIRY LIKELY

Foreman Confers With Circuit Attorney; to Adjourn Sept. 11; New Body Sept. 14.

The June term grand jury reconvened at 10 a. m. today, following a conference between the foreman, John J. Griffin, vice-president of the Mutual Bank and Trust Co., and Circuit Attorney Franklin Miller.

No further inquiry into the wholesale registration frauds, exposed by the Post-Dispatch, was in prospect. This grand jury, in a 17-day investigation, indicted 23 persons on misdemeanor charges and seven on felony charges, in the registration and primary election cases.

Visits to institutions and consideration of other cases, not connected with election matters, were expected to take up the rest of the body's time until adjournment Sept. 11. The next grand jury will be impaneled by Circuit Judge Robert J. Kirkwood, Sept. 14.

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS CONSIDER BOND REFERENDUM

One for Refunding General Revenue Deficit and Other for Unemployables.

Plans are being considered by County Court Judges Thomas H. Thatcher and Eugene G. Tighe, and County Auditor Edwin O. Harper for submitting to referendum in the November election, two bond issues of $500,000 each, one for refunding the general revenue accumulated deficit and the other for relief of unemployables.

The plans propose retirement of the bonds, 20-year issues at 3 per cent, from general revenue funds by reduction of the existing budget and economies in county departments.

While the county is keeping its general expenditure for 1936 within the total income of $1,050,000, the Judges said, there will be an estimated deficit of $450,000 at the end of the year, which has accumulated over a long period. Anticipation warrants already have been issued for $1,035,000 of the year's general revenue.

To retire the bonds, if voted, Harper estimated $68,000 would be needed from the general revenue for the first year's payment of interest and principal, decreasing annually to $51,500 in the twentieth year. He emphasized these annual payments would have to be set aside first in the budget, and economies effected to make up the amounts.

The relief bonds would be sold as needed. At present there are 530 unemployables receiving relief from county funds. The August payments totaled $4275, about half the required amount.

BOY, 5, ACCIDENTALLY SHOT BY NEIGHBOR CLEANING PISTOL

Tilton Cockrell, 16, Says He Does Not Know How Weapon Fired; Child Gravely Hurt.

Oliver Riess Jr., 5 years old, 5015 McKissock avenue, was shot and seriously wounded today when a .41 caliber revolver was discharged accidentally by Tilton Cockrell, 16. The bullet struck Oliver in the left side of the chest and passed through his body.

The accident occurred in the Cockrell home, 5017 McKissock avenue, while the youth was cleaning the weapon. He told police that the pistol was loaded with one bullet, but he did not know how the weapon fired. The revolver, an obsolete type, belongs to his mother, Mrs. Leola Cockrell, he said.

Oliver was taken to City Hospital, where physicians said his condition was serious.

MRS. SARAH LEHBOLD, 'SALLY THE CANDY WOMAN,' DIES

Sold Sweets and Fruits for 50 Years, Part of Time Exclusively at Rice-Stix Co.

Funeral services for Mrs. Sarah Lehbold, known as "Sally, the candy woman," to employes of Rice-Stix Dry Goods Co., where she sold fruit and candy for more than 50 years, will be held Thursday at 2 p. m. at Berger mortuary, 4715 McPherson avenue, with burial in Mount Sanai Cemetery. She died yesterday of infirmities of age.

Mrs. Lehbold, who was about 74 years old, began vending candy and fruit among the old wholesale houses in the district near Third street and Washington avenue. For about the last 25 years she sold exclusively at the Rice-Stix company, and since 1920 has operated a stand on the first floor of the firm's building at Washington avenue and Tenth street. The stand was built for her by the management.

The late William Stix, one of the founders of the company, gave her a monopoly on selling candy at the store, and before his death gave her the privilege of vending there as long as she pleased. She resided with a son, Joseph, at 1108 Madison street. Another son and three daughters survive.

6 HURT WHEN AUTO COLLIDES WITH ONE ON WRONG SIDE

Man Driving on Left of Street Had Been Drinking, Physicians Say.

Mrs. Thelma Sawade, 39 years old, of 841 East De Soto avenue, suffered a fractured skull and lacerations of the face at 9 o'clock last night in the head-on crash of two automobiles at Gravois and Hamburger avenues, in which six persons were injured.

Mrs. Sawade was riding in a car being driven by her daughter, Merlin, 18, when it collided with one being driven on the wrong side of the street. The driver of the other car said he was Charles Stokes, 34, of 5217 Bancroft avenue. He suffered injury to his ribs and a lacerated scalp and was taken to City Hospital, where physicians said he had been drinking.

Two other men riding with him, Jacob Jetty, 2034 McCausland avenue, and James King, 5024 Botanical avenue, suffered minor injuries. Miss Merlin Sawade and her sister, Dolores, 21, who was also in the car, suffered cuts and bruises and were treated at the hospital.

HOW THREE DIED IN MINE TRYING TO SAVE BROTHER

When Owner of Fulton Shaft Collapsed From Gas, Father-in-Law Told Friend to Call Help.

By the Associated Press.

FULTON, Mo., Sept. 1.—Three of the four brothers who were killed by carbon-monoxide from a gasoline engine in the Metz coal mine near here yesterday gave their lives in an effort to save the fourth and his father-in-law, it was disclosed today. The body of the fourth brother was removed yesterday and the other three today.

The bodies of the three were brought up from the shallow shaft of the Metz mine, three and one-half miles northwest of here, by Raymond Fenton and M. S. Woods, Columbia (Mo.) firemen. The rescue work was directed by Fire Chief T. M. Walden of Columbia, and Arnold Griffith, State Mining Inspector.

Walden, wearing an oxygen mask, went down into the hole where Louis Metz, 32 years old, owner of the mine, was killed first, and directed operations. Metz' father-in-law, T. J. Wolfe, 52, who was saved by Roy Anthony, a war veteran, is in a critical condition.

At the bottom, Walden found the bodies of Metz' three brothers, Freddie, 18; Ernest, 28, and Harry, 23, who had entered the narrow 30-foot shaft one by one.

Still in Critical Condition.

Wolfe remained in a hospital here in a critical condition, but attendants said they had noted some improvement through the night. He had been pulled from the shaft unconscious by Jesse Pierson, a coal miner, and Glenn Findling, Fulton fireman.

Pierson, breathing through a handkerchief, made three trips down into the shaft before he succeeded in getting the body of Louis Metz.

The elder Metz and Wolfe entered the mine about sundown last night to pump water from the floor so they could work today. Masnard Chirnside, who had accompanied them to discuss a business deal, discovered they had been overcome as they were taking the pump into the shaft and summoned aid.

"I saw Metz reach for a ladder extending into the shaft," Chirnside said, "then his arms dropped back, and his body wedged itself between the cage holding the pump and the shaft wall.

"Their miners' lamp went out, apparently because of the deadly gas screen, then Wolfe called up and told me to go for help."

Runs for Help.

Chirnside ran a mile to the home of Metz' father, Fred Sr. The three brothers hurried to the mine where one by one they went into the shaft. They were only at the bottom a few minutes before witnesses from above saw them plunge headlong into seven feet of water on the mine floor.

The elder Metz and Wolfe, who is a city employe here, had been letting the pump down by hand on a cage. Chirnside said about 10 feet from the bottom of the shaft they encountered trouble in starting it, and it apparently began sending out carbon monoxide immediately.

Chirnside told how Wolfe, after seeing his son-in-law fall, shut off the engine and attempted to aid him until overcome by the gas himself.

Rescue workers, with little room to work, pulled the bodies of the victims from the mine with ropes.

The mine, opened last winter, had been shut down for the summer months. The disaster was the second in less than two weeks. Two miners lost their lives in a fire and cave-in at a mine near Moberly, Mo., 40 miles away, less than two weeks ago.

Funeral services for the four Metz brothers will be held at the Central Christian Church west of here at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

BLACK LEGION MAN HELD FOR DETROIT

BLACK LEGION 'MAJOR' ARRESTED IN CITY

Says He Came to St. Louis After Being Questioned on Detroit Beating.

Clarence Prince, 31-year-old painter, who readily admitted he was a "major" in the Black Legion, was arrested yesterday on a warrant issued at Detroit, Mich., charging him with assault with intent to kill a Detroit resident who was attacked with an iron bar and beaten by five members of the secret organization.

Prince, when arrested by St. Louis and Detroit detectives at the Eighteenth Street Garage, where he was employed, said he had taken no part in any of the violence with which members of the Black Legion have been accused and said that he did not know George Washer, the man he was charged with assaulting. Washer was beaten May 15, 1933, at Highland Park, Mich.

After being questioned all night by Detroit prosecuting authorities about a month ago, Prince said he was released and told to appear for further questioning about the Washer attack later in the day. Returning home and discussing the matter with his 18-year-old wife, Prince said they decided to leave Detroit and did so immediately, going to Kentucky and then coming to St. Louis. They reside at 2338 Albion place. He said he would resist extradition.

Prince said he rose to the position of "major," in charge of two 20-man "section" of the Black Legion, after becoming a member about three years ago. Previously, he said, he had been a member of the Ku Klux Klan.

Pendergast Still Improving.

THREE KILLED IN PLANE CRASH AT NEW YORK

Craft of World War Flyer Goes Into Spin as He Watches Barn Burn.

By the Associated Press.

EAST MEADOW, N. Y., Sept. 1.—The three occupants of a private airplane were killed when the plane failed to come out of a tailspin and dove into a large field near this Long Island village yesterday.

Lieut. Jack Bishop, the pilot, World War flyer of the Canadian Air Corps, was thought to have lost control of the machine while watching a barn burning near the field.

Bishop and his companions, Roy Anderson, 31, a student pilot, of Jackson Heights, N. Y., and Raymond George William Carlson, 19, of Westbury, N. Y., were killed outright as the plane crashed upside down.

The three men took off from Roosevelt Field 10 minutes before they crashed to investigate the barn fire.

"The plane probably went into a spin while Bishop was watching it," said Oren P. Harwood, Department of Commerce inspector at the field. "For some reason he didn't come out of it. Maybe he didn't figure his altitude right."

Bishop was a business partner of Annette Gipson, aviatrix, operating a private air service at Roosevelt Field. An honorary member of the Nassau County police force, he did aerial patrol duty for them when called on.

Government Aeronautical Inspector Killed in Joliet Crash.

By the Associated Press.

JOLIET, Ill., Sept. 1.—United States Department of Commerce investigators sought the cause today of a plunge in a midget racing monoplane last night which killed Cecil De Lasaux, about 35, a Government aeronautical inspector of Chicago.

The craft plummeted from about 500 feet last night three miles south of the Joliet airport after De Lasaux had taken it up on a test flight. Motor trouble was the apparent cause, a witness said.

The plane was registered in the name of Sidney Allen, Chicago Lieutenant in the National Guard, with whom the inspector was said to have been associated in developing the sped craft for the National air races at Los Angeles.

At Chicago, the aeronautics division said De Lasaux had been on the staff since 1929 in Chicago, St. Louis and Milwaukee.

TEN YEARS FOR 'WRECK PLOT' TO KILL HUSBAND

Mrs. Mary Vann Denied New Trial; Florida Engineer Backed Wife's Plea of Not Guilty.

By the Associated Press.

MILTON, Fla., Sept. 1. — Circuit Judge L. L. Fabisinski denied Mrs. Mary Vann's plea for a new trial yesterday and sentenced her to 10 years' imprisonment on charges of conspiring to kill her husband, I. W. Vann, by wrecking the passenger train he operated.

When asked if she had anything to say, Mrs. Vann replied: "I am not guilty."

The Judge told her all evidence pointed to her guilt. He said she had had a fair trial.

Mrs. Vann, 40 years old, and Earl Travis, a carpenter, were charged with plotting the death of Mrs. Vann's 60-year-old husband to permit them to collect his life insurance and be married.

Vann, veteran engineer, said his train roared safely over a buckling rail on two occasions.

Travis is at Pensacola, awaiting trial in the September term of court. Mrs. Vann asked for a change of venue and her trial was transferred here.

Mrs. Vann's husband has defended her steadfastly, declaring his belief in her innocence.

The Negroes—Allen Langston and Allen Findley—pleaded guilty to attempting to wreck the Louisville & Nashville Railroad train. They are in jail awaiting sentence.

Langston, 70-year-old "voodoo doctor," said Mrs. Vann offered him $400 or $500 for "a good job" of wrecking the train.

OPEN SEASON ON DUCK HUNTING MAY BE CANCELED IN 1937

U.S. Biological Survey Chief Says Bar May Be Necessary to Preserve Flocks.

By the Associated Press.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Sept. 1.—Ira N. Gabrielson, chief of the United States Biological Survey, said today cancelling of any open season on duck hunting may be necessary in 1937.

Gabrielson addressed the thirtieth annual convention of the International Association of Game, Fish and Conservation Commissioners.

He said the Survey should be able to determine after this season whether the flocks can be brought back to nearly normal numbers without a complete bar on duck hunting.

Found After Hour Under Sand Pile.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Sept. 1.—Physicians found 24-year-old James Azzone in "fairly good condition" today despite his experience of being buried under several tons of sand for an hour in a gravel plant cave-in. Azzone was swallowed up yesterday when a pile of sand in a gravel bind collapsed. He crouched and held his arms in front of his face. A small air pocket was formed under his body. It kept him alive until rescuers dug him out 40 minutes later.

STATE ELECTION PRINTING TO COST $105 PER COUNTY

With Insurance Code Move It Would Have Been Approximately $2500, Officials Point Out.

PROPOSAL WAS KILLED AUG. 6

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Sept. 1. — Newspapers in each county of the State which will be awarded contracts by Secretary of State Dwight H. Brown for publication of the text of initiative proposals, in advance of the November election, will receive only $105 each this year, instead of the approximately $2500 that was in prospect before the proposed insurance code revision measure was barred from the ballot recently by court order.

Under past practice the publication contracts, to be awarded by Brown some time during September, will go to Democratic newspapers except where no Democratic paper is published in a county.

A computation of the space required for publication of the text of the four proposals which will appear on the election ballot, just completed by the Secretary of State's department, shows that the initiative printing, which has been a political plum in many past election years, will amount to the $105 for each county. This is based on five publications of the text of the initiative proposals, at the maximum State rate of 21 per square of 250 ems for the first publication, and 50 cents per square for each of the other four publications.

Insurance Code Barred Aug. 6.

The State law requires an award of the publication of the text of the initiative proposals to one newspaper in each of the 114 counties and the City of St. Louis. In the past, when the printing has amounted to a considerable sum, it has been the practice of the Secretary of State to split the award in counties where there was more than one newspaper of the political affiliation of the Secretary of State.

The insurance code initiative proposal, as has been told, was barred from the ballot of the November election last Aug. 6 by Circuit Judge E. L. Alford of Hannibal, sitting as a special judge in Cole County Circuit Court, in an injunction suit filed by Attorney-General Roy McKittrick. The order was based on a showing by McKittrick of extensive irregularities in the circulation of initiative petitions to place the proposal, rejected by the 1935 Legislature, on the ballot.

The insurance proposal, had it gone on the ballot, would have resulted in a $275,000 raid on the State Treasury for the benefit of rural newspapers which caused the initiative petitions to be circulated. McKittrick estimated the total cost of submitting the proposal, including election costs, had it gone on the ballot, would have been $325,000.

When the insurance code petitions were being circulated the identity of the persons of the proposal was kept a mystery. After the petitions were filed last June 30, and after McKittrick's investigation developed frauds, a group of rural newspaper publishers conferred with him and issued a statement that the petitions had been circulated at the instance of rural newspapers, and that about 80 newspapers had contributed to the cost of the work. The publishers promised co-operation in McKittrick's inquiry.

Proposals on Ballot.

The four proposals to go on the ballot, the first two submitted through joint and concurrent resolutions passed by the 1935 Legislature, are as follows:

Proposed constitutional amendment fixing the pay of members of the Legislature at $1500 a year. The present pay is $5 a day for the first 70 days of a session and $1 a day thereafter, except that in decennial revision sessions the $5 a day rate is in effect for the first 120 days.

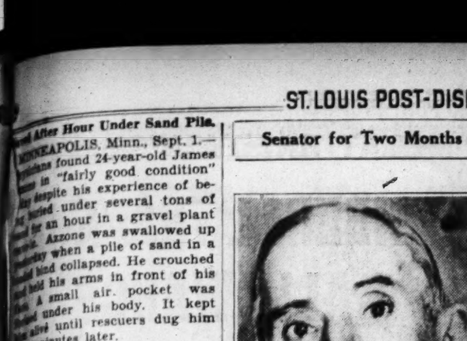

Proposed constitutional amendment authorizing municipalities with organized fire departments to permit the pensioning of any fireman. The present provision limits pensions to disabled firemen and dependents of firemen killed in service.

Proposed constitutional amendment, submitted through initiative petitions, to authorize payment of pensions to teachers in the public schools.

Proposed constitutional amendment, submitted through initiative petitions, to create a non-partisan State Conservation Commission, to supervise game, fish, wild life and forestry conservation activities in Missouri.

These four proposals will be certified to county election officials by Secretary of State Brown, in October, for a place on the initiative and referendum ballot of the November general election.

ANNOUNCING . . .

2 more Reductions in Long Distance Telephone Rates

EFFECTIVE SEPTEMBER 1

1.

On calls to points over 234 miles distant, the charge for a 3-minute conversation is reduced by amounts ranging from 5¢ to $1.50, depending upon the distance.

Overtime charges on "person-to-person" calls are reduced after three minutes of overtime to the lower "station-to-station" overtime rate. (Overtime charges begin after three minutes of conversation.)

This is the seventh time in ten years that voluntary reductions in long distance rates have been made. It is estimated that the new reductions will save telephone users in Southwestern Bell territory $1,100,000 a year.

These lower rates, of course, do not yet appear in the long distance table in your telephone directory. Ask "Long Distance" for new low rates to points you may want to call.

SEATTLE PAPER ATTACKS VALIDITY OF WAGNER LAW

Replying to Guild, It Says Action Challenges Free Press, Calls Business Intrastate.

By the Associated Press.

SEATTLE, Sept. 1.—The Seattle Post-Intelligencer answered the American Newspaper Guild complaint yesterday, challenging the constitutionality of the Wagner Labor Relations Act and the jurisdiction of the Regional Labor Relations Board here.

The reply, sent to Charles W. Hope, director of the Regional Board, bore the signatures of W. V. Tanner, resident publisher of the paper; H. Sylvester Garvin and Edward G. Woods, attorneys representing the newspaper.

A dissent to the charges made by the guild in its original complaine against the Post-Intelligencer was included. The guild had contended that Frank M. Lynch, a photographer, and Everhardt Armstrong, drama critic, were discharged for guild activity. The Post-Intelligencer management said they were discharged for cause.

"No Business Place in State."

The company's answer was accompanied by a motion to dismiss the International News Photos, Inc., as respondent, "for the reason that there is no such corporation," it having been dissolved, and to quash service as to William Randolph Hearst, the Hearst Consolidated Publications, Inc., Hearst Corporation and American Newspapers, Inc., because they had no place of business nor residence in the State.

Attorney E. D. Salinger appeared for Hearst and the corporations in the motion to quash, and O. W. Merritt, assistant secretary of Hearst Publications, Inc., signed the answer and motion to dismiss.

The answer stated Lynch "was discharged * * * by reason for his inefficiency, inability and unwillingness to perform the work reasonably required of him * * * and that by his subsequent conduct he has disqualified himself from possible reinstatement." Armstrong's dismissal was ascribed to "gross insubordination and his unwillingness to comply with reasonable orders."

Chiefly Intrastate Business.

The answer contended the Post-Intelligencer conducts a chiefly intrastate business, "less than 3 per cent of its daily circulation and less than 8 per cent of its total circulation ever going outside the State of Washington."

The answer, made in the name of the Hearst Publications, Inc., contended that the filing of the complaint by the National Labor Relations Board and the proceedings and relief attempted to be had thereunder * * * are illegal and void and contrary to the Constitution of the United States in that such proposed actions would abridge respondent's freedom of speech and of the press as guaranteed "particularly by the First Amendment."

Declaring the newspaper could not obtain its records because "the public authorities charged with the maintenance of law and order have failed to preserve respondent's constitutional right of free access into its property," the Post-Intelligencer reserved the right to amend its answer.

The Guild a few days ago offered to escort employes through picket lines into the building to obtain the records.

Hungry Man Chokes on Crust.

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—Ernest Christoffersen, unkempt and weary, walked into a Brooklyn seamen's branch of the Y. M. C. A. yesterday and hurried to the kitchen. The first bit of food he saw was a crust of bread. He wolfed it and choked to death.

$15,000 BEHIND ON ALIMONY

New York Apartment Builder Jailed for Non-Payment.

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—Michael E. Paterno, contractor, who built many of the largest apartments along Park and Fifth avenues, has been in jail for a week for non-payment of alimony, it was disclosed last night.

According to papers filed in Supreme Court, he was arrested at his office on the complaint of his former wife, Mrs. Marie S. Paterno, who was awarded $400 a month alimony when they were divorced in 1919. The complaint asserted that she was destitute because the payments were $15,330 in arrears. They were married in 1910.

How to Overcome Summer Skin Irritations

It is a well known fact that summer skin irritations are greatly on the increase. Often they are both annoying and embarrassing as well. However, summer chafing, pimples, rash or skin irritations can be quickly reduced by the use of a little Ice-Mint, which may be obtained from your druggist at very small cost. Ice-Mint is a very cooling, soothing preparation which quickly brings real comfort to those suffering from any unpleasant summer skin irritations. Try it. Ice-Mint is highly recommended and there is nothing better for either children or adults.

NEW DIVISION TO COLLECT EMPLOYERS' EXCISE TAX

Only Four in Office Now But 50 to 60 Are Expected by Jan. 1.

A new division for the supervision and collection of the Federal excise tax from employers of eight or more persons was opened yesterday in the local bureau of Internal Revenue Department.

Collector Thomas J. Sheehan announced Edwin J. Paulette, chief of the miscellaneous tax division, has been transferred to head the new division, with Miss Marie McCabe, formerly a clerk in the cashier's office, as his secretary. Harry H. Hope, who has been supervisor of WPA workers in Sheehan's office, will succeed Paulette in his old position.

The new tax, which ranges between 1 per cent and 3 per cent of payrolls, became effective Jan. 1 last, and must be reported for collection by employers not later than next Jan. 30.

While only four workers are now employed in the new division, Collector Sheehan said he expected to have between 50 and 60 working regularly in the office by Jan. 1.

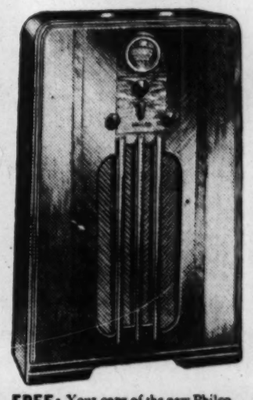

Agents of the office will make checks of the payrolls of all employers in the eastern half of the state and will investigate all complaints.

Building a Greater Store

New Fashion Shops

Perhaps we've been letting you take us a little too much for granted, or, it may be we are unusually modest in not talking about ourselves. So many of our friends have said, "why don't you tell everybody about your marvelous improvements." That's what we plan on doing throughout the month of September. You can set yourself for many surprises. We take "time out" today to bring to your attention the marvelous improvement of our Fashion Shops on the Third Floor . . . they're modern . . . colorful . . . bright and cheery. Here we have assembled what we think you will conceive to be an outstanding collection of Fall and Winter fashions. An inspection of our Third Floor tomorrow will prove a thrilling experience for you. These improvements reflect our deep sense of responsibility to our customers who have so wholeheartedly endorsed our policies and our aims for greater service and greater convenience.

MAN ACCUSED OF MURDER IS SHOT FROM AMBUSH

Farmer Struck in Face and Chest With Shotgun Slugs Near Advance, Mo.

By the Associated Press.

BLOOMFIELD, Mo., Sept. 1.—Orville Gwaltney, 35-year-old farmer, who is scheduled to go on trial in Circuit Court next Monday on charges of murder, was shot from ambush near Advance shortly before noon today. He said he did not see the would-be assassin. Slugs from a shotgun struck him in the face and chest, inflicting serious wounds.

Released from jail here about a month ago on writ of habeas corpus through the Supreme Court, Gwaltney returned to his home in the north part of the county, where, Sheriff Barham said, feeling was tense against him there. He was awaiting trial in connection with the killing last March of John Cooper, a neighbor, as result of a feud of long standing.

BANKRUPT HELD IN PLOT TO BOMB ATTORNEY'S AUTO

S. E. Morgan, Utility Man, and Two Others Accused of Attempt During Hearing at Little Rock.

By the Associated Press.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Sept. 1.—Two counties and the Federal Government filed charges yesterday against S. E. Morgan, former wealthy utilities operator, in connection with an alleged plot to bomb an automobile owned by Attorney D. D. Panich.

Morgan was arrested here today on county charges of accessory to assault with intent to kill. A Federal charge of conspiracy to intimidate a Government witness was filed at Fort Smith.

V. E. Tyler, Little Rock investigator, was charged with assault with intent to kill and E. D. Williams, Little Rock mechanic, was charged with being an accessory.

Deputy Prosecuting Attorney Henry Spitzberg said a bomb was attached to the motor of Panich's automobile before he drove away from a court hearing June 22.

Officers said the bomb apparently was prevented from exploding by the insulating effect of paint on the motor.

In the car at the time of discovery also were C. V. Updegraff, a witness against Morgan in bankruptcy actions, and Attorney Arthur Adams, aid to Panich as representative of Ed Bleiden, trustee for Morgan's bankrupt estate.

CROWD HELPS NEGROES ESCAPE FROM AGENTS

Two Men Arrested After Disarming of Federal Officers in E. St. Louis.

Warrants charging felonious assault upon a Federal agent in execution of his duties were issued at East St. Louis today against Eugene and Fred Woodard, Negro brothers, 102 North Ninth street, East St. Louis, after they had been identified by two Federal alcohol Tax Unit agents as the men who aided a Negro woman prisoner to escape from them yesterday. The woman disarmed one of the agents and a crowd of Negroes threw sticks and stones at the officers, forcing them to retreat.

One of the agents, C. E. Watters, was bruised on the back and leg and cut in the neck by stones. The other officer, Hal A. Fehrman, was uninjured.

They had arrested the woman, Vera Cooper, Saturday night on a charge of possessing untaxed liquor, but released her on her promise to appear before the United States Commissioner yesterday. When she failed to show up, they went to her home at 1012A East Broadway to get her.

Find Crowd Waiting.

"I went up and brought her down, leaving Fehrman on guard at the bottom of the steps," Watters related. "When we got out on the sidewalk a crowd of 75 Negroes had gathered. Two Negro men, one large and the other small, began arguing with us, saying 'You ain't going to take this woman away.' So we told them they were under arrest and to get into our automobile.

"Most of the Negroes in the crowd picked up sticks and stones. They had blood in their eyes, I wasn't armed, and Fehrman wouldn't draw his pistol to keep the crowd back, but I was going to protect myself, so I took the pistol and held it on the crowd until they calmed down.

"As I started to put the big Negro in the car, he grabbed the pistol. We scuffled. The little Negro wrestled with Fehrman. The Cooper woman snatched the pistol out of my hand, and backed off and pointed it at us. She said, 'you get out of here.' Some of the Negroes began throwing stones at us, several of them hitting me. We wanted to avoid further trouble, so we walked away, leaving our automobile.

Negro Detectives Arrive.

They telephoned F. V. Abramson, agent in charge of the East St. Louis unit, who had police send a squad of Negro detectives to the scene. The three prisoners had fled, and the detectives dispersed the crowd.

Several hours later, Eugene Woodard surrendered Fehrman's pistol to police. He said Vera Cooper had given it to him, and he did not want to get into trouble by keeping it. Later, he was identified by the two agents as the "big Negro" who had scuffled with Watters over the pistol, and admitted it. He said his brother was the "little Negro" who had fought with Fehrman. To a reporter he said: "I didn't know they were agents. They didn't flash badges. I grabbed the pistol to keep from getting shot."

He and his brother pleaded not guilty before the commissioner.

Assaulting a Federal officer in performance of his duty is a felony, the maximum penalty being 10 years in the penitentiary and a $1000 fine.

Abramson explained that the Alcohol Tax Unit agents are under strict orders from Washington not to shoot unless absolutely necessary. "If we kill anyone in an affray like this one, our jobs are in danger," he said.

The practice of releasing suspected bootleggers on their promise to appear before the Commissioner, instead of holding them in jail or forcing them to give bond will be halted, he said. "We've been courteous to them up to now," he said. "But from now on we're going to be tough."

WHITE TAILED DEER SENT TO MISSOURI FROM NORTH

Imported Animals Being Held in Pen Near Centerville, Mo., for Breeding Purposes.

Two shipments of white-tailed deer have been sent to Missouri from Minnesota and Wisconsin by the Forest Service of the United States Department of Agriculture and are being held in a recently constructed 90-acre wire deer pen near Centerville, Mo., in the Clark National Forest.

The pen was built as part of a deer restocking program in the Ozarks, inaugurated by the Forest Service in co-operation with the Missouri Game and Fish Department. The imported deer will be held in the pen for breeding purposes and when the animals have increased in number, they will be reelased. According to Forest Service officials, more deer will arrive later in the year.

ONE-DAY 'PROTEST HOLIDAY' AGAINST CONTINENTAL OIL CO.

Union Acts Because of Cancellation of Lease—100 Men May Stay Out Indefinitely.

Members of the Gasoline Service Station and Warehouse Employes' Union, who are employed in handling of gasoline of the Continental Oil Co., have been ordered not to report to work tomorrow in a one-day "protest holiday" against the cancellation of the lease of a union member of the company.

The holiday will affect about 100 employes in filling stations and warehouses of the company on both sides of the river. I. L. Frowitter, secretary of the union, said the holiday would be continued indefinitely unless an agreement was reached with the company.

According to Frowitter, the dispute arose over the cancellation of the lease of Joseph Hellwig, operator of a filling station at 4201W Natural Bridge avenue. Some time ago, he said, Hellwig was notified by the company that his commission of gasoline sales would be reduced one-quarter of a cent a gallon for increased rental of the station. When the union protested in his behalf, Hellwig received notice that his lease, which expired today, would not be renewed, Frowitter said.

It was said at the office of the oil company that no statement would be made at this time.

ST. LOUIS DAIRY BOUGHT 85 MILES of MILK BOTTLES

MILK BOTTLES disappear. Often they are cracked or broken; housewives do not always find it convenient to place the empty bottles outside for collection; occasionally—although always the property of the dairy—milk bottles are misused for other purposes in homes and elsewhere.

WHEN you buy a bottle of milk you pay for the milk plus a very small but necessary cost for the convenience of getting it to you in a sanitary container. You would not change it.

To replace missing bottles, and to supply milk to its new customers, St. Louis Dairy last year purchased 1,402,416 new bottles—from a St. Louis concern, of course; enough bottles to reach from St. Louis to four miles beyond Hermann, Missouri, by air line! And we bought cases for these bottles and millions of bottle caps.

These are simply additional examples of how your milk dollar is redistributed by St. Louis Dairy throughout this trading area; of things we have to buy in order to sell milk.

Try a bottle of St. Louis Dairy Perfectly Pasteurized milk tomorrow morning. You'll find it fresh and rich and pure.

NEW YORK MILK PRODUCERS SET SECRET DATE FOR STRIKE

Secretary Tells Dairymen It will Be Announced "36 Hours Beforehand."
By the Associated Press.

DELHI, N. Y., Sept. 1.—Felix Piseck, secretary of the New York Milk Producers' Federation, Inc., said yesterday that the date for a milk strike has been decided on and would be made known "36 hours before it is to take effect."

The statement came during his speech to dairymen from Delaware and Otsego counties in Legion Park here.

Felix Piseck and his brother, Stanley, president of the producers' federation, have been leaders in the movement for a milk holiday if demands for a $3 per hundredweight price for all milk and abolition of the classified price system are not met.

Movie Comedian Seeks Divorce.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 1.—Lionel Stander, $40,000-a-year movie comedian, sued his wife, Lucy, for divorce today, charging she often refused to converse, was cruel to him and abused him verbally. He filed a property settlement proposal by which he would pay his wife $150 a week for the support of herself and their only child, Michele Louise Stander, 3.

FIRM LOSES 5TH LOW BID PLASTERING JOB

Keystone Company Secretary Gives Inability to Hire Union Men as Cause.

Another plastering job on a public building has been lost by the Keystone Plastering Co., 5463 Queens avenue, because of its inability to get union men to do its work, according to Charles H. Schaffner, secretary of the company. This makes the fifth job lost in a period of slightly more than a year.

Schaffner said that his company had made the low bid of $2472 for the plastering work on the new Deer Street Police Station and had been awarded the contract by the Paulus Construction Co., general contractors. Several weeks ago, however, when the Keystone company was unable to get men to do the work, the contract was given to the Peter Goeddel & Son Plastering Co., whose bid amounted to $208 more.

Other plastering jobs which the Keystone company has lost were those for the arena part of the Municipal Auditorium, the south wing and the nurses' home at the new Homer G. Phillips Hospital for Negroes, and the new high school being built at Kingshighway boulevard and Arsenal street. On each one of these it had made the low bid.

Federal Indictments.

It was the loss of the Auditorium job which brought about an investigation by the Federal Government which eventually resulted in the indictment by a Federal grand jury last spring of five plastering contractors and four union labor leaders on charges of conspiracy to defraud the Government by fixing excessive prices on public works plastering jobs.

The trial of the nine is set for early in October. The indictments charge that they, by obtaining control of the Plasters' and Lathers' Union and setting up their own contractors' association, dominated the plastering field in the city. They then forced, or attempted to force, according to the indictment, all contractors to do their will on threat of bodily harm or impairing or cutting off their labor supply.

On the "Unfair List."

In the case of the Deer Street Police Station it was the same old story for the Keystone company. More than a year ago union leaders placed the company's name on the "unfair list," which means that no union men can work for the company. Since then the company has been able to do only estimates and submit bids, but no work.

When asked at the time of the loss of the earlier jobs why the Keystone company had been placed on the unfair list, William Anderson, business agent for the Plasterers' Union and one of the nine indicted, said it was for "violation of union rules." He would not elaborate this statement.

JESSE BARRETT SPENT $181 IN CAMPAIGN

Committee for Him to File Expense Statement Later; Lawrence McDaniel Out $1820.

Jesse W. Barrett, Republican nominee for Governor, spent $181.18 of his own funds in the primary election campaign, according to his statement filed today in the office of the Recorder of Deeds. A memorandum accompanying his statement said that J. Sydney Salkey, treasurer of a campaign committee for Barrett, would file a statement of its expenses.

Lawrence McDaniel, unsuccessful candidate for the Democratic nomination for Judge of the Supreme Court, Division No. 1, spent $1820, including printing, $660; postage and stationery, $500; stenographer, $250; office expenses, $150; radio, $100; filing fee, $100, and signs, $60.

Others who filed campaign expense statements were: Henri Chouteau, unsuccessful candidate for the Republican nomination for Lieutenant-Governor, $525; Assistant Circuit Attorney David J. Murphy, Democratic nominee for Circuit Judge, $258.20; Charles F. Meier, unsuccessful candidate for the Republican nomination for Congress in the Eleventh District, $560; Circuit Attorney Franklin Miller, unopposed for the Democratic nomination to succeed himself, $5 for filing fee; Edwin B. Meissner, treasurer of the Moses Hartmann for Circuit Judge Committee, $911.51, including $669 to the Republican City Committee, $1 for each precinct in the city; Chairman Robert E. Hannegan of the Democratic City Committee, elected City Committeeman in the Twenty-first Ward, $215, including $115 for "refreshments and food" on primary day, and Miss Mary Belle Sherry, elected Thirteenth Ward Democratic Committeewoman, $400.

Expenses of other candidates turned in today included: Attorney-General Roy McKittrick, unopposed for the Democratic renomination, $164; R. W. Winn of New London, unopposed for the Democratic nomination for State Treasurer, $425, and James R. Claiborne of St. Louis, defeated for the Democratic renomination for the Twelfth Congressional District, $2859.

John R. Davis of St. Louis, defeated for the Republican nomination for Lieutenant-Governor, turned in expenditures of $525 each.

REPUBLICAN LETTER CONTEST ON 'WHY I AM FOR ROOSEVELT'

Broadcaster William Hard Says New Deal Democrat Will Be Judge.
By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—In a broadcast last night under auspices of the Republican National Committee, William Hard announced a prize contest for letters on the subject, "Why I Am for Roosevelt."

In announcing the contest, Hard said, "The political habit of dodging the arguments of opponents is one that should yield in a democracy to full, frank, direct debate."

"The question of judging the letters has been a difficult problem," he said. "I have feared that New Deal listeners might distrust Republican judges and might imagine that such judges would not recognize good New Deal arguments when they saw them.

"Accordingly, I have prevailed upon Prof. Thomas Vernon Smith of the University of Chicago to be kind enough to act as judge in the deciding of this contest. He is the author of many books of great distinction for their literary as well as their philosophical merits. He is also a participant in practical political life and is a member of the State Senate of Illinois on the Democratic party side. Being both a scholar and a New Deal Democrat, Prof. Smith should be able to judge the letters with a judicious mingling of objectiveness and sympathy."

BROWNS LOSE TO SENATORS IN LAST GAME AT CAPITAL

By James M. Gould.
Of the Post-Dispatch Sport Staff

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1. — The Browns made their final appearance in Washington for the 1936 season by dropping the contest to the Senators.

The score was 5 to 3.

Washington used two recalled players in the lineup—Outfielder Fred Sington and Infielder Johnny Mihalic. Both have been with Chattanooga.

The attendance was estimated at 1000.

Dinneen, Owens and Johnston were the umpires.

The game:

FIRST INNING—BROWNS—Lary walked. Clift hit into a double play, Lewis to Travis to Kuhel. Solters singled to left. Bell walked. West was out, Kuhel to Whitehill, who covered first.

SECOND—BROWNS — Pepper fouled to Kuhel. Hemsley flied to Chapman. Carey flied to Sington.

SENATORS—Stone singled to right. Sington singled to center, sending Stone to third. Travis grounded to Carey, Stone scoring. On a passed ball Sington took third. Mihalic popped to Lary. Millies popped to Carey. ONE RUN.

THIRD — BROWNS — Hogsett was called out on strikes. Lary popped to Mihalic. Clift singled to left. Solters forced Clift, Mihalic to Travis.

SENATORS—Whitehill was called out on strikes. Chapman doubled to left. Hogsett threw out Lewis, Chapman going to third. Kuhel popped to Carey.

SENATORS—Stone lined to Solters. Sington walked. Travis hit into a double play, Hogsett to Lary to Bell.

FIFTH — BROWNS — Hemsley flied to Chapman. Carey flied to Stone. Hogsett bunted and was thrown out by Whitehill.

SENATORS—Mihalic singled to left. Millies singled to left, Mihalic stopping at second. Whitehill bunted foul on the third strike, and it was an automatic strikeoup. Chapman lined to West and Millies was doubled off first, West to Bell.

SENATORS—Lewis singled to right. Kuhel popped to Carey. Stone walked. Sington singled to center, scoring Lewis and putting Stone on third. Travis flied to Pepper, Stone scoring after the catch. Mihalic singled to left, sending Sington to third. Millies forced Mihalic, Lary to Carey. TWO RUNS.

SEVENTH — BROWNS — Bell beat out a slow roller to Lewis. West doubled to right, sending bell to third. Bell scored and West went to third after Pepper's long fly to Sington. Hemsley flied to Chapman, West holding third. Lewis threw out Carey. ONE RUN.

SENATORS—Whitehill popped to Carey. Chapman doubled to left Lewis bunted safely toward third when Hemsley threw badly to first, Chapman scored and Lewis went to second. Kuhel singled to right scoring Lewis. Kuhel took second on a wild pitch. Stone struck out. Sington fled to West. TWO RUNS.

EIGHTH—BROWNS—Bejma batted for Hogsett and was called out on strikes. Lary singled to left. Clift walked. Solters singled to left, scoring Lary and putting Clift on third and taking second himself on the throw to third. Bell flied to Stone, Clift scoring and Solters reaching third after the catch. Mihalic threw out West. TWO RUNS.

NINTH — BROWNS — Pepper lined to Sington. Hemsley grounded out to Kuhel, Carey fouled to Lews.

JOCKEY BRINGS HOME DAILY DOUBLE AGAIN; 6 PERSONS GET $902

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, Sept. 1.—Six persons received $902.80 each today by holding $2 daily double tickets selecting Mere Blaze and Cania, the winners of thefirst and second races.

Jockey Tyrus Meloche rode both winners, making the second consecutive day and thethird time this meeting that he has been the "daily double rider."

Mere Blaze paid $40.20 to win and Cania $35 to win.

Ethan Allen, Cub left fielder, was the big gun in Chicago's 1-0 triumph over the New York Giants yesterday. He doesn't look so good in this picture, when he was out at third trying to advance on a short passed ball, after hitting a two-bagger. However later he hit one long enough to enable him to make third base without assistance and went on to score the only tally of the afternoon.

CHICAGO, Sept. 1.—A dazzling array of gridiron stars raise the curtain on the 1936 football season on the shores of Lake Michigan tonight, when the Collegiate All-Stars and Detroit Lions meet at Soldier Field in football's third annual "Dream Game."

From the opening whistle both teams will "cut loose"—the collegians hoping for the first all star victory and the Lions attempting to do what the Chicago Bears failed to accomplish in 1934 and 1935—decisively trounce the former college aces. The first game ended in a scoreless tie and the second went to the Bears, 5 to 0.

Bernie Bierman of Minnesota, head mentor of the half hundred stars "elected" by fans in a nation-wide poll, said he was confident his squad would give the professional titleholders a great battle and complimented the players on their aptness in mastering plays.

First Teams Will Start.

The starting collegiate lineup was determined by the fans and these stars will answer the opening kickoff: Ends—Wayne Millner, Notre Dame, and Keith Topping, Stanford. Tackles — Dick Smith, Minnesota, and Truman Spain, Southern Methodist. Guards — Paul Tangora, Northwestern, and Vernon Oech, Minnesota. Center—Gomer Jones, Ohio State. Quarterback — Riley Smith, Alabama. Halfbacks—Jay Berwanger, Chicago, and Bill Shakespeare, Notre Dame, and fullback—Sheldon Beise, Minnesota.

The starters, however, aren't expected to monopolize the spotlight. Replacements, Bierman indicated today, will be made often, with Dick Crayne of Iowa, Tuffy Leemans

Two-Hit Game Pitched by Rowe

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 1. — Schoolboy Rowe held the Athletics to two hits, one a home run by Bob Johnson, in the ninth, as Detroit won, 4 to 1, this afternoon. The Tigers scored all their runs in the fourth on five bases on balls, a forceput and an error by Newsome.

WRAY'S COLUMN

On National Anthems.

BEFORE the next Olympic revival in 1940 we hope something will be done about the national anthem situation. At Berlin it was positively brutal in its effect on innocent bystanders.

How many hours of the 16 days the million or more spectators spent standing up on aching dogs, heads exposed to the elements and tired right arms extended while national anthems were being exhaled, our certified accountant has not finished calculating.

But the memory lingers on.

Getting to the 1940 aspect of the situation we contend that the time to correct the evil is now—and the correction may be difficult. Japan is a very imitative nation and may adopt the intensely nationalistic attitude displayed by the Germans at the games.

* *

WE hope not. Following the Berlin experience we can do without national anthems for life, especially German anthems. After the first two or three days of the Berlin games you wondered whether you were attending a sangerfest or an Olympic meet. On the slightest provocation the crowd rose to its feet and burst into song and not content with one they made it two at a crack. It wasn't enough to unload "Deutschland Ueber Alles" on us, they followed right up, without lowering arms or taking a long breath, with the Nazi hymn.

The long suffering press, intent on its work and far behindhand in bulletins and loud speaker announcements, had to knock off work every few minutes, bare the head to the rain or the cold winds and stand up and take it, while the victors were receiving laurels and incipient oak trees, plus a lot of official hooey.

The proceedings unquestionably were cursed sotto voce in not fewer than 51 languages several times each afternoon by some 800 tired and more or less peevish press representatives.

The limit of endurance was reached when the Argentine polo team went to the stand to receive the official works. The Argentines have what they call a national anthem but in reality it has all the earmarks of a fugue and that, we contend, is something that not even the late Mr. Bach himself could sit through.

* * *

Our Three-Dollar Anthem.

WE IN America are not scatheless. We really need a new five-cent anthem. The three-dollar version now current calls not only for endurance but for a vocal range entirely beyond our singing public.

You realize this after your national Olympic group, fired with enthusiasm and perhaps a little eight per cent, reaches that point in vocalization where the "bombs are bursting in air." Only a few squeaky tenors are able to

1926 Cardinals Gamest Club He Ever Saw, Hornsby Says

Rogers Hornsby, at a luncheon honoring the 1926 Cardinals at the Coronado Hotel today, said the team he managed in that historic year was the gamest club he ever saw.

"They showed more co-operation and desire to win than any club I've managed," said Hornsby.

Hornsby's words were in reply to a welcome by Sam Breadon, president of the Cardinals, who gave the luncheon. Attending the affair were Ford Frick, president of the National League, Branch Rickey and other Cardinal officials.

Players of the 1926 Cardinals present were Bill Hallahan, Herman Bell, Sylvester Johnson, Vic Keen, Grover Alexander, Flint Rhem and Jesse Haines, pitchers; Bob O'Farrell and Fírmin Warwick, catchers; Jim Bottomley, Hornsby, Jake Flowers, Lester Bell and George Toporcer, infielders; Chick Hafey, Taylor Douthit, Wattie Holm, Billy Southworth and Ray Blades, outfielders.

FACES FRANKHOUSE IN GAME DELAYED BY RAIN AND CELEBRATION

By W. J. McGoogan.

SPORTSMAN'S PARK, Sept. 1.—Silas Johnson pitched for the Cardinals this afternoon in an effort to give the Redbirds the odd game with the Brooklyn Dodgers in the final game of the series here this afternoon. He was opposed by Fred Frankhouse.

The birthday celebration of the sixtieth anniversary of the National League, including agame played under 1876 rules and a 2½ inning contest between the 1926 and the 1936 Cardinals, delayed the start of the game until 4 o'clock.

The game under 1876 rules between the teams of the police and fire departments will be repeated tomorrow at 3 p. m. in advance of the Cardinals'-Giants scheduled game.

The crowd, which began arriving early for the birthday party, was estimated shortly before game time at 12,000.

Ballanfant, Klem and Sears were the umpires.

ALEXANDER HURLS FOR '26 CARDS AGAINST 1936 REDBIRDS

SPORTSMAN'S PARK, Sept. 1.—One unearned run scored at the expense of "Old Pete" Alexander, was the margin by which the 1936 Cardinals defeated the world championship club of 1926, in a 2½-inning game here today. Only one hit was made off Alexander and Vic Keen, who pitched for the 1926 team, and that was a tap by Charley Gelbert down the third-base line.

Wattie Holm made the only safety for the 1926 club, a double to left.

But two errors, an infield out and an outfield fly gave the 1936 aggregation a run in the opening inning.

The 1926-36 game followed the 1876 contest, and just before it Bill Brandt, publicity director of the National League, introduced the 1926 Cardinals.

Rogers Hornsby was first, and got a tremendous ovation, as did the others, introduced in the following order: Bob O'Farrell, catcher; Billy Southworth, outfielder; Jess Haines, pitcher, who switched from the present team to his old pals for the occasion; Taylor Douthis, outfielder; Lester Bell, third baseman, much more portly than in his playing days; Wattie Holm, outfielder; Jim Bottomley, first baseman; Chick Hafey, outfielder; Jake Flowers, infielder; Bill Hallahan, pitcher; Flint Rhem, pitcher; Vic Keen, pitcher—not so well remembered, although he was the boy who early in 1926 won 10 games to keep the team going; Herman Bell, pitcher; George Toporcer, infielder; Ray Blades, outfielder; Firmin Warwick, catcher; Sylvester Johnson, pitcher.

"Old Pete" Gets Ovation.

Alexander wa sreserved for the last and the fans outdid themselves applauding the greatest hero of the 1926 world series.

The 1926 Cardinals were dressed in gray, the 1936 team in the usual white. The 1926 club occupied the visitors' dugout and it was noticeable that the Brooklyn team, which had nothing to do until all birthday celebrations were over were all out to watch the fun.

Lineups.

The lineup at the start of the game was: 1926—Douthit, cf.; Holm, rf.; Hornsby, 2b.; Bottomley, 1b.; Bell, 3b.; Hafey, lf.; Toporcer, ss.; O'Farrell, c.; Alexander, p. 1936—King, cf.; Fullis, lf.; Collins, rf.; S. Martin, 2b.; Mize, 1b.; Ogrodowski, c.; Gelbert, sst.; Garibaldi, 3b., and Earnshaw, p. The umpires were Klem, Sears and Ballanfant.

The game:

FIRST INNING—1926—Douthit flied to Fullis. Holm doubled to left center. Hornsby flied deep to King, Holm holding second. Bottomley singled to dep short, Holm going to third. Lester Bell, prosperous tavern proprietor of Harrisburg, Pa., couldn't get his bat around fast enough and struck out.

1936—King bunted toward third and wa ssafe on Bell's low throw. That seemed unfair as Bell could hardly stoop fast enough to field a bunt. Fullis hit to Torporcer, whose throw to Hornsby trying to force King at second was wild, King going to third and Fullis to second. King scored and Fullis went to third as Hornsby tossed out Collins. Stuart Martin popped to Torporcer. Mize flied to Douthit. ONE RUN.

SECOND—1926—Hafey struck out. Torporcer fouled to Mize. O'Farrell lined to Fullis.

1936—Vic Keen went in to pitch. Warwick to catch. Jake Flowers to shortstop, Torporcer to second and Blades to left field to rthe 1926 club. Ogrodowski flied to Blades. Gelbert beat out a tap down the third base line. Garibaldi fouled to Warwick. Blades came in fast for Earnshaw's fly.

THIRD—1926—Gonzales went in to catch for the 1936 team. Hallahan batted for Keen and was called out on strikes. Douthit was called out on strikes. Holm flied to King.

Owens Signs With Manager; Two Offers Made Him

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—Jesse Owens, Olympic sprint and broad jump champion, today signed a contract placing his future in the hands of Marty Forkins, Broadway theatrical promoter and manager of Bill Robinson, famous Negro tap dancer.

Forkins said he was considering two offers, one of which would definitely end Owens' amateur standing as it would call for him to run at such events as expositions and county fairs, probably against Eddie Tolan, 1932 Olympic sprint titleholder and now a professional. Forkins also managed Tolan after the 1932 Olympiad.

He also has an offer which would pay Owens $50,000 for a 10-week engagement on the stage. The other, the full plans of which Forkins refused to reveal, would "net Jessie far more than $50,000," according to the Ohio State athlete's new manager. Forkins said he expected to close the deal within the next 48 hours.

GIANTS BUY McCARTHY FROM YANKEES' FARM

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—The New York Giants, leading the National League pennant race, went to their prospective world series opponents for aid yesterday when they purchased First Baseman John J. McCarthy from the Newark Bears, the International League farm of the pace-setting Yankees of the American circuit.

McCarthy, who will report at the end of the International League's play-off series starting next week, is expected to bolster the Giants' crippled first base staff of Manager Bill Terry and Sam Leslie. He will be eligible for the world series as the deadline is midnight tonight.

A member of the Brooklyn Dodgers at the start of the season, McCarthy went to Newark in the trade that sent Buddy Hassett to the major league club. He is batting close to .270.

BUDGE AND MAKO CAPTURE NATIONAL DOUBLES TENNIS TITLE

COAST PLAYERS BEAT ALLISON, VAN RYN TEAM IN THREE SETS

Mrs. Van Ryn and Carolin Babcock Trim Miss Jacobs and Miss Fabyan in Women's Final Match.

By the Associated Press.

BROOKLINE, Mass., Sept. 1. — New doubles champions ruled United States tennis today.

The United States Davis Cup team, Don Budge and Gene Mako, dethroned the veteran champion combination of Wilmer Allison and Johnny Van Ryn in the national doubles tournament, 6—4, 6—2, 6—4.

The Budge-Mako victory, their eleventh this season over Allison and Van Ryn, came as no surprise, but the defeat of Helen Jacobs and Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Fabyan by Mrs. Van Ryn and Carolin Babcock of Los Angeles, 9—7, 2—6, 6—4, did.

Miss Jacobs and Mrs. Fabyan almost won the first set, 6—4, when Miss Jacobs, national and Wimbledon singles queen, was broken in the tenth game and Mrs. Fabyan yielded the sixteenth.

Budge and Mako, runners-up in last year's doubles, unleashed a furious attack upon the veterans yesterday. The defending titlists trailed in the first and second sets when both were unable to uphold their services. Allison maintained his at the opening of the third set, however, but Van Ryn lost his in the third game. They evened the set in the fourth, but the Philadelphian slipped again in the seventh, permitting Budge to run out the match.

Clothier and Davis Win.

Raymond Bidwell and Richard Bishop of Boston were the third set of champions to lose their titles. William J. Clothier of Philadelphia, 1906 national singles champion, and Dwight F. Davis of Washington, donor of the Davis Cup, defeated the veteran's doubles titlists, 4—6, 6—4, 10—8.

Alice Marble and Mako took the mixed doubles title from Mrs. Fabyan and Budge, 6—3, 6—2. Mrs. Fabyan won here last year, teamed with Enrique Maier of Spain.

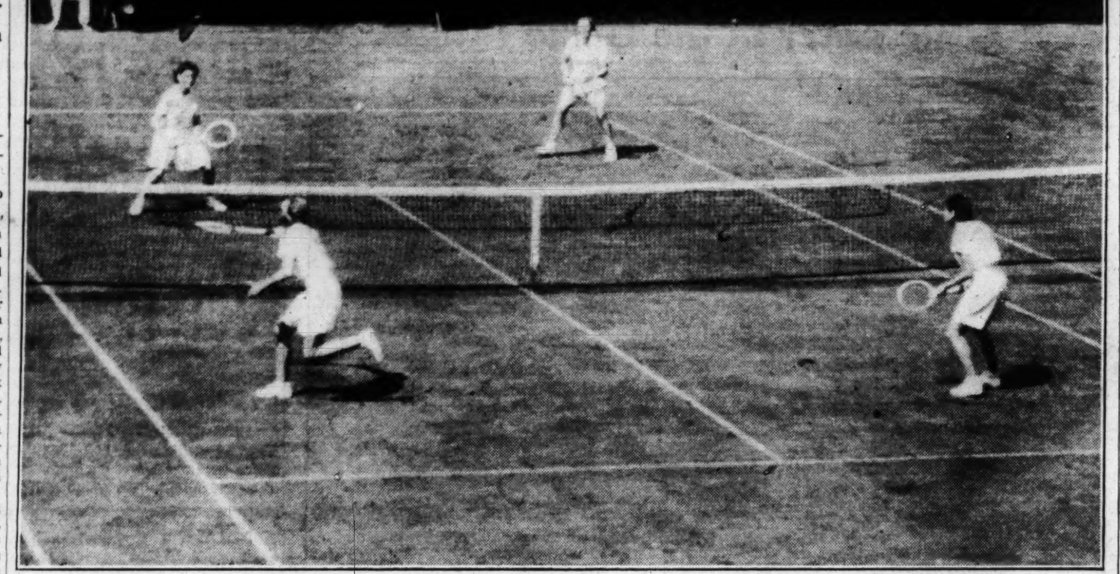

All of the nation's major singles champions were members of losing teams, Allison, Miss Jacobs and Bidwell, who rules the veterans. Allison, who is still bothered by an early-season injury that may require an operation, will not defend at Forest Hills later in the week.

He and Van Ryn were appearing in their sixth annual match in seven years when Budge and Mako reversed the result of last year's final.

Budge and Mako, a pair of brilliant and powerful California youngsters, concentrated the full fury of their vicious attack on Allison from start to finish, forcing the Austin (Tex.) veteran into 38 errors during the 28-game match that was decided in about an hour. Their aggressive tactics enabled Allison, still the best volleyer in the game, to set the stage for 15 placement smashes, which gave him the earned point honors.

Budge totaled 14 earned points and had 27 errors, 19 nets, six outs and two double-faults. Mako's totals were 30 errors and nine earned points, making the same number of nets, outs and placements as Van Ryn, who also had two double faults against none for Mako.

PAIRINGS MADE FOR FOURSOMES IN WALKER CUP TITLE SERIES

By the Associated Press.

CLEMENTON, N. J., Sept. 1.—Both captains, Dr. William Tweddell of England and the veteran Francis Ouimet of United States, benched themselves for the foursomes competition of the ninth renewal of the Walker Cup golf matches starting tomorrow.

Johnny Goodman and Scotty Campbell were named the No. 1 U. S. doubles team, with Hector Thompson and Harry Bentley opposing them.

Thompson and Bentley (England) vs. Goodman and Campbell (U. S.).

Captain Ouimet said he wanted to shift his team for the foursomes and singles to "give all the boys a chance to play." This was taken to mean he would use Dunlap, Fischer and possibly himself in the singles Thursday. Captain Ouimet has never missed a Walker Cup competition, playing in all eight of the international matches, always won by the United States.

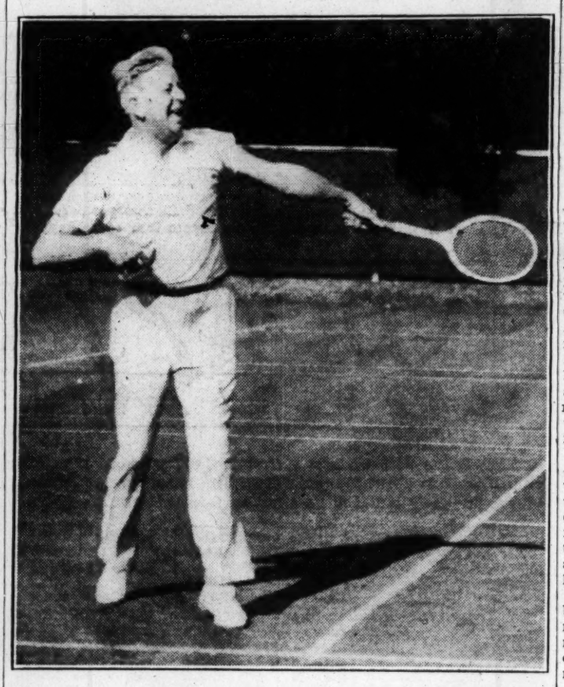

Ouimet later announced he would not play in the matches, foursome or singles, because "I can add nothing to the team, which has players better than I ready to play."

"It will mark the first matches I have missed," he said, "but I think I should give the others a chance to play. I have not been playing as consistently as the others, so am stepping aside. It doesn't mean that I am retiring from golf competition, only from this Walker cup competition."

Ouimet said Fischer and Dunlap, left off the foursomes, definitely would start in the singles Thursday. "I haven't decided on my singles lineup," he explained, "but they definitely will play the singles."

EAST ALTON SHOOTER SETS NEW RECORD IN WINNING TITLE EVENT

CAMP PERRY, O., Sept. 1.—W. B. Woodring of East Alton, Ill., won the 50-meter individual small-bore contest of the national rifle matches today with a score of 400.

Woodring was pressed by V. Z Canfield of Akron, O.; C. F. Rieder of New Kensington, Pa., and J. Davis of Wilkinson, Pa., each of whom had scores of 399. The ties will be decided in a shootoff later, officials said.

Woodring's score bettered the record of 399 set by V. F. Hamer of Sioux Falls, S. D., on the ranges here in 1935. The event is an open match and consists of 40 shots a 50 meters in prone position.

J. I. Davis of Wilkinson, Pa., defeated 292 other competitors to take the Western Trophy small bore match with a record score of 498 points out of a possible 500. The former ercord of 497 was established a year ago by Edward Kent of Dayton, O.

Hollis S. Zaring of Montebello, Cal., also broke the record with 498 points, but was outranked on the long range by Davis.

Third place went to Theodore Folger of Cincinnati, who scored 497 points. Dave Carlson of West Haven, Conn., had the same point total but was outranked and was given fourth place. E. J. Doyle of New Haven, Conn., was fifth with 496.

Davis had a perfect 200 at 50 yards, 198 out of 200 at 100 yards and a perfect 100 at 200 yards. Zaring scored 200 at 50 yards, 200 at 100 yards and 98 at 200 yards. Each competitor fired 20 shots for record on each of the first two stages and 10 shots at the final stage.

By the Associated Press.

RYE BEACH, N. H., Sept. 1.—Husky Mildred "Babe" Didrickson of Dallas, Tex., led the field with a 73 yesterday in the qualifying round of the Eastern women's golf tournament at the Abenaqui Club.

Showers added several strokes to the scores.

Today Miss Didrickson will play Miss Elizabeth Ingersoll of Philadelphia. Miss Helen Dettweiler of Washington, D. C., another favorite, will meet Mrs. J. W. Thompson of Oakley.

DETROIT LIONS ARE FAVORED TO DEFEAT ALL-STAR ELEVEN

of George Washington, Joe Stydahar of West Virginia, Wally Cruice of Northwestern, Glen Seidel of Minnesota and Bobby Wilson of Southern Methodist, among others, expected to see early service.

The Lions, principally because most of them have played together for a number of years, remain slight favorites. A slow starting team last fall, the outfit coached by George (Potsy) Clark finished with a rush which won the title and stamped the club as one of the finest ever to campaign in the National Professional League.

Clark Will Not Start.

While the names of such stars as Berwanger, Shakespeare and Smith are expected to catch the fancy of the spectators, the Lions can offer a number of widely known players, among them Capt. Earl (Dutch) Clark, one of the most publicized in the pro circuit. He will not start, but if the Lions grab an early scoring chance the former Colorado University ace will be rushed into the game. A deadly dropkicker, his talented toe was a factor in almost every Lion victory last fall.

The Lions will hold a weight advantage of almost 10 pounds per man, but Bierman had at his command a number of great blockers he hoped would offset the poundage edge.

The Detroit starting line was expected to be Klewicki and Schneller at the ends; Johnson and George Christensen, tackles; Emerson and Knox, guards, and Randolph, center. Glenn Presnell will call the signals and Ernie Caddel and Frank Christensen will hold down the halfback posts, with Ace Gutowsky at fullback.

BASCOM PLAYS JERRUE TONIGHT FOR TITLE IN BADMINTON TOURNEY

The championships of the four divisions of the Badminton tournament being held on the courts at Clayton and North and South roads will be decided tonight with the first of the four final matches being scheduled to start at 8 o'clock.

The men's single title will be the first to be decided. Sheldon Bascom, who reached the final by two victories last night, will oppose Robert Jerrue for the men's championship at 8 o'clock. Juanita Walters and Jane Conzelman meet in the next event for the women's singles title.

Alfred Wetzel and J. D. Tancill oppose Sid Yawitz and Henry Gowsieow for the men's doubles honors and Miss Conzelman and Jerrue play Lois Keene and Jack Hardy for the mixed doubles championship.

In last night's matches Bascom defeated George Stephens, 15—9, 15—4, and then Oscar Klayman, 15—9, 15—12, while Jerrue won from Gowsieow, 15—9, 15—12, in men's single play. In mixed doubles, Miss Keene and Hardy defeated Edith Alpiser and Tom Flanigan, 15—5, 15—9.

Fast Deputy Sheriff.

LIONS FAVORED AT 1-2 TO WIN ALL-STAR GAME

The Detroit Lions are favored in the betting at 1—2 to win tonight's football game with the college All-Stars, by Charley Burke, St. Louis betting commissioner. The All-Stars are held at 7—5.

F. SCHWARTZ IS LOW SCORER IN PRO QUALIFYING TEST WITH 131

Francis Schwartz shot a brilliant 131 to lead the field in the district 36-hole qualifying round for the National P. G. A. golf tournament yesterday at Meadow Brook Country Club, getting rounds of 66 and 65 for his 11-under-par total. He and Ben Richter, left-handed professional from Triple A, and Ray Schirmer, who tied for second with 141 totals, will represent St. Louis at Pinehurst, N. C., Nov. 14 in the national tournament. Schwartz also won the Fred Evans trophy for medal honors in yesterday's event.

Schwartz was playing a tremendously steady game all day, but it was at such a high level that par took a bad beating. He had a 33 on the first nine and came back in the same number of strokes. On the first afternoon nine he had 32 and came back with a 33 to make his amazing 131 total.

Richter had a 68 in the morning but slipped somewhat on the afternoon round and took a 73. Schirmer had a 71 in the morning but came back with a 70 in the afternoon to tie Richter.

The scores:

141—Ben Richter, Triple A (68-73).
141—Ray Schirmer, unattached (71-70).
142—Coleman Morse, Normandie (70-72).
144—Bob Jesseman, Bellerive (69-75).
146—Ray Schwartz, unattached (72-74).
146—John Manion, Sunset (73-73).
147—Clarke Morse, Normandie (72-75).
148—Alex Ayton, St. Louis Country Club (75-73).
148—Tim O'Connell, Norwood (72-76).
149—Earl Howell, Jefferson Barracks (78-71).
151—Frank Fogertey, Osage (76-75).
151—Les Scandon, University City (78-73).
151—Jack Burns, unattached (75-76).
151—Jim Cockburn, Westwood (77-74).
152—Carl Carello, West Frankfort (80-72).
154—Ralph Schiedegger, Westwood (75-79).
155—Charles Blue, Centralia (76-79).
157—Tommy Kelleher, Norwood (81-76).
158—Tom Roan, Kirksvillye (78-80).

CALUMET EPSOM WINS GRAND CIRCUIT RACE

By the Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 1.—Dr. Hugh M. Parshall piloted Calumet Epsom to victory in the 2:13 trot yesterday in the feature event of the first Grand Circuit racing program at the Ohio State Fair.

In taking the second and third heats of the $1000 event, the little bay mare established the best trotting time of the day, 2:06¼ and 2:07¼. Ned A. Rice of Baltimore is owner.

Sep Palin, who drove Calumet Durham to victory in the first heat, was boxed on the first turn in the second time out, and Parshall took advantage of the situation to bring Calumet Epsom home in front. In the third heat it was Calumet Epsom all the way.

Peter Dear, winner of the first heat in the day's first event, the 2:20 trot, paid the best price of the day, the mutuels refunding $83.60 for each $2 ticket. Juniper, black gelding owned by T. A. Duke of Maysville, Ky., took the next two heats, however, to snatch the victory.

All Guy copped the second and third heats of the 2:22 class pace after letting Symbol Alice slip by him in the first.

BRUNDAGE'S ACTION IN JARRETT CASE DEFENDED BY 'DEE' BOECKMANN

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—A spirited defense of Avery Brundage, president of the American Olympic Committee, for dropping Eleanor Holm Jarrett from the Olympic swimming team was made last night by Dee Boeckmann of St. Louis, Mo., coach of America's successful women's track and field squad.

"In my opinion, Eleanor Holm had had sufficient warning before she was dropped from the team for drinking," Miss Boeckmann, a former Olympic track champion, said.

"Mr. Brundage acted wisely, especially for the protection of the youngsters aboard, some of them 13 and 14 years old."

"1876" TEAMS HELP CARDINALS CELEBRATE 60TH N. L. BIRTHDAY

SPORTSMAN'S PARK, Sept. 1.—The 1876 game was the first on the birthday celebration program here this afternoon with the policemen in white uniforms representing the 'Cardinals" and the firemen in gray the Brooklyn "Atlantics."

Bill Brandt, publicity director of the National League, was the umpire. He was attired in a tall gray hat and black frock coat. He called for the "striker up" and waved his decisions with a cane from a chair to the right of home plate.

The home team was the first to bat and the extra infielder played directly behind second base or behind short, moving about with the other positions as usual except that the catcher stood far back of the plate, catching the ball on the bounce. And he wore no shin guards, chest protector nor mask, not even a glove.

1876 rules prevails; a foul ball was not a strikeand the batter could call for the kind of pitch he wanted.

The second batter was hit by a pitched ball, but was not given his base. But the owner of the club, made up to represent Chris von der Ahe, demanded a substitute, which the "Doctor" who was called upon to decide whether it was necessary, would not allow it. The batter then hit to right field and slid head first into second base for a double.

The next "striker" called for a high pitch, but fouled back of the plate and the catcher caught it on the bounce for the third out.

Shortstop to first retired the first visiting striker and there was a big argument. The umpire said he did not see the play clearly and asked the crowd to decide whether he was right or wrong. The crowd yelled "Wrong!" so the umpire said, "I guess I was wrong, the batter is safe."

Pitcher to second forced the runner, but the throw to first was wild and the batter reached second. He moved up as the next batter grounded to the second baseman.

A long fly to the left fielder finished the inning.

It was raining hard as "St. Louis" batted in its second inning.

Shortstop to first retired the first batter, while the next was safe on the third-baseman's error. He hit the ball as the kids in the left-field stands chanted "We wanta homer.' But it seemed homers would be sarce with the mush ball used. The runner stole second base. The next batter popped to the pitcher, whose throw to second doubled the runner off the base.

The "Brooklyn" striker hit safely to right field in the second inning, and thenext hit a pop fly to center field which was "lost" as several players tried to find it both runners scored.

The first St. Louis batter in the third hit to shortstop and was safe on a wild throw and the next hit to the pitcher and ran around the bases "shooting" the infielder as he ran. He slid into home plate and was called out whereupon the he shot the umpire as the game ended.

Let the Band Do It.

THIS writer is heartily in favor of letting the band do all national-airing for all nations; we are in favor of limiting the anthems to one for each nation; and we would bar Argentina from the Olympic Games until she votes for shorter hours in this National hymn business.

We haven't looked into the Japanese national song situation. Being a fairly ancient nation, the first dynasty in its written history having been established some 2600 years ago, there is every reason to suspect the worst. A nation that has spent 2600 years accumulating national music may be expected to at least three-time us whenever one of its national heroes wins an Olympic contest.

In this event there is one suggestion which we will earnestly plead for with our Nipponese friends — namely, that the press section be exempted from rising and be permitted to don earmuffs at will.

* * *

A Real Two-Dollar Word.

YOU have heard of two dollar words? Olympic Games reporters cabled a lot of them, marked down to 14 cents each.

The real two-dollar word, however, came to light during the pole vault competition at Berlin. Two dollars is about what it cost Japanese newspapers to report, over a direct line telephone from the stadium to Tokio, the progress of the vault.

There were other words, not two-dollar ones, used by the Japanese when our Mr. Earl Meadows beat out Nishida.

This Loyalty Business?

WHAT the next Olympic team needs is a Rogers Hornsby for head coach, a choke 'em Charley Herzog for trainer and a Tugboat Annie for chaperone.

With that crew operating we need expect no more Jarrett incidents; and the McCluskeys, Torrences and other dailiers would be well in hand when the occasion required.

The coaches of the 1936 Olympic team and their aids were all nice people — considerate and trusting. An antidote for that situation is to put in charge some hard-boiled beefers who take nothing for granted and attend to everything themselves.

A soft word turneth away wrath, but it doesn't turn away the mind of the athlete in training from the fleshpots.

Into the Brig With 'Em.

The world wondered when America used all white boys in the 1600-meter relay race instead of running the Negro stars who finished first and third in the 400-meter flat race. He had used Owens and Metcalfe in the 400-meter relay.

Robertson, we were told, had asked Williams and Luvalle, the Negro stars, to run but they told him they were "too tired to compete."

Robertson took it and let it go at that. What a Hornsby would have said we do not even conjecture. In the first place our vocabulary is inadequate. In the second place the tired boys would not stick to the finish, we feel confident—they'd be out there on the mark waiting for that "auf die platze" of the starter, long before the remarks became acute.

JAPAN will be even more difficult than Germany from the standpoint of the newshawk, unless the games are Americanized and the publicity handled in English. As there will be 50 participating nations or more, they can't very well single out English as the official language.

'On the other hand Japanese will be a perfect blotto if publicity and announcements are made in the characters and language of Japan.

English probably would be understood by more nations represented than any other tongue, with the possible exception of French, which for so long was the diplomatic language of Europe.

It wasn't a weakness in caused his knockout at the hands a trick by Joe which failed Jack Blackburn, trainer of the reading Schmeling's story in

However, if it was a mistake made when he dropped his left and left his face open for a hand smash, it won't happen a According to Blackburn, who clared that he and the rest of Louis camp are ready to bet respective shirts on the outcome a rematch.

Immediately after the Louis Max was quoted as giving for discovery of this weak spot his foe's defense to Tom O'Rourke veteran manager of boxers, fell dead in Schmelling's dressing room at the Yankee Stadium before the German went into the ring with the Detroit Negro.

Then in the more recent version published in the magazine it was stated that it was Schmeling himself, with his trainer Machon, who discovered the possibilities for a right-hand against Louis, while watching train for the Paulino Uzcudun match and later in the bout in which Louis won on a knockout in the fourth round.

Today, in a cable to the Dispatch from Berlin, Schmeling states:

The occasion of this advice was O'Rourke came at Napanoch, N. Y., where Schmeling trained for the match, Joe Jacobs, Max's manager, said over the telephone from New York.

Blackburn contends that the knockout is a tactical maneuver of Louis against Schmeling he dropped his left hand hoping to draw a right hand lead, counting then on getting home with his powerful left hand. Max was too quick, his first right hand punch in the second round was too strong and after the plans of the Brown Bomber went away on the night breeze.

Schmeling also mentioned in a magazine story that he had studied Louis amateurish after watching him in a workout for the Uzcudun fight in his Pompton Lakes training camp. Max also admitted that he knew he was watching him and doubtedly didn't do as well as he could.

Yes, there are still attempts to copy the game of the manly art of self-defense to do things other than count the receipts and get the money at the end of the purse. Sometimes managers and boxers will go to extreme lengths to fool the other fellow before a fight, sometimes before the match is even made, as in this case.

They Put on a Show.

Blackburn laughed when he told about that angle.

"Sure I remember the time Schmeling was in our camp. It came there with Jim Braddock and I said to Louis, 'Chappie, Schmeling and Braddock are out of shape. Now get a little careless. Let them bear down on your sparring partners, let them hit you, roll with the head with the punches and see if they won't hurt much, even if you get knocked down, that's all right, we'll trick them guys.' And that's pie' did. He looked pretty bad in the afternoon as Schmeling noticed.

"Do you think the fact that

Experience Gained Will Aid

However, Blackburn believes the bitter lesson which 'Schmeling taught Louis will in the future be of untold benefit to Joe.

In training for the bout with Starkey all of the ego had disappeared from the Bomber, according to his trainer, who says it was like starting all over again. Joe was ready to listen to anyone and do all in his power to follow the instructions which were given him.

"Did you think before the Schmeling fight that Louis was the greatest heavyweight you had ever seen?" the trainer was asked.

Blackburn himself fought professionally for nearly 24 years, weighing only 136 pounds, but boxing stars in the heavier weight divisions.

"I thought Louis was a great fighter before he was knocked out by Schmeling and even that hasn't changed my opinion in the least," Blackburn replied, "you must remember that Joe is still a young-ster and all of the publicity he received, newspapers calling him a superman and the greatest fighter of all times finally had some effect on him. He began to believe

'FLAW' IN JOE LOUIS' DEFENSE WAS INTENDED AS A TRAP

'Weakness' Discovered By Tom O'Rourke to Be Corrected, Says Trainer

Schmeling, Advised by Aged Handler of Boxers to Counter Quickly, Hit So Hard He Smashed the Trap.

By W. J. McGoogan.

It wasn't a weakness in the fighting style of Joe Louis which caused his knockout at the hands of Max Schmeling last June, but a trick by Joe which failed when Schmeling beat him to the punch, Jack Blackburn, trainer of the Brown Bomber, told this writer after reading Schmeling's story in the Saturday Evening Post.

However, if it was a mistake Joe made when he dropped his left hand and left his face open for a right hand smash, it won't happen again, according to Blackburn, who declared that he and the rest of the Louis camp are ready to bet their respective shirts on the outcome of a rematch.

Immediately after the Louis bout Max was quoted as giving credit for discovery of this weak spot in his foe's defense to Tom O'Rourke, veteran manager of boxers, who left dead in Schmelling's dressing room at the Yankee Stadium, just before the German went into the ring with the Detroit Negro.

Then in the more recent version, published in the magazine article, it was stated that it was Schmeling himself, with his trainer, Max Machon, who discovered the possibilities for a right-hand attack against Louis, while watching Joe train for the Paulino Uzcudun match and later in the bout itself which Louis won on a knockout in the fourth round.

The occasion of this advice from O'Rourke came at Naponoch, N. Y., where Schmeling trained for the match, Joe Jacobs, Max's manager, said over the telephone from New York.

Pointed Out the Weakness.

"O'Rourke visited Schmeling in his training camp twice," Jacobs said, "he was there only in the capacity of a spectator, but he did call Schmeling's attention to the habit of Louis' in dropping his left after jabbing.

"We had observed the same thing in previous fights in which we had seen Joe and particularly in the Uzcudun bout."

The chances are, though, that O'Rourke's recognized knowledge of boxing men and his long experience probably had the effect of impressing Max more forcibly than anything else he had seen or heard. O'Rourke had been friendly to Schmeling for some time and during his long career in the game had handled many famous fighters.

Blackburn also regarded O'Rourke highly.

"I knew Tom well," Blackburn told me in an interview Saturday at Chicago. "Why, I was booked to make a tour of the world under his management back in 1909 but events prevented me from doing so."

Wise Enough to See.

"Do you think O'Rourke would have sufficient knowledge of boxing to discover such a weakness in Louis if we assume that he had it?" Blackburn was asked.

"Well, like I told you, it wasn't a weakness but Joe being caught in his own trap, but certainly O'Rourke was an able manager of boxers and knew the fight game," Blackburn replied.

No doubt the aged handler of boxers who died when he was more than 80 years old in Schmeling's dressing room, deserves the credit given him immediately after the bout.

Blackburn contends that the move is a tactical maneuver of Louis, and against Schmeling he dropped the left hand hoping to draw a right-hand lead, counting then on getting home with his powerful left. But Max was too quick, his first right-hand punch in the second round was too strong and after it the plans of the Brown Bomber flew away on the night breeze.

Schmeling also mentioned in the magazine story that he had called Louis amateurish after watching him in a workout for the Uzcudun fight in his Pompton Lakes (N. J.) camp. Max also admitted that Joe knew he was watching him and undoubtedly didn't do as well as he could.

Yes, there are still attempts in the game of the manly art of self-defense to do things other than count the receipts and get the big end of the purse. Sometimes managers and boxers will go great depths to fool the other fellow before a fight, sometimes before a match is even made, as in this case.

They Put on a Show.

Blackburn laughed when asked about that angle.

"Sure I remember the day Schmeling was in our camp. He came there with Jim Braddock and I said to Louis, 'Chappie, Schmeling and Braddock are out front. Now get a little careless. Don't bear down on your sparring partners, let them hit you, roll your head with the punches and they won't hurt much, even if you get knocked down, that's all right, we'll trick them guys.' And 'Chappie' did. He looked pretty bad that afternoon as Schmeling noticed.

"Do you think the fact that Louis carries his hands much lower than the ordinary fighter, had anything to do with his defeat by Schmeling?" Blackburn was asked.

"Naw," he snorted, "I wouldn't do anything to change a man's natural fighting style. Louis has always fought that way and didn't he get along all right until he fought Schmeling? Sure he did, but just like I told you, that one right hand in the second round did the trick for Max. You didn't see Louis get hit with a right hand against Sharkey, did you? No, I know you didn't.

"Now understand me, I'm not trying to take a thing away from Schmeling, he won a great victory over Louis and deserves all the credit there is for that, but man, I'll tell you he was lucky.

"You know that anybody who leads with a right hand is a sucker. Everybody knows that. But sometimes a right hand lands and Schmeling is a foxy guy, he had a lot of fights before he met Louis and he got in that one smash which won him the fight.

"After that Louis didn't know what he was doing for several rounds, then when he was getting over it he got hit again.

"And boy did I suffer in that corner! I finally got down on my knees between rounds and prayed to Joe: 'Chappie,' I said, 'when you drop your left hand, cover your jaw with your right. Don't forget what I told you.'

"But do you think he would pay any attention to what I told him? No. Why I don't believe he could even hear me. He just sat there in his corner staring across the ring."

Experience Gained in Schmeling Bout Will Aid Louis Now Says Blackburn

However, Blackburn believes that the bitter lesson which Schmeling taught Louis will in the future be of untold benefit to Joe.

In training for the bout with Sharkey all of the ego had disappeared from the Bomber, according to his trainer, who says it was just like starting all over again. Joe was ready to listen to any advice and do all in his power to follow the instructions which were given him.

"Did you think before the Schmeling fight that Louis was the greatest heavyweight you had ever seen?" the trainer was asked.

Blackburn himself fought in the ring for nearly 24 years, weighing only 136 pounds, but boxing the stars in the heavier weight divisions.

"I thought Louis was a great fighter before he was knocked out by Schmeling and even that defeat has not changed my opinion in the least," Blackburn replied, "you must remember that Joe is still only a youngster and all of the publicity he received, newspapers calling him a superman and the greatest fighter of all times finally had some effect on him. He began to believe the stories himself.

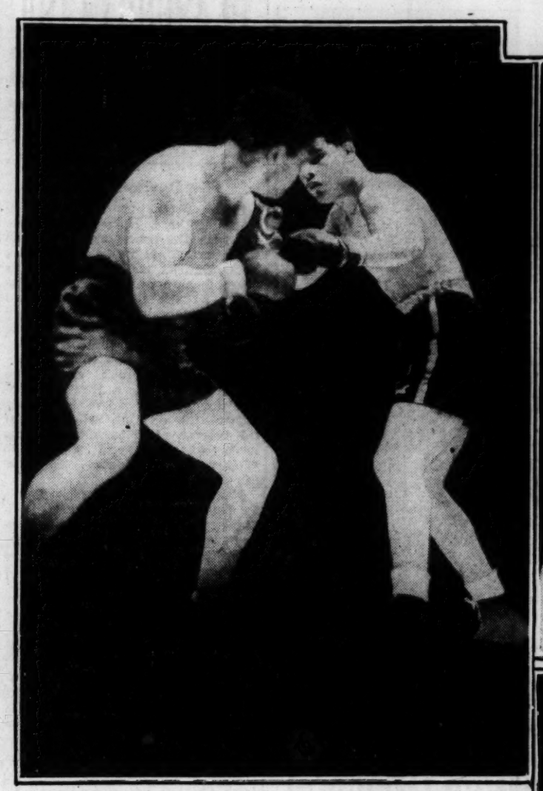

"That's all gone and forgotten now. He showed a return to his real form against Sharkey for he walked out and started to fight right away and kept it up until it was over. I think Joe is the greatest finisher I have ever seen."

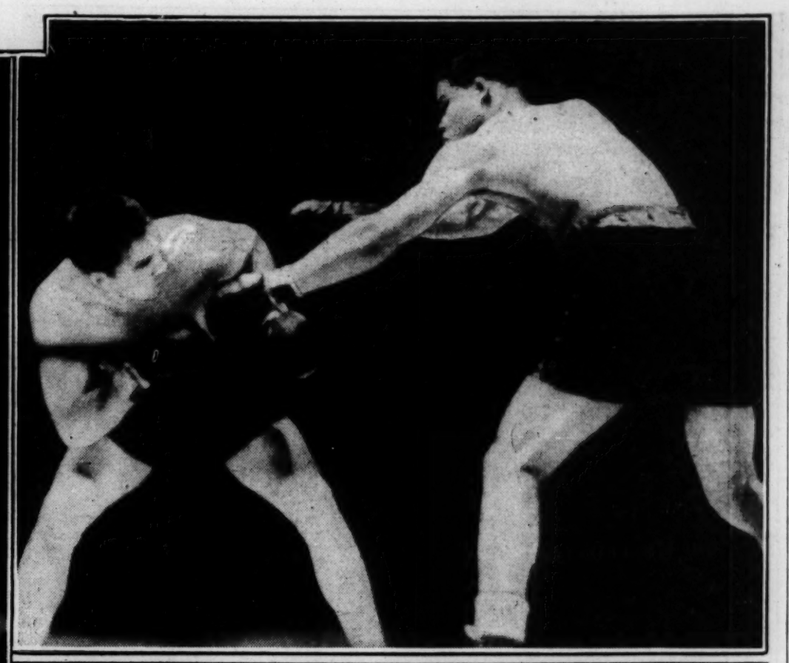

Louis' next match is with Al Ettore scheduled to be held in the Sesquicentennial Stadium, Philadelphia, Sept. 22. Ettore is not regarded as one of the top ranking heavyweights and on paper, at least, it appears that Joe should knock him out in a few rounds. Blackburn thinks so, too, but is taking no chances. He has started preliminary training with Louis at Stevensville, Mich., where they will remain for about a week before returning to Pompton Lakes, N. J., for the remainder of the conditioning period.

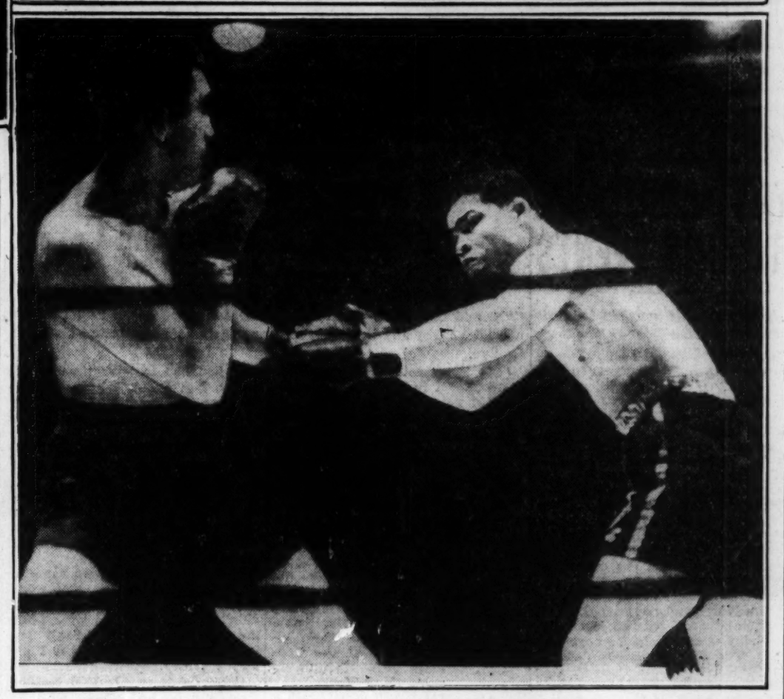

"At Stevensville we'll play golf and baseball," said Blackburn. "Joe is crazy about both games and say, you know I told him golf was a sissy game, but he took me out for 18 holes and when we were finished I was all in. That's good for him.

"There is a baseball diamond near the cottage there where we live and Joe likes me to bat grounders to him. He pretends he is Charley Gehringer, star second baseman of the Detroit Tigers and one of Joe's heroes. So I bat grounders to him first on one side and then on the other, which gives him plenty of exercise. And he don't even know he's working."

Schmeling Says He Won Fight With Louis in Third—a Round In Which He Took Bad Beating

Max Schmeling gives his own blow-by-blow account of his knockout of Joe Louis in their bout in the Yankee Stadium, New York last June, in the concluding installment of his story as told to Paul Gallico in the Saturday Evening Post, excerpts of which are reprinted here with permission.

Max gives his views on his experience in meeting the dread superfighter in the ring and states that he was pleased with his first views of Louis which showed him to be a pretty, fast, quiet, smooth worker.

Schmeling says if he had been scoring the fight he would have given the first three rounds to Louis, although he says it was in the latter round that he won the verdict.

His description of that round:

Won Fight in Third Round.

"The third round is my worst round. I take a good licking. But it is also the round in which I win the fight. * * * The round opens and I land my right to the head. But Louis is warmed up and fights back hard. And when he fights hard it is no picnic to be with him. I never saw so many left hands. * * * And then for the first time it happens the way I want it. He jabs his left and pulls it back for another and I cross my right over and smash him on the side of the jaw. And for that I take another good beating, but I don't care. My left eye is closed. * * * I have him. I know I have him in my pocket. The plan is right, the thoughts are right and I know the timing is right, too."

Max was surprised when Joe got up from the first knockdown in the fourth round.

"It is working better now. We come out of a clinch. He jabs the left again at just the right distance, drops his arm to jab again. Ach! The path to his chin looks more wide than Unter den Linden. Smash goes my right with all my shoulder behind it, right over his left arm and this time I get results. He staggers. He shakes. He does that little dance on his heels. He tries to stop me with a left hook and I smash him again on the side of the jaw. Down goes Louis. Joe is up on his feet again. The count is two. That surprises me. I did not expect that.

So on through the rounds, Schmeling gave and took with Louis. Max tired from pounding Joe and took a beating in the seventh but still he wasn't worried because he did not think Louis could last.

Louis Changed Attack.

"He changed the attack to my body and hit low. Referee Donovan warned him. I did not think anything about it at the time. I got him early in the eighth with another right and he stuck his thumb in my eye. He struck me low twice. He put his hands on my shoulders and shook his head that he did not mean it. He was very shaky from the punches. Machon said in my corner 'they are sending him out to foul out.' I said "Nonsense, Joe isn't like that. He doesn't know what he's doing any more."

"But in the ninth, tenth and eleventh rounds he kept hitting me low with those left hooks. I still would not believe he was trying to do so.

In the twelfth he comes to me with a left hook that is so low that I make no more mistakes about it. I am a fighter, and I know how punches are delivered. *That is deliberate."

Schmeling explains that he wears the protective gear, but tells how much low blows hurt and how much danger there is of having the nerves in the legs go dead from low blows.

"I must knock him out at once. And so I go in. I smash three times with my right hand. He puts out his left. It is no more than a push. I smash over it again and he holds on. I follow him to the ropes and throw that right again. His arms drop. He is gone. His head is turned at last where I want it. I have a full shot at his chin, not over his arm, but from inside, where I am free to use all the power I have. Everything is on that last punch. He spins and falls on his knees, with his arms over the ropes. He is down. From his knees he falls backward, sitting. He struggles for a second, rolls over on his face and lies there flat, counted out. I am happy.

"I WAS DAZED AND DID NOT KNOW ABOUT LOW PUNCHES"—LOUIS

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 1.—"If I hit Max Schmeling low I'm sorry. . . . I did not deliberately foul him. . . . I was just in there throwing punches and so dazed I didn't know where I was."

Thus Joe Louis today greeted charges attributed to May Schmeling that the Brown Bomber deliberately fouled the German in their fight.

"Immediately after the fight I spoke to Max Schmeling in his dressing room," Roxborough continued. "He told me that some of Louis' punches were low, but he did not think they were deliberate attempts to foul him."

CHICAGO GOLFERS TO QUALIFY TODAY FOR U. S. AMATEUR

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Sept. 1.—Twice postponed because of adverse weather conditions, qualifying trials for the national amateur golf tourney, to be held Sept. 14-19 at Garden City, N. Y., go on for the Chicago district at Smokie Country Club today.

A field of 105 shotmakers will shoot at 16 places allotted the Chicago area. The trial was rained out last Tuesday and postponed again Thursday because of the condition of the course.

English Gains Title.

John English won the Junior Chamber of Commerce tennis championship by defeating Isadore Rosenfeld, 6—3, 6—3, in the final round. English was the defending champion and is the only player to have won the title twice.

"Feller's Fast Ball Is Not as Speedy as Johnson's"—O'Leary

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—The only man in baseball today who saw Walter Johnson's start in 1907 and also watched boyish Bob Feller make his major league debut a few days ago says Barney had a faster speed ball.

That man is Charley O'Leary, coach of the Browns.

"There's been lots of talk about how fast this Feller is," O'Leary said. "And he is fast, perhaps the fastest pitcher in the league, but don't let anyone tell you he's as fast as Johnson."

O'Leary should know. As a Detroit player 29 years ago, he saw Johnson pitch his initial game for Washington. And little more than a week ago he saw Feller, 17-year-old Cleveland rookie, humble the Browns and strike out 15 men—within one of the league record—in his first full game.

"Of course," O'Leary added, "Johnson and Feller cannot be compared on any basis, save the impression they made in their first starts. I think Johnson had more smoke, but then, I didn't face Feller. It is absurd to even hope that Feller will be as good as Johnson. old "Barney" was tops.

"Johnson had an edge on Feller in their starts because Walter was taller and broader and heavier, he was three years older and he had had more experience. When Feller grows up he may take on more speed.

"Both of them had little but a fast ball at the start. Bob has a fair curve now and Johnson developed more stuff. Both were cool but Barney had the better control.

"Feller looks to me like the best pitching prospect of the year and he has a great future ahead of him. I know he lost to Boston yesterday, but you noticed he struck out five men in five innings. That's going."

O'Leary doubts that Feller will better the league strikeout record of 16, even though he came within one of equaling it in his first game.

"He may, but the odds are against him," the veteran coach said. "It is likely he'll never come as close again as he did in that first game."

U. S. TENNIS SQUAD BEATS FRANCE, 5-2

By the Associated Press.

HAVERFORD, Pa., Sept. 1.—The United States, represented by three young Californians, won all three of yesterday's matches in the international junior tennis exhibition tournament to defeat France, 5—2, at the Merion Cricket Club.

Joseph Hunt and Bobby Riggs, who yesterday bowed to the French players, scored impressive singles victories.

Hunt disposed of Bernard Destremau, French Davis Cup player, 6—3, 6—4. The cool 18-year-old Riggs beat Yvon Petra on the eighth match point, 2—6, 7—5, 9—7.

Riggs then teamed with Wayne Sabin to turn back Destremau and Pierre Pellizza, 9—7, 4—6, 6—4.

ESCOBAR STOPS MARINO IN 13TH ROUND, RETAINS BANTAM HONORS

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—Sixto Escobar, the scrappy little Puerto Rican, appears to have gathered nearly all the loose ends of the bantamweight championship situation into his own capable hands.

After his triumph over Lou Salica nine months ago, Escobar was recognized as world champion by the New York State Athletic Commission and a few other governing bodies who saw fit to lift the crown from Panama Al Brown, who was fighting overweight bouts in Europe. Then Balthazar Sangchile of Spain beat Brown at the title weight, came to America and was promptly knocked out by Tony Marina of Pittsburgh.

Escobar and Marino both put their title claims on the block in a 15-round bout at Dyckman oval last night and Sixto won in 13 rounds by the technical knockout route.

Marino Down Five Times.

The young Pittsburgher was no match for Escobar and barely survived the second round, when he hit the canvas five times. His left eye was nearly closed in the opening frame but it was not until his right eye was so badly cut that his seconds could not stop the flow of blood during the interval after the thirteenth round that the commission physician, Dr. Charles Bles, finally called a halt.

Escobar won all but two or three of the 13 rounds, beltifg Tony with his right in the early rounds, then shifting to left jabs at the cut right eye after the damage was done in the sixth.

Spartanburg Wins From Coast Club In Legion Series

SPARTANBURG, S. C., Sept. 1.—Jim Thomas, a slender chap with speed and control, held Los Angeles, Cal., to four scattered hits yesterday and Spartanburg won the opener of a five-game series for the national American Legion junior baseball championship. The score was 3 to 1.

An overflow crowd of 12,000 saw Spartanburg get to big Bryan Stephens for all its runs in the first four innings. After that, Stephens was invincible.

Thomas, Spartanburg's "hard luck" pitcher all summer, was started as a surprise, but he went the route in brilliant fashion, fanning five and walking but four.

The second game will be played today, with Suvern Wright, Spartan ace, pitted against Wilbur McElroy of Los Angeles, on the mound.

TROUBLE AHEAD FOR PERRY AND MISS JACOBS, VINES SAYS

ALICE MARBLE IS GIVEN FINE CHANCE TO WIN WOMEN'S TITLE

Wimbledon Men's Champion Will Have Don Budge and Other Young Tennis Stars to Contend With.

By Ellsworth Vines,
World's Professional Tennis Champion.
(Copyright, 1936.)

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—The national tennis championships, which start at Forest Hills Thursday, provide the final opportunity of the year for American and foreign stars to show what they can do in the tennis field.

The American championships are the last important international tournaments of the year and this year's tournaments, though not as strongly flavored with international stars as in the past, provide many interesting aspects.

There is the probability that Helen Hull Jacobs, the defending women's champion, will meet with defeat at the hands of Alice Marble, another Californian, if the pair should gain the final round. The foreign women players, with the exception of the left-handed Kay Stammers of England and Mme. Sylvia Henrotin of France, have all passed up the tournament, and it looks like the battle is definitely between Miss Jacobs and Miss Marble.

I believe that if these two meet in the championship round we will all be hailing a new champion. Miss Marble has the kind of a game that can win from Miss Jacobs. With the championship at stake, I believe Miss Marble will put it over.

Faces Difficult Task.

Fred Perry, England's ace and Wimbledon champion, is the outstanding of the foreign invaders. Perry met with unexpected and dramatic defeat on these same courts last year and this year the road to regaining his lost laurels is strewn with even more difficulty than it was in 1935.

Unfortunately, Wilmer Allison, the defending champion and conqueror of Perry last year, is one of the big shot Americans not competing this year. The other ranking Americans who have decided for one reason or another to pass up the tournament are Frank Shields, Wilmer Hines and Hines' partner, Bunty Lawrence. Outside of these players, the same stars that have been seen in all of the season's Eastern tournaments are entered.

To a number of players, specially the new stars from California, the national championship is a new venture. What Bobby Riggs, Joe Hunt, Wayne Sabin, Charles Carr and the other "freshmen" have done in the previous tournaments will be completely overshadowed by what they do in the nationals. To them the championship is the first real test.

Perry and Miss Jacobs are regarded by the majority of experts as overwhelming favorites to win the men's and women's titles, respectively. Perry won the singles crowns in 1933 and 1934 before meeting with injury and defeat last year. Miss Jacobs has won the women's title four years in a row. They are, incidentally, the only past or present champions competing in the tournament.

Budge Has Confidence.

For myself, I believe that both of the champions are going to have more than their share of difficulties. In Perry's case, his toughest competition, strangely enough, is going to come from our younger players, many of them not yet 20 years old.

Donald Budge, who reached the semifinals at Wimbledon this summer, and still a youngster in years, can hardly be regarded so when it comes to international tennis experience. Budge is set on winning this championship, and he is not going to be the victim of an upset, such as Bitsy Grant pulled on him last year.

The Oakland (Cal.) red head also has added confidence and if he plays Perry he might be able to defeat England's acrobatic ace in an important match for the first time.

I already have described Miss Jacobs' difficulty. The Californian should have little trouble, however, reaching the final, unless she runs into Miss Marble in an earlier round.

46 ENTRIES IN BOYS' AND JUNIOR TENNIS EVENTS

The St. Louis municipal tennis tournaments for jjuniors and boys are scheduled to open tomorrow on on the iKngshighway courts in Forest Park. If court conditions permit, first round matches in the junior and boys' singles will begin in the morning.

Entry lists in th egirls' singles, junior doubles and boys' doubles will remain open another day. If sufficient entries are received, play will start Thursday. Only seven players entered the girls' singles, while eight teams entered the junior doubles and five signed up for the boys' doubles, when the committee met at noon today.

Forty-six players will participate in the junior and boys' singles. Of the total, 31 are entered in the junior singles and 15 in the boys' singles. The four players seeded in the junior singles are Dave Chopin, Albert Steck, Henry Teiber and D. Wilhelmi, while Robert Friedman, Robert Nelson, Harry Deutman and Joe Mitchell were seeded in the boys' singles event.

Junior Singles.

First Round—Albert Steck vs. Charles Dee, Donald Trautner vs. Bernard Manic, Bud Blattner vs. Monte Lopata, Howard Rollins vs. Leo Rostenberg, Richard Wilhelmi vs. Jack Allen, George Berger vs. Harry Oldeq, James Johnson vs. D. Lassiter, Leroy Allen vs. Stanley Levy, Dave Chopin vs. Carl Feichtinger, Lester Meyer vs. Robert Baumgartner, Joe Tryniecki vs. Phillip McGrath, Arthur Howell vs. John Finnegan Jr., Henry Teiber vs. Henry Hartman, Leonard Hoffman vs. Fred Hoffmeister, Robert Schroder vs. Paul Beckman, Tom K. Smith Jr. drew a bye.

Boys' Singles.

AMATEUR NINE STARTS BASEBALL TOURNAMENT SUNDAY AT ST. CHARLES

The baseball tournament of the Missouri Amateur Baseball Association will start Sunday on the Blanchard Park in St. Charles. The pairings have been made for the event, which will start with four games Sunday, two in the morning and two in the afternoon.

Semifinal games will be played Monday morning and the final contest that afternoon. The winner of the tournament will be awarded a trophy and will gain the right to play the Kentucky State champions in an elimination series to qualify for a regional tournament of the Amateur Baseball Association.

Sunday's pairings:

9 a. m.—Cape Girardeau Crescents vs. St. Paul (St. Charles County League).

11:15 a. m.—Spanish Lake (St. Louis County League) vs. Hannibal tourney winner.

Hornsby Greatest Batter He Ever Faced, Alexander Says, Recalling His 20-Year Career

Grover Cleveland Alexander, famous pitcher of the Phillies, Cubs and Cardinals, was in a reminiscent mood today as he sat in his hotel lobby and looked back over nearly 20 years in the National League.

"Old Pete" as he was affectionately known to his mates, has recovered from the injuries he suffered when struck by an automobile in Evansville, Ind., recently and appears to be the same as he was when he earned undying fame by striking out Tony Lazzeri in the clutch in that historic struggle of 1926 which saw the Cardinals conquer the Yankees in the final game of the world series at the Yankee stadium in New York.

Alexander.

There is not a gray hair in Alexander's head to which he attributes his positive resistance to worry.

"I just let trouble slide by," laughed Pete in the sort of low spoken drawl he has.

The 1926 Cardinals, he believes, former the greatest team with which he ever played.

"Certainly it was the gamest," he declared, "you know any time you needed a couple of runs, they could go out and get them."

"Why, I remember the first time I ever pitched against him in Chicago," he smiled. "Bill Killefer was catching and this gangling kid from Texas came to bat. I struck him out the first two times up and it was an easy game for us. I think we were leading 10 to 0 when he came up again. Killefer walked out and said to me 'give this kid a chance to get a hit, it won't mean anything to us and may to him.' Well, I did, I threw one right down the middle and Rog doubled to left. And I don't think I ever got him out again for the rest of the 20 years I pitched to him.

"He had the greatest batting eye I ever saw. You couldn't fool him with a bad ball. If you pitched one an inch or two away from the plate he wouldn't fish for it, he seemed to know that it was bad and wouldn't bite at it.

"And say, talking of throwing waste balls when you have two strikes and no balls on the batter, these pitchers today seem to have a funny system. I notice they throw them away outside and over the batter's head. You might just as well throw to first base as try to fool a batter that way. I think the thing to do is to throw 'em just a little bit bad, where the hitter may be afraid to let it go by for fear the umpire will call it a strike."

Certainly Alex didn't throw many bad ones and he can't remember a game where he walked more than two or three batters, one or two of them probably on purpose. When he pitched a game there was none of this two hours and a half business. Alex threw that ball over the plate and if the batter didn't take a swipe at it he stood a good chance of being called out on strikes, which caused the concessionaires at the ball parks where he worked, particularly on big days, to moan.

"They used to send me word to ease up to permit the hot dogs to get hot or the soda to get cold," he laughed, "or they would say that they had so many supplies on hand they just had to have time to sell them. But I didn't have time to waste on that mound. I always believed the thing to do was to get it over with."

Alex had to stand for a lot of joshing about his indulgence in alcoholic beverages during his playing days but he thought the prize remark came from a fan after he had finished his major league tour and was playing with the House of David team.

"A man in a small town came up to me and said, 'Alex, you would have been a great pitcher if you didn't drink while you were pitching in the major leagues.' And here all the time I thought I had been a pretty good thrower.

Going back to his 1926 buddies, Pete said he had played with the Phillies when Dave Bancroft was at his best as a shortstop and had seen other outstanding men in the same position but he thought for one season, at least, that Tommy Thevenow did the best job at short he had ever seen.

"His play during the regular season and through the world series was remarkable," Pete said. "It just seemed impossible for anything to get past him in the field and he was the hitting sensation of the series.

"And talking further about that series, there have been some of the most fantastic tales told of how Hornsby left the ball park to drag me out of a speakeasy to put me in the box in the final game, but can you imagine a world series game being held up while the manager went 100 blocks looking for a pitcher.

"No, the facts are that after I won the sixth game, Rog said to me in the clubhouse, 'Alex, I wouldn't blame you if you felt like celebrating tonight, but don't, because if I need you I'm going to throw you right back in there tomorrow.' So I stuck close to the hotel that night and was ready when I was needed."

Like any other pitcher, Alex attributes his fine record to his good control and said that he always made it a practice to see what was hard for each batter to hit and let him have it.

He had good speed, curve and a screw ball when he was pitching, but perhaps there were many others who had just as good stuff who couldn't make the grade, but Alex knew just where to throw the ball to each man.

Joe McCarthy didn't think so when he took over the job of managing the Cubs and the first thing he did was to tell Alex to pitch a high inside ball to a certain batter.

"Why, I always pitch low and outside to him," objected Alex.

"But I'm the manager now," Pete said McCarthy answered, "and you'll throw what I tell you to throw."

"So I did," Alex said and the batter parked one in the left field bleachers. When I walked to the bench I told McCarthy just what he could and should do with the high one to that fellow. That night I belonged to St. Louis."

St. John Softball Team Wins.

St. John defeated Messiah, 11-5, in a Walther League softball contest played at South Side Park. Holy Cross won from Salem, 9-1, and Emmaus won from St. Peter, 7-2, in other games.

MISS JACOBSON IN SEMIFINAL OF DISTRICT EVENT

Frances Jacobson, former Carondelet Park champion, reached the semifinal round of the St. Louis District women's singles tennis championship as the result of her 6—2, 6—1 victory over Evelyn Caporal, Marquette Park player, in the quarter finals at Lewis Park yesterday afternoon. With Mrs. Ella Dietz-Felkbinger as a partner, Miss Jacobson also gained the semifinal bracket in the doubles, defeating Jane Connett and Elizabeth Johnston, 6—1, 6—1.

Miss Jacobson's improved game enabled her to gain a first 10 ranking several years ago. She has maintained her position and last year was placed No. 3 in the District list. Miss Jacobson won the women's District indoor title at the Washington University Field House last March, and was finalist to Merceina Weise in the Municipal championship at Forest Park in July.

The former Carondelet Park champion has a hard driving forehand shot, and recently has improved her backhand. During the past two years she has become much steadier. If she can still gain better control of her shots, the No. 1 place may be hers in a year or two.

Berenice Bien, Belleville player, won her second round contest, 6—0, 6—1, from Mrs. Ruth Peltason yesterday, and will meet Merceina Weiss, defending champion, tomorrow afternoon. Rosalind Werner, ambidextrous player from Forest Park, gained a surprise victory over Mrs. Bert Thompson, East St. Louis champion. The match required two hours and 14 minutes to complete, Miss Werner winning, 6—1, 6—4.

Yesterday's Results.

SINGLES.

Second round—Berenice Bien defeated Mrs. Ruth Peltason, 6—0, 6—1. Rosalind Werner defeated Mrs. Bert Thompson, 6—1, 4—6, 6—4.

DOUBLES.

Second round—Merceina Weiss and Mrs. Jean Dalstrom defeated Mrs. Elsie Sauselle and Mrs. George Stemmler, 6—3, 6—3. Rosalind and Lois Keene won by default from Mrs. Bert Thompson and partner.

WRESTLING RESULTS

CHICAGO—Everett Marshall, Colorado, threw Nango Singh, India, 23.00.

HOLLYWOOD—Tarzan Orth, Canton, O., threw Jack McDonald, Portland, Ore., two out of three. Lord Lansdowne, London, tossed Stacy Hall, Columbus, O., straight falls.

THREE 'SEEDED' PLAYERS IN THE QUARTERFINALS OF TITLE MEET

By Davison Obear.

Frank Kearey and the Weinstock brothers, Herbert and Robert, were the first players to reach the quarterfinal round of the St. Louis District men's singles tennis championship as the result of victories on the Clayton Municipal courts yesterday afternoon. Keaney is in the upper bracket, while the Weinstocks are in the lower half, where they will meet each other.

Herbert Weinstock won from Ward Parker in a three-set encounter. Parker drove accurately to win the opening set, 6—1, but the veteran came back to take the next two, 6—2 and 6—3. Bob Weinstock eliminated McLeod Stephens, 6—2, 6—2.

Keaney was given a close battle by Lee Travis. The Forest Park player matched strokes with Keaney for the first eight games of the opening set and carried the second to deuce. Travis, however, was not quite steady enough, while Keaney took the extra two games in each set on some good placements, winning, 6—4, 7—5.

Jack Gordon put himself in position for a high ranking this year by defeating Talbot Murphy, 6—3, 6—1. There were a number of long rallies in both sets, but Murphy could not solve Gordon's net skimming chop strokes.

Stephens Gains Victory.

Howard Stephens Jr. returned from Chicago where he participated in the Illinois State championship. The Yale player won from Robert Hereford, 6—1, 6—1, in the first round and will oppose Louis Sharp in a second-round encounter next, the winner meeting Gordon.

The eight seeded players are still in the tournament and all are likely to reach the quarterfinal bracket. Wayne Smith, No. 6, and Stephens, No. 5, may have some difficulty reaching the bracket.

McNeill Smith, the defending champion, who is trying for another leg on the Roy Culbertson trophy, faces Connie McDonald, St. Louis University player, in a third round match. McDonald won from Gus Serrano in his first match and defeated Charles Fox, 7—5, 8—6, yesterday.

The district doubles event will open Saturday at Lewis Park, University City. Entries close Friday. A mixed doubles event will also be sponsored by the district body this year. The tournament will get under way Labor day on the Lewis Park courts. Teams may enter at Clayton or Lewis Park. The entry fee is $2 a team.

YESTERDAY'S RESULTS.

Second round—Jack Gordon defeated Talbot Murphy, 6—3, 6—1; Connie McDonald defeated Charles Fox, 7—5, 8—6.

Third round—Frank Keaney defeated Lee Travis, 6—4, 7—5; Herbert Weinstock defeated Ward Parker, 1—6, 6—2, 6—3; Robert Weinstock defeated McLeod Stephens, 6—2, 6—2.

TRAINER JACOBS HAS SADDLED 119 WINNERS SINCE JAN. 1

BROOKLYNITE IS LIKELY TO LEAD RIVALS FOR 4TH STRAIGHT YEAR

Man Who Jumped to Top for First Time in 1933 Has Had More Than 100 Winners in Last Four.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—Hirsch Jacobs, 32-year-old former pigeon fancier from Brooklyn, is well on his way to become America's leading thoroughbred trainer for the fourth successive year and top a record that has stood since 1923, but he never bets on horses.

The quiet, unassuming and affable redhead is young as trainers go, but he has sent 119 winners to the post since Jan. 1. The American record is 147, set by C. B. (Cowboy) Irwin, 13 years ago.

Jacobs already holds one mark in that he is the first trainer to win more than 100 races four years in a row. He saddled 114 victorious horses last year, 127 in 1934 and 116 three years ago, when he reached the top for the first time.

One of his most remarkable horses is Action, seven years old, which he purchased early this year for $1000 and converted from a steeplechaser to a flat runner. Action has won nine of his last 10 starts, the latest victory coming yesterday at Aqueduct.

Rated as Miracle Man.

Around the track Jacobs is known as the "miracle man." His stable includes no Discovery or Granville. In contrast, it is made up of horses of cheaper variety, many of which Jacobs claimed out of a race. He now has charge of about 50 runners, of which 20 are temporarily out of training.

Most of them race in the name of his wife, Mrs. Ethel D. Jacobs, while others are the property of Mr. and Mrs. Damon Runyon, W. N. Andrews and his brother, Dr. Irving Jacobs.

Jacobs has a knack of making horses win where they have failed for others. Time and again he has taken a cripple and turned him into a consistent performer. Yet he claims he has no secrets.

"Just plain common sense, plenty of hard work and the placing of horses in races they can win is all I do," Jacobs said.

He spends from 18 to 19 hours a day with his horses. Early and late he can be found at the stable, overseeing the care of his charges, or studying the condition books. He has an uncanny ability for placing his horses properly.

Has No Time to Wager.

Despite his success, Jacobs never bets on the horses.

"I haven't got the time or the interest to wager, even on my own horses," he declared.

Three years ago, his horses won $76,965; in 1934 they earned $113,055 and last year, $95,155. He bids well to pass his best mark this year although purses in claiming races are small.

Jacobs broke into racing in 1924. He and Charles Ferraro were in the pigeon game together. Then they got to "hanging around" the horses with the result Ferraro bought a few thoroughbreds and Jacobs took over their training without any previous experience.

14 Midget Auto Racers Compete In Final Events

The curtain will be brought down on midget auto racing for the summer as Promoter Earl Reflow holds an interesting program tonight at Walsh Stadium. The time trials will begin at 7:15 o'clock, with regular racing events scheduled to get under way an hour later.

Fourteen drivers from Middle Western, Eastern and Pacific Coast circuits are entered and the outstanding drivers will eventually compete in the 75-lap series which will conclude racing here for the season.

Two of the races will be special match events. Duke Nalon and Wally Zale of Chicago will race in one of the match events, while the other will be contested by Jimmy Snyder and Marshall Lewis, St. Louis stars.

These four, in addition, are expected to be heard from in the 75-lap race.

Pat Warren, California ace, will race for the first time since he figured in an unfortunate spill three weeks ago on the Stadium track. He has fully recovered, but his car is still on the shelf. He will drive one of Cowboy O'Rourke's cars.

The two New Yorkers, Emil Gessell and Carl Hattel, who have been winning most of the purses throughout the Middle West in recent weeks, are expected to make good showings. Other drivers entered are Ray Richards, Paul Russo, O'Rourke, Johnny Sawyer, Ralph McDaniels, Everette Rice, Johnny Hogan, Nick Dino, Mack McCoy, Rumsey Thompson, Mel Wainwright and Pete Alberts.

Another attraction is the class B championship race, the event which gives all the local drivers who fail to make the grade in class A competition one last chance to step into the limelight before the curtain is rolled down.

Golf Pro Is Injured.

CHICAGO, Sept. 1.—Tom Carney, golf professional of Chicago and Orlando, Fla., was injured yesterday in an automobile accident while on his way to play in a tournament at the Riverside Country Club. The hospital to which Carney was taken refused comment. The pro's physician, Dr. S. R. Banfield, declined to disclose his patient's injuries, except to say there was a fracture, and that Carney's condition was "improving."

Miss Petty Married.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 1.—Mary Lou Petty, Olympic swimmer, and Robert S. Skok of Spokane, Wash., secretly married in New York, were reported today on their way to Spokane after a week-end visit here with their friend, Bob Crosby, orchestra leader. Crosby said the wedding took place at St. Patrick's Cathedral last Friday. Crosby, brother of Bing Crosby, radio and motion picture singer, was a high school mate of Mrs. Skok and a college mate of Skok.

JAMES HAS PILOTED 51 WINNERS IN 25 DAYS AT CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Sept. 1.—Basil James of Synniside, Wash., became a full-fledged jockey at Washington Park today, but he'll probably long remember the manner in which he sang his swan song as an apprentice yesterday.

The sensational youngster piloted three winners to boost his total for the 25 days of racing at the track to 51. Since he won his first race at Spokane, Wash., exactly a year ago, he has kicked 150 horses past the winning post.

60 COLGATE FOOTBALL PLAYERS IN PRACTICE

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

HAMILTON, N. Y., Sept. 1.—The earliest football practice in the history of Colgate was held yesterday with 60 players reporting to Coach Andy Kerr. As Duke is to be played in Durham, N. C., Sept. 26, the practice was called a week earlier than usual.

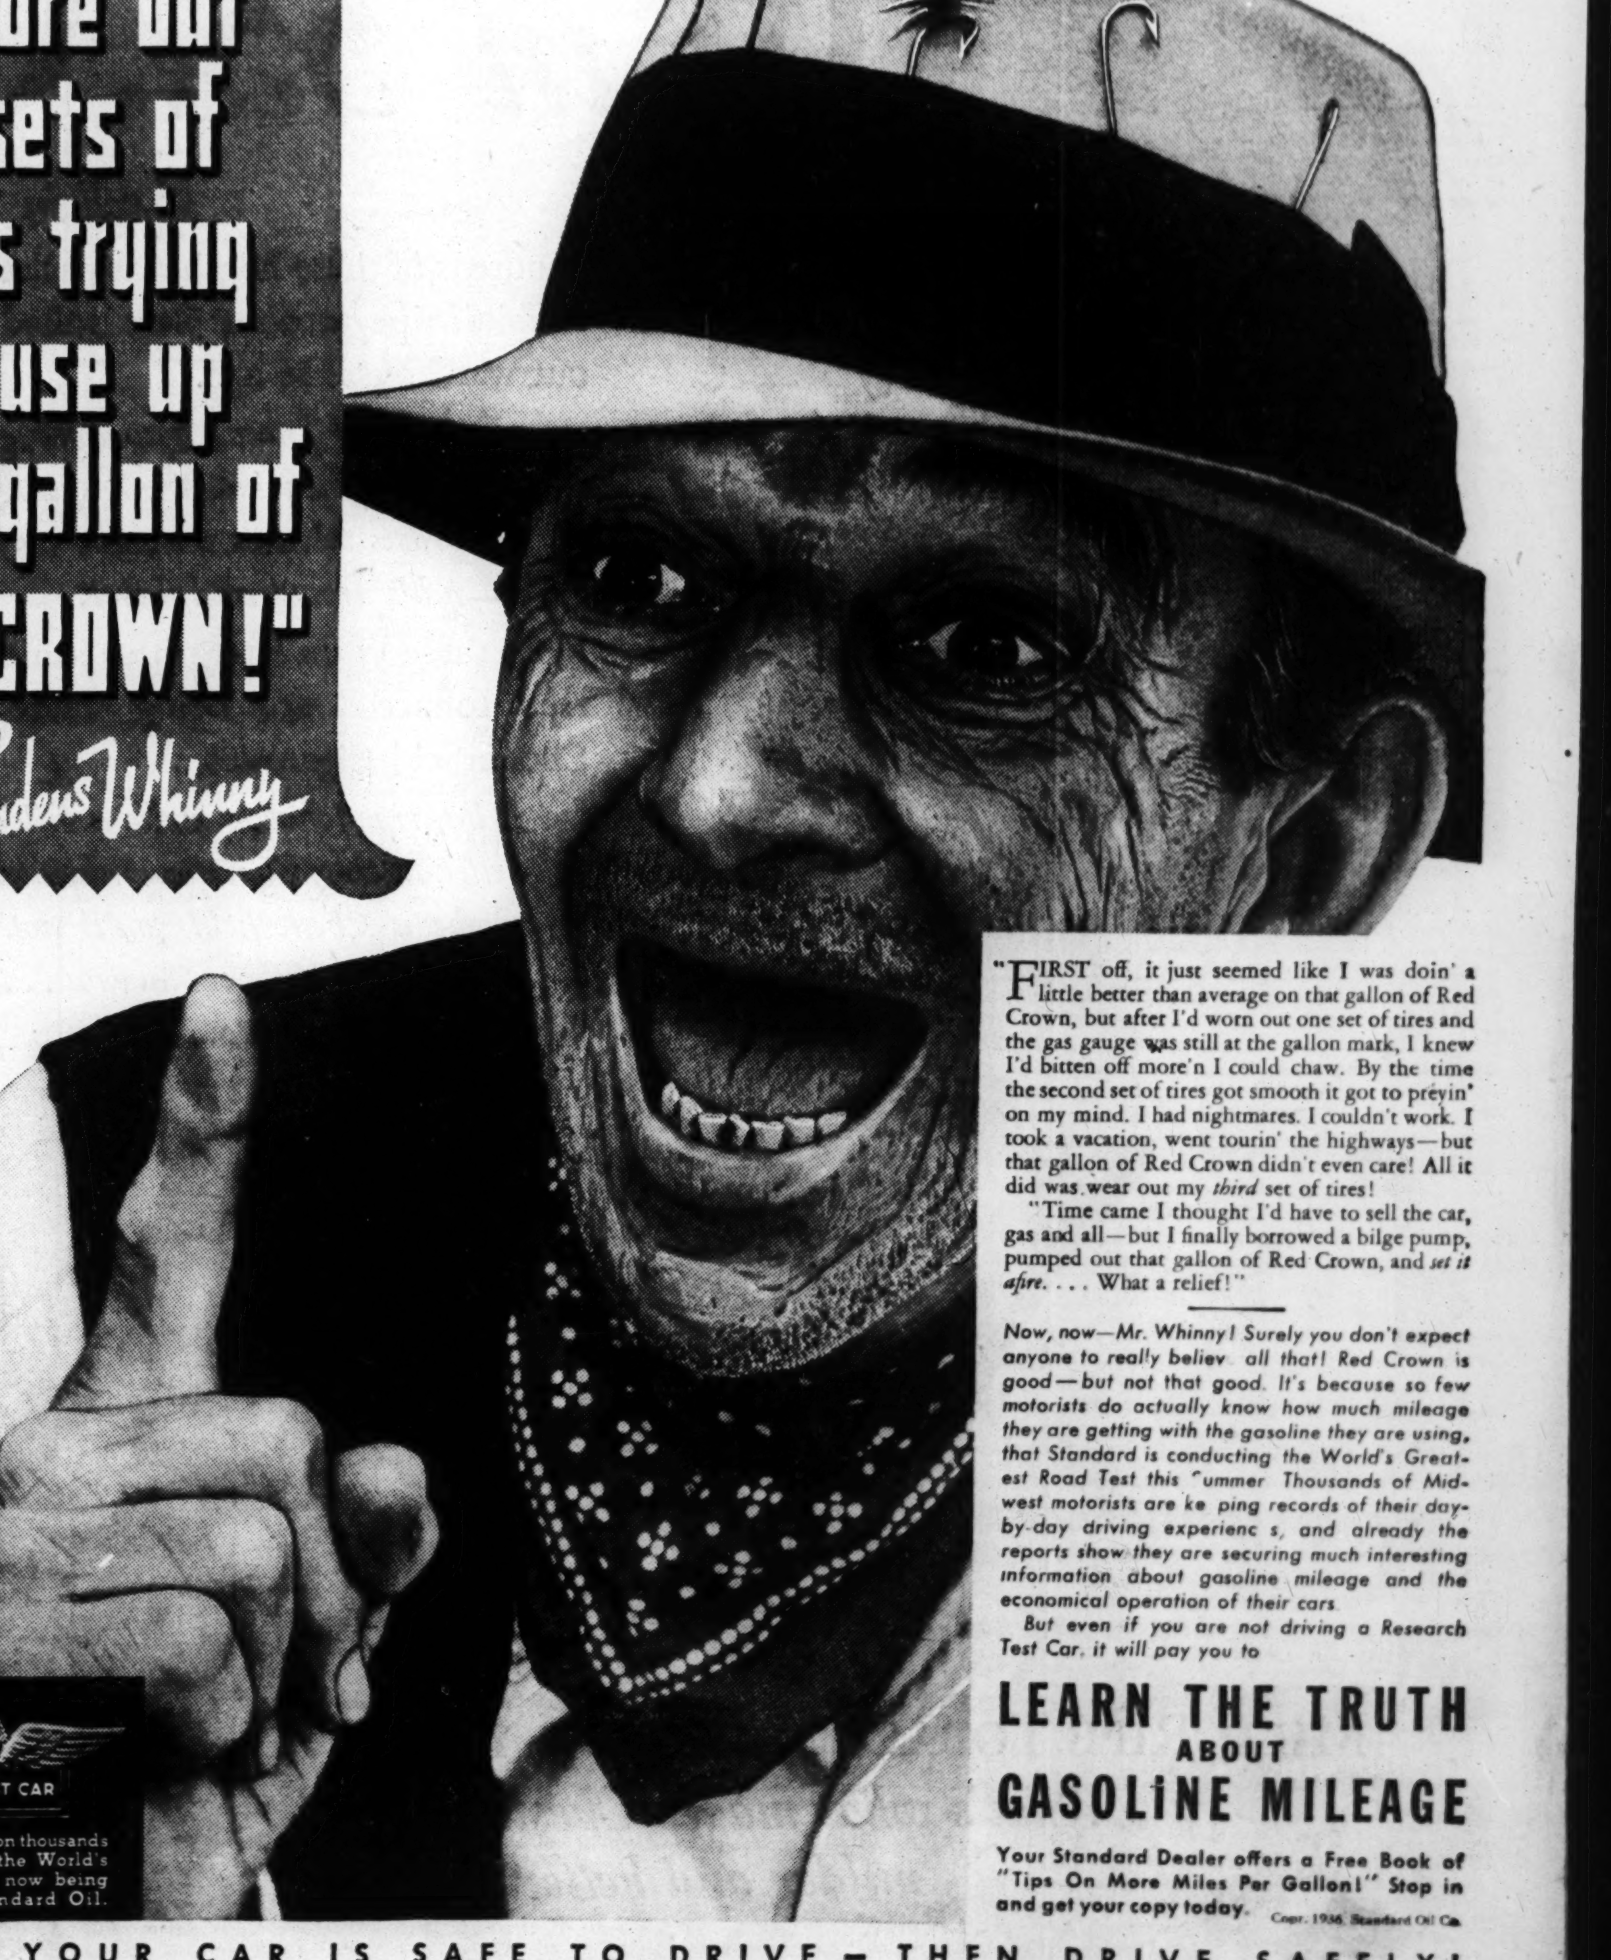

Having lost nine men from the first team of last fall, Kerr said that he expects to build an eleven around Capt. George Vadas, quarterback, Red Chesbro, tackle, and Whit Jaeger, the spectacular running halfback.

"I wore out 3 sets of tires trying to use up that gallon of RED CROWN!" ...whines Thadeus Whinny

"FIRST off, it just seemed like I was doin' a little better than average on that gallon of Red Crown, but after I'd worn out one set of tires and the gas gauge was still at the gallon mark, I knew I'd bitten off more'n I could chaw. By the time the second set of tires got smooth it got to preyin' on my mind. I had nightmares. I couldn't work. I took a vacation, went tourin' the highways—but that gallon of Red Crown didn't even care! All it did was wear out my third set of tires!

"Time came I thought I'd have to sell the car, gas and all—but I finally borrowed a bilge pump, pumped out that gallon of Red Crown, and set it afire. . . . What a relief!"

Now, now—Mr. Whinny! Surely you don't expect anyone to really believe all that! Red Crown is good—but not that good. It's because so few motorists do actually know how much mileage they are getting with the gasoline they are using, that Standard is conducting the World's Greatest Road Test this summer. Thousands of Mid-west motorists are keeping records of their day-by-day driving experiences, and already the reports show they are securing much interesting information about gasoline mileage and the economical operation of their cars.

But even if you are not driving a Research Test Car, it will pay you to

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

POPLAR BLUFF, Mo., Sept. 1.—Lucien G. Conley, 22 years old, laborer, who officers say, confessed a recent extortion attempt, was bound over to trial in October term of court at a preliminary hearing here. He did not testify.

George Willis, Frisco railroad switch tower operator, the alleged victim, told of incident leading up to the attempt to force him to pay $2500.

Sheriff Lester Massingham described the extortion as a badger scheme. He said Conley, who came here recently from Paragould, Ark., with a 16-year-old bride, made a confession saying he walked into his home while Willis was there, and demanded money. Massingham quoted Conley as saying the act was planned by himself and his wife.

COUNTY REGISTRATION ON ONLY THREE DAYS

Residents Failing to Get Names on Rolls Then, Barred From Polls in November.

Owen G. Jackson, chairman of the St. Louis County Board of Election Commissioners, today warned county residents that if they failed to register on the days set by the commissioners they would not be eligible to vote in the November presidential election.

The registration, to be permanent under a new law, will be held Sept. 29 and 30, and Oct. 3 at precinct polling places, which will be open from 8 a. m. to 8:30 p. m.

The Election Board has revised the boundaries of about 50 precincts and has increased the number of precincts from 176 to 194, in order to equalize the number of voters in each. Notification of the boundary changes will be made in county newspapers, Jackson said.

In registering, the applicant will be required to place his or her signature on three cards, and to give information as to age, occupation, nationality and length of residence in the county. Other than the three days designated by the board, there will be no opportunity to register again until at least 15 days after the presidential election.

Once registered, the voter will not have to do so again unless he fails to vote in two successive elections, or is not found by a canvasser at the address given, or for other unusual causes.

Jackson said that county voters will be required to sign a signature card for comparison with the registration card, when they vote in the presidential election. The board had previously announced it did not seem to be required under the law unless the voter was challenged, but a subsequent interpretation requires it.

The county registration is now 97,000. Jackson said he expected the premanent registration to reach 120,000, because of the presidential race. In the last presidential election, the registration was 106,000.

hundreds of these hogsheads packed full of mild, ripe tobacco were rolled into our warehouses to age.

Everybody knows how ageing improves fine wine. Well, ageing improves tobaccos the same way —adds aroma and flavor.

Now three years later, these same mild ripe tobaccos are being made into Chesterfield Cigarettes.

Mild, ripe tobaccos make a milder better-tasting cigarette. When you smoke a Chesterfield you'll notice they have a different aroma . . . a more pleasing taste . . . they're better!

KNOX TELLS LABOR NOT TO DEPEND ON GOVERNMENT

G. O. P. Candidate Says NRA, if Continued, Would Have Resulted in Coercion of Working Men

POINTS TO EUROPEAN WORKERS' PLIGHT

Assails New Deal Spending in Rhode Island Address on New England Speaking Tour.

By the Associated Press.

ROCKY POINT, R. I., Sept. 1.—Col. Frank Knox, Republican vice-presidential nominee, asserted today that labor, which "until our time fought its own battles," benefitted from staying out of party politics. He added, in an address at a rally and clambake here, that a government partial to "one form of labor organization or another is 'un-American.'"

Knox came to Rhode Island aboard his special campaign train, which set out yesterday from Manchester, N. H. Earlier in the day he made rear platform appearances in Connecticut and Massachusetts.

The role of Government in labor relations, Knox said, should be that of "umpire," seeking to "preserve decency and order," and prevent violence. He said in part:

"What is this adminstration's policy toward labor? For more than a half century labor in this country has feared the encroachment of the Federal Government in the relationship between labor and capital. Wisely and properly, labor has realized that a Central Government's invasion of this field is a two-edged sword. But the present invasion of this field is a two-edged sword. But the present administration has rushed into this field.

'NRA Would Have Enchained Labor.'

"The NRA took sides in labor relations, apparently on the side of labor. But actually, the NRA, if its erratic and blundering career had not been stopped, would have bound labor in the chains of Government coercion.

"What happened to Italian labor when it helped to establish a governmental dictatorship over all economic life? What happened to German labor unions after they helped to establish the present Government? What happened to Russian labor when it established a new system that it thought would give labor all the product of enterprise? Every workingman in America should read the story of labor in Europe."

Knox declared the United States built the "richest and happiest and kindest social order the world has ever known" on a system of "free enterprise" and condemned critics of the system as "apostles of discontent."

He said the present administration was spending $10,000,000 a day more than it was taking in, a sum equal to the annual wages of 9000 men.

"It would build every day about a thousand new and attractive homes," he said. "Since the New Deal began it has spent the equivalent of the wages of about 2,500,000 men working at fair wages for a whole year."

Assails New Deal's Labor Policy.

Speaking in Waterbury, Conn., last night, Knox asserted the Roosevelt administration has laid "the heavy hand of the Federal Government" on both labor and industry.

He also declared that present-day unemployment was the result not of the depression, but rather of the administration's recovery program which he described as a series of reckless, helter-skelter, catch-as-catch-can experiments which slowed down natural recovery the way water in your gas will slow down your car."

While advancing the view that it is not right for government to direct employment and wages, he made an exception in the case of women workers and young workers, saying it was a proper function to protect them from exploitation. "But the workers as a whole," he said, "must better conditions by their own efforts. Our laboring population has been beguiled and lured by fervid protestations of friendship and promises of legislation. For three centuries American workmen have fought their battles with economic problems without the help of the Federal Government.

Wages Can't Be Set by Law.

"Wages are not set by law and cannot be set by law. They are set by the productivity of the land, the capital and the worker himself. When Government attempts to set wages it only disturbs industry and lowers total wages.

Knox criticised the New Deal as an "economic bedlam" not matched by "the craziest of the Roman Emperors," and added: "The plain man in the street just simply said in his plain language that the Government at Washington had gone cuckoo, or in still plainer language, nuts.

"There may have been some sort of vague intention to move toward a collectivist economy, but that does not explain it. Not many of the leaders of the administration were concerned with a totalitarian state. A good many of the New Deal leaders couldn't even pronounce it. There was never any definite intention to set up a dictatorship. . . . The real explanation lies in the impossible promises . . . to end poverty . . . solve the problems of every group. . . . Once in office they had to try it. And that is the explanation of the economic delirium tremens this country has had for three and a half years."

Spanish Loyalists Criticising Leadership of Azana; He May Be Removed Even If He Wins

Refused to Believe Reports of Revolt, Then Delayed Acting—Factions Supporting Government Far From Agreed.

(Copyright, 1936, by the Associated Press.)

MADRID (by Courier to Hendaye, France. Uncensored.)—Sept. 1.—Growing criticism of President Manuel Azana from within his Socialist government inspired predictions today of an approaching government crisis, even if the Fascist rebellion is crushed.

Azana, his critics charge, failed to take decisive action either before or after the civil war broke out and ignored warnings of his advisers.

Informed repeatedly that Gen. Emilio Mola was conspiring against the Socialist administration, informed sources said, Azana replied:

"You are playing the same record over and over."

Four days before the rebellion the President assertedly told those who cautioned him against Mola: "To prove you are wrong I have a notion to appoint Mola chief of my military household."

He Awaited Developments.

Dissatisfaction of extreme Socialists, Communist and Anarchist supporters of the government, appeared to be the nucleus of criticism.

Some already are charging Azana with malfeasance in office because of his asserted refusal to take preventive action when reports reached him a revolt was near. He elected rather to sit by and await developments, critics asserted.

His advisers suggested reorganization of the army, judicial system and diplomatic corps when Azana took office in April. But the President did not then believe them necessary, high sources in the government said.

Last to Receive Arms.

The syndicalists aligned with the Socialist administration were angered because they were the last to receive arms and ammunition when insurrection broke out.

Regular Socialist supporters of the Government received arms first. Communist adherents were supplied next, and lastly the syndicalists.

Many well informed observers believe a cabinet resignation will follow termination of the war, if the Government is victorious. A new cabinet would be charged with administering a moderate socialism and preventing disorders among the more extreme parties with membership in the Government, they say.

"Man Behind the Scenes."

Indalecio Prieto, Socialist "man behind the scenes" throughout the war, is considered the most logical candidate for the premiership to succeed Jose Girl Pereira.

Should Azana be forced to resign, the Socialist educator Fernando de Los Rios is advanced as a likely successor. He is recognized as one of the nation's foremost intellectuals, having held the portfolios of justice and education in the state since the republic was formed. He is moderate in political belief and a close friend of Prieto.

Some observers, however, pointed out that Azana's organization of the popular front of Socialists, Communists and syndicalists which enabled him to carry the last election, will be a powerful weapon for keeping him in office.

Azana's political sagacity in effecting the coalition is given most of the credit for his victory over conservatives.

Many observers point out that this opposition made a major error in failing to compromise with him and assert such a compromise might have averted civil war.

Syndicalists Demands Awaited.

What demands the syndicalists will make for their support of the Socialist government still are unknown and a major preoccupation of other members of the coalition.

The Government admits that without the energy of the syndicalists—however some of their tactics might be condemned — victory would be impossible.

Syndicalists are aware of this and thus are believed preparing an expensive bill to present once the war is ended.

Realization that most syndicalists also are members of FAI (Federation of Iberian Anarchists) is causing more conservative politicians increasing concern.

Communists Smallest Group.

The expressed belief that Spain definitely is headed toward Communism is causing little worry, however, those close to the Government declare. Communsts at present comprise the smallest group within the Madrid regime.

Although Communists have unqualified support of the General Workers' Union in seeking to establish a Union of Soviet Republics in Spain, it is known they are not yet ready to press toward this objective.

Experienced observers, nevertheless, look for trouble among these various forces—Socialists who comprise the most conservative element of the Government, and the more radical Communists and syndicalists.

Already these elements are charging each other with shirking the burden of war, each permitting the other to bear the brunt of fighting.

AMERICAN MALARIA GERMS BEING SENT TO ENGLAND

British Want to Use Them for Treating Paresis, as Has Been Done in U. S.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1. — The United States Public Health Service is attempting to deliver a strain of living malaria germs to the British Ministry of Health in London. The British are anxious to experiment with these American germs in treating paresis, a form of insanity.

The Health Service has sent Dr. L. R. Thompson, the assistant Surgeon-General of the United States, to cross the Atlantic with a vial of the living germs packed in ice.

Dr. Thompson sailed from New York Wednesday. If he succeeds the journey will be the first Atlantic crossing of such a perishable serum.

The strain, officials said, has proved successful in the United States in paresis treatment. It was produced at the Public Health laboratory at Columbia, S. C.

Kept at 50 degrees Fahrenheit, the serum is now being shipped all over the United States in living condition. It is produced by infecting mosquitoes with malaria, dissecting their salivery glands and transferring the malarial sporozites to a culture medium.

CANDIDATE FINDS 'LAWYERISM GREATER EVIL THAN BOSSISM'

By the Associated Press.

COLUMBIA, Mo., Sept. 1. — Charging attorneys now controlled Missouri's capital, Otto C. Both of Jefferson City, in a radio campaign speech for Governor on the Non-Partisan ticket here last night, described "lawyerism as a greater evil than bossism."

Botz contended that as long as attorneys continued in power reduction in taxes for State Government was impossible. He particularly objected to the election of an attorney as Governor, although he mentioned Jesse W. Barrett of St. Louis, Republican gubernatorial candidate and an attorney, only indirectly.

The Non-Partisan candidate claimed State officials had employed numerous high-priced legal advisers needlessly.

He attacked the present State Public Service Commission as one composed of five attorneys, and added that, if he were named Governor, he would limit the legal profession to one post on the board during his administration.

WELCOME FOR 'QUEEN MARY'

Thousands Cheer Record-Breaking Liner at Southampton Docks.

By the Associated Press.

SOUTHAMPTON, England, Sept. 1.—The liner Queen Mary was given a welcome last night when it arrived home from its record-breaking round trip across the Atlantic.

Tugs, speedboats, yachts loaded with pleasure seekers, and steamers escorted the liner to the dock where tens of thousands joined townfolk and dockworkers, in cheering. Airplanes roared above and harbor craft added to the din with their sirens. The Queen Mary steamed past Bishop's Rock off the English coast at 8:12 p. m. Sunday, three days, 23 hours and 57 minutes after passing Ambrose Light off New York. This time shortened the previous record by the French liner Normandie by more than three hours for the eastward crossing.

SENATE REQUESTS GRAND JURY ACT ON DETECTIVE FIRM

Submits Case of Audit Company, in Civil Liberties Inquiry, to District Prosecutor.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—With its complaint against a detective agency in the hands of the District Attorney for grand jury action, Senator LaFollette's committee on reported violations of civil liberties in labor disputes, announced today its agents had been given access to records of four munition companies and a hearing set for tomorrow had been postponed tentatively until Sept. 15.

The committee last week subpenaed officers of the Lake Erie Chemical Co. and the United States Ordnance Engineers, both of Cleveland, Federal Laboratories, Inc., of Pittsburgh, and Auto Ordnance, Inc., of New York, to appear tomorrow. The officials were directed to bring records of their companies. It was indicated the committee desired to study alleged sale of firearms and tear gas to industries.

Since, however, the companies have opened their records to committee investigators, officials said there was no need for a hearing at this time. Also subpenaed for tomorrow were officers of the A. A. Ahner Detective Agency of St. Louis. Officials said this subpena also would be extended.

The grand jury action was requested late yesterday of District Attorney Leslie C. Garnett by Vice-President Garner, who notified the official that charges of contumacy had been lodged by Senator La Follette's committee against six executives of the Railway Audit and Inspectors Co. The executives failed to appear in response to Senate subpenas.

Those cited by Garner to Garnett were: W. W. Groves of Pittsburgh and Philadelphia, president of the company; W. B. Groves, Pittsburgh, vice-president; Earl Douglas Rice, Pittsburgh, vice-president; J. E. Blair, Pittsburgh, secretary-treasurer; R. S. Judge of New York, director, and J. C. Boyer, Pittsburgh.

Soviet Cleaning House For New Constitution

Trial of 16 Part of Campaign to Eliminate Those Who Refuse to Accept Stalin —Drive On Complainers Next.

(Copyright, 1936.)

MOSCOW, Sept. 1.—The trial and execution of Gregory S. Zineviev, Leo Kamenev and the 14 others on the charge of plotting with Leon Trotsky against the lives of Josef Stalin and nearly all the other members of the group at the top of the Soviet hierarchy was different in many ways from any of the numerous other cases of mass trial and punishment which are sprinkled through the records of the Soviet Union since the revolution.

Not only was the plot as its details appeared in court cast more in the classic mold of a heartless struggle for individual power, but for the first time a group which could legitimately be called "old Bolsheviks"—men who had really played important parts in making the revolution—were condemned and executed by those who had once been their comrades. Moreover, although it is still doubtful whether its purpose was as simple as it appears, the trial was undoubtedly carried out with an international end in view.

The spectacle of 16 men, all of considerably more than ordinary intellectual caliber, not only admitting guilt but admitting it with eloquent fervor, is not apt to be forgotten by any of those who sat in that cortroom.

No Denials in Five Years.

For persons whose lives are not spent in the atmosphere of political intrigue and passions, and whose normal expectancy is to die in bed, men who are apparently passionately determined to throw away their lives are a little difficult to understand. Yet this happens to have been the fifth conspiracy trial with a death sentence at the end which this correspondent has reported in the last five years, and never yet has he heard anyone deny guilt.

Zinoviev, Kamenev and most of the others not only did not deny their guilt, but actually appeared to be getting some deep emotional satisfaction out of their confessions. One explanation, of course, may be found in their pasts. All leaders of this plot had many times in the past been faced with the probability of sudden death. All had gone through a school of training designed above everything else to teach them that political power was worth dying for.

As Sergei V. Mrachkovsky said in his final address before the three judges of the military tribunal, many times in the past he and most of his fellow prisoners had condemned others to die for the sake of the revolution. The desire which seemed uppermost in the minds of the leaders was not self-preservation, but to get themselves straight with history. "How many ages hence shall this, our lofty scene, be acted over?" Cassius said, washing his hands in Caesar's blood.

Zinoviev's Dramatic Farewell.

"My name will not enter history along with the names with which it might once have been connected," Zinoviev said from the prisoners' bar. "It will be joined with that of Trotzky. But somewhere I hope, it will be said that Zinoviev died repentant. Before you stands a former, not present, enemy, traitor and dangerous foe."

So much for courtroom dramatics. No Caesar's ghost brought these men before a firing squad. For almost 10 years they have been in and out of prisons and exile camps and, like Trotzky, always the reason for their troubles has been their refusal to accept quietly the power which Stalin and his group of "Stalinites" acquired after the death of Nikolai Lenin.

In a way, the 16 men in the prisoners' box might have been divided roughly into two troups. Zinoviev, Kanenev, Ivan Smirnov, I. P. Bakayev, Mrachkovsy, G. E. Yevdokimov — old Bolsheviks among the defendants — had done their plottings as far back as 1932 and for at least 18 months — in the case of Smirnov, for the last three years—had relatively been immobilized by prison sentences. Younger men, the Davids, Berman-Yurens and the Luryes in the box, represented a new group, not of leading conspirators but of "inspired gunmen" who had come, most of them said, to put into execution ideas given them by Trotzky.

OGPU Surprisingly Inactive.

Regarding the older group, some legitimate surprise may be expressed that such a supposedly in-

10 SENTENCED TO JAIL FOR RIOT ON BREMEN

Eight Women Get 7 Days, 2 Men 14 for Anti-Fascist Disorder on Liner.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—Eight women and two men were convicted of disorderly conduct and sentenced to the Workhouse yesterday for their roles in an anti-Fascist riot aboard the liner Bremen Aug. 21.

Police Magistrate Henry H. Curran, in pronouncing sentence, said "the men who instigated this are not present. I don't know who they are. It is one of the most cowardly things I ever heard of. They hatched this plot and then went into hiding behind women's petticoats."

"This kind of demonstration must be stopped," he continued. "It cannot be condoned. If it is condoned what is coming next? They could follow with demonstrations aboard Italian ships, French ships, or ships of any other country."

Testimony at Trial.

The defendants, it was testified, boarded the ship before sailing and then released banners with anti-Fascist slogans. The women dropped coats to display shirts with anti-Nazi and anti-Fascist sentiments emblazoned on them.

In their defense it was testified that members of the crew of the Bremen, a North German Lloyd liner, struck and beat the defendants.

"What would happen if we had a revolution in this country," the Magistrate asked, "and in a foreign country one of our ships was boarded? Would the disturbers be treated more gently by our seamen?"

Eleventh Defendant Fined.

The Magistrate said it was "painful" for him to sentence the women to seven days in the Workhouse. The two men received 14-day sentences. Another defendants, Abbott Simon, a writer, was fined $25. The case of a twelfth defendant was continued.

"Some of the defendants are Communists," the Magistrate said, "but that makes no difference to this Court. It is not political sympathies that are on trial here."

The riot was the second in which anti-Fascist sympathizers singled out the Bremen for their demonstration.

NO MOVE TOWARD UNION PEACE, WILLAM GREEN SAYS

Ten Organizations to Be Suspended by A. F. of L. Saturday Unless They Quit Lewis.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, said today there was nothing in the wind" to prevent suspension Saturday of 10 unions affiliated with the Committee for Industrial Organization.

"Nothing has happened and there are no conferences planned to stop suspension," Green said.

The Federation's Executive Council voted several weeks ago to suspend the 10 unions Sept. 5 unless they withdrew from the committee headed by John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers.

Previously the council had found the Lewis union guilty of "insurrection" in promoting the organization of all the workers in each large industry into one big union, regardless of A. F. of L. rules protecting craft unions.

JAPANESE TEAR UP GOLF LINKS

Soldiers Invade Peiping Club in China.

By the Associated Press.

PEIPING, Sept. 1.—Mounted Japanese soldiers invaded the Peiping Club links today.

Players said the soldiers rode over the course, tearing up greens and fairways, then dismounted and did setting up exercises. Witnesses said several of them took their clothes off and lay around on the turf. Chinese and foreigners expressed indignation. Many prominent Japanese are among the club's members.

Russian Soldier Mutiny Denied.

MOSCOW, Sept. 1.—Soviet officials denied unconditionally today reports published in a German newspaper of mutiny among Russian soldiers at Rjasan, about 150 miles from Moscow. At the same time, the Russian press attacked bitterly what it termed "inspired, fantastic lies and calumnies." Reports published in the Voelkischer Redbachter, Chancellor Adolf Hitler's newspaper, declared 300 Russian officers and men had been executed for mutiny.

URGES INTERNATIONAL ARMY

New Zealand Also Suggests Air Force for League.

By the Associated Press.

GENEVA, Sept. 1.—New Zealand, suggesting League of Nations reform, today presented a memorandum advocating the creation of an international land, sea and air force to be placed at the disposition of the League to combat warmakers.

National plebiscites were suggested to approve the contribution of armed forces to the League. The separation of the League Covenant from post-war treaties also was urged.

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles; that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare; never be satisfied with merely printing news; always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

For a Non-Partisan Slate of Judges.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

VOTERS in general, and lawyers in particular, are bemoaning the outlook for our Circuit Court. Democrats frankly admit that their nominees are unworthy of support, and on the other hand, Republicans complain that their nominees are equally unworthy of support; that they have been waiting for opportunity to defeat them.

All of us are mindful of the fact that some of the Republican Judges, now up for re-election, were severely criticised about the handling of receivership cases in a report made to the Bar Association about three years ago. On all sides we hear the cry: Cannot something be done to take our courts out of politics? Something should be done. We cannot sit idly by. Our best minds ought to get together quickly and reach a prudent decision. The time is short.

Why not start a movement to circulate petitions and place on the ballot in November a non-partisan group of able and representative lawyers, three Democrats and three Republicans? Thus give all citizens who are dissatisfied with both the Republican and Democratic slates an opportunity to cast them aside and vote to elect six lawyers who will not owe anything to either party, and who will not be subservient to the various committeemen of both parties, whose recent election (?) was such a monstrosity.

Would not voters welcome an opportunity to vote for any six of the following?—

Blodgett Priest, past president of the Lawyers' Association.
J. Hugo Grimm, former Circuit Judge.
Jesse McDonald, former Circuit Judge.
Alphonse G. Eberle, Dean, St. Louis University, School of Law.
Israel Treiman, professor of law, Washington University.
George L. Corlis, Dean, Benton College of Law.
Carl Wheaton, professor of law, St. Louis University.

Just as a committee of doctors now passes upon all medical appointments within our city, can we not form a committee of representative citizens to act in like manner with respect to our courts? Some good straight-thinking laymen, as well as lawyers, should compose the committee. Will not some of our civic organizations act quickly and sponsor a meeting to form such a committee?

It will not be difficult to obtain the requisite number of signatures to place such a judicial ticket on our November ballot. This will afford all honest citizens an opportunity to divorce our courts from politics; to elect men who will be free to decide legal problems honestly, fearlessly and impartially. It will also give us a splendid oportunity to express resentment of political machines, fraudulent registrations, ballot-box stuffing and kindred objectionable practices.

Let us rise to the occasion and act, instead of merely moaning about what has been dished out to us. Our present laws are sufficient. The ways and means are at hand.

Wake up, St. Louis!

INGENS TELUM NECESSITAS.

Urges a Permanent Safety Drive.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

THERE is no reason why the present traffic safety drive should not be made permanent. Why stage it for 30 days, then forget speed limits, failures to observe stop signs and stop-and-go lights for another 11 months? City speed limit, except downtown and in parks, is 30 miles. That is fast enough for all ordinary purposes and exceptions could always be made for sickness or other emergency causes in excess of ordinance speeds, on proper proof of such emergency.

E. B. JENKINS.

Political Freedom of Catholics.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

DOES not the good man from Concordia Seminary, who assailed the political activity of Father Coughlin, see for himself—since he lives in this city of Catholic churches, colleges, hospitals, orphanages and Father Tim's breadline—that the church is kept busy ministering to poor, broken humanity, and that her concern is to establish here on earth living conditions that will enable her followers to save their souls and gain heaven?

She deprives none of her children of the right to political convictions or the right to free speech. She fosters the ingenuity of man to create better conditions, so long as no moral law is violated in doing so. Father Coughlin was speedily rebuked for his epithet, "liar," and was reminded that no unbecoming act will be countenanced. So long as his zeal and enthusiasm for political and social betterment prevail, he has the same right to speak out that the good Dr. Maier enjoys.

It would seem, at this time, when American Catholics, Protestants and Jews have formed an alliance to foster a better understanding of religious liberty and united patriotism, Dr. Maier would join in our effort to maintain one flag, "one nation, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all."

Father Coughlin has not been guilty of inertia, at least.

JUSTICE.

CHALLENGING FIGURES.

The Post-Dispatch has published lately an analysis of the returns from a portion of the city's voting precincts for the primary election of Aug. 4.

If this analysis did nothing else, it gave startling proof of the machine power of both the major parties to deliver votes. But it did more than that. At the very least, it furnished ground for the strong presumption that something more sinister, more inimical to good government, than the exercise of machine strength occurred on this primary day.

For occasional uniformity or unanimity of voting, coincidence or negligible underhandedness may be the explanation. For the widespread repetition of uniform voting and the failure of all candidates not on machine slates to obtain credit for any votes in precinct after precinct, another explanation must be sought.

Peculiar uniformity and harmony of the reported vote for Democratic nominations in general in 30 precincts of seven wards, also in individual cases in a number of additional precincts in these and six other wards.

Similar votes in the contest of 25 Democrats for six nominations for circuit judgeships in 56 precincts of 12 wards.

Markedly one-sided or uniform returns in Mike Kinney's Fifth Ward and Jimmy Miller's Fourth Ward, as outstanding examples of some of the figures encountered. Certain precincts in several other wards, however, are equally conspicuous.

Remarkable characteristics of the vote for members of the official party committees in 10 wards among the Democrats and several among the Republicans.

In some instances, it is easy to believe that a different outcome of the election in certain precincts might have changed the result in the city as a whole.

It is incredible that in so many precincts, even under the tutelage of machine ward-heelers, the voters should have cast their ballots in the complete unison of opinion shown. Such a condition does not ring true to human nature, human fallacy or the law of averages. For example, how, under proper conditions of voting, could exactly the same total vote be cast for every office, whether there was one candidate for an office, or two, or more? Yet that is what the official returns show repeatedly. This condition is even carried into the complicated voting for Circuit Judges, where Democratic voters had to choose six out of 25 candidates and Republicans six out of 10. The voting for the circuit bench constitutes one of the most amazing features of the situation. One-third of the membership of that vitally important tribunal is to be elected this year.

Credulity is taxed to accept the accuracy of a count showing a complete absence of votes for so many candidates in so many precincts. The history of elections—even the city-wide result for this primary—is at variance with the official returns showing identical totals for various offices in many precincts. The usual result is the casting of more votes for unopposed candidates than the aggregates for those having contests, and the casting of more valid ballots in simple contests than in complicated ones, such as the judicial candidates had on this occasion.

The Post-Dispatch study was made in a comparatively short time and was necessarily limited. To the grand jury, with the power and machinery at its command, a far more intensive inquiry is possible.

The Post-Dispatch disclosed wholesale fraud in the registration for the primary. Under the compelling force of the facts, the Election Board ordered a belated recanvass of the registration lists, with the result that "not found" was entered against 46,000 names. Despite the exposure of fraud in the registration, the conclusion is inescapable, from the figures that have been compiled on the strange uniformity of voting, that the election itself offers a fertile field for official investigation designed to protect the ballot against corruption.

The election figures present a new challenge to the grand jury that will be convened on Sept. 14.

THE KANE INCIDENT.

The Department of State, thanks in large measure to the level-headedness of Secretary Cordell Hull, has handled the destroyer bombing incident both calmly and firmly. Attributing the airplane attack on the United States destroyer Kane, 40 miles off the Spanish coast, to mistaken identity, Mr. Hull has notified the Spanish Government at Madrid and the revolutionist commander, Gen. Francisco Franco, to take whatever precaution is necessary to see that a repetition of the bombing does not occur.

The alarmist in the seat of authority probably would have flared up at the news of the attack, interpreting it as an affront to the American flag, which the Kane conspicuously displayed. Secretary Hull sets a good example for the country when he looks at the facts and reasons sensibly: "It is not conceivable that either a Spanish Government plane or an insurgent plane would knowingly make an attack upon an American naval vessel."

Fortunately, not one of the six bombs dropped in three separate flights over the destroyer took effect. Fortunate also is the fact that the return fire of the Kane did not plunge the flyers into the sea and to their deaths. As it is, the incident serves as a warning to the warring factions in Spain that they must take care not to involve a neutral Power in their trouble, even though it be unintentionally.

Republicans told Mr. Landon while here that his chances in Missouri were bright and hourly growing brighter, and now the Democrats are saying that the Governor will have a hard fight to carry his home State of Kansas. Which goes to show that when they make up their minds to it, the Democrats can be just as heartless as the Republicans.

NO HARVEST MOON ROW THIS YEAR.

We commend to the attention of our readers the first monthly Post-Dispatch calendar, which made its appearance as a part of yesterday's issue of the newspaper. Was it hotter today than normally? What was the highest temperature ever recorded for this date? What is the record low? How much rain should there be during the month? What is the direction of the prevailing winds? What is their average hourly velocity? When does the sun rise; when does it set? Which is the morning star and which dominates the evening sky? What is there to watch for in the pageant of the planets overhead? What ought to be done in the garden?

Answers to all these questions and others will be found on the calendar, for whose preparation the special knowledge of Roscoe Nunn of the United States Weather Bureau, Jessica Young Stephens of Washington University and George H. Pring of the Missouri Botanical Garden have been drawn upon. Study of the Post-Dispatch monthly calendars will make the business of everyday living more interesting. Last fall, a sharp-worded controversy raged in our letter column over which full moon was the harvest moon. Consult the Post-Dispatch calendar for September and have no doubts this autumn.

HALE AND HEARTY AT 60.

With ceremonial and sentiment, baseball in St. Louis today turns back the clock to celebrate the founding of the National League in 1876. The game as we now see it is the same in one mathematical essential as it was in the beginning. The distance between the bases remains the same as originally diagrammed by Maj. Doubleday in his historic hour of leisure at fashionable Cooperstown. In all other respects, evolution has obliterated the primitive technique which in its own hour was as fascinating and miraculous to the spellbound spectators as the grimy science and glittering art of today's exhibitionism.

In point of paraphernalia, they were as nudist colonies, the teams of long ago. Those bare-handed pioneers would have scorned the glove as a sissy accoutrement, and mask and protector and shin guards, in which the catcher is today encased like a knight in armor, were to come along later in the sequence of speed and attainment. The curve ball had not yet been contrived to baffle the sturdy batsman, though it was soon to appear, notwithstanding the learned skepticism of eminent Yale professors who were certain the laws of physics condemned such nonsense to fantasy or downright fibbing. And with the curve, baseball was to slough off its mustachios, its sedate decorum, its languorous individualism, and dignified twilight contests were soon to flare into the Thermopylaes, Pharsalias, Waterloos of Here and Now. That handsomely caparisoned decoration, the manager, was to exercise Napoleonic sway, an extemporaneous tactician, a master mind, applying psychology in a blistering idiom the Freuds and Jungs could never comprehend.

A century after "the Spirit of 1776," when the National League was born, the country, staggering under the accumulated burdens of the Grant administrations, was following the campaign fortunes of Samuel Tilden and Rutherford B. Hayes, and when the National League's aborigines went into their first winter quarters, the famous "Commission of Fifteen," by partisan 8-to-7 decisions, awarded the contested electoral votes to Mr. Hayes, thereby continuing the Republican succession. Only a spark was needed to touch off the explosion, but at the moment of imminent peril a young Southern editor could arise from his seat in the House to preach the gospel of conciliation, to advocate acceptance of the verdict—a young editor who was to live long and splendidly, to become to the whole nation the beloved "Marse Henry" Watterson, who found time in his crowded years to adore baseball and to know and be known by "the old lost stars" of the diamond's far yesterdays.

Legend and poetry and deeds of derring-do and a roster of immortals whose places are unerringly filled by the recruits of youth as the generations wax and wither. Stars blaze and fade, and the game goes on.

MUSSOLINI AT AVELLINO.

Mussolini's war-like speech at Avellino, at a time when all of Europe is trembling with apprehension over the prospect of another great conflict, sounds like the utterance of a madman or the braggadocio of an adolescent. He calls upon the Italian people not to be misled by the "absurdity of eternal peace"; he enjoins them to "be strong," to be "always stronger." "We must be strong enough to face any eventualities; to look any destiny firmly in the eye. To this supreme end all the life of the nation must be subordinated."

This is the kind of statesmanship which plunged Europe into the World War; it is Nietzscheism in the seats of the mighty. It is the kind of statesmanship which will tend to hasten another bath of blood which may mean the end of European civilization. And in all of Italy, with free speech suppressed, not a single voice can be raised against this egomaniac whose power is supreme, whose word is law. What a commentary this is on a land which bore Garibaldi, the great apostle of human liberty!

Motorists! This is the "closed" season on pedestrians.

PERTURBATION AT WOOD'S HOLE.

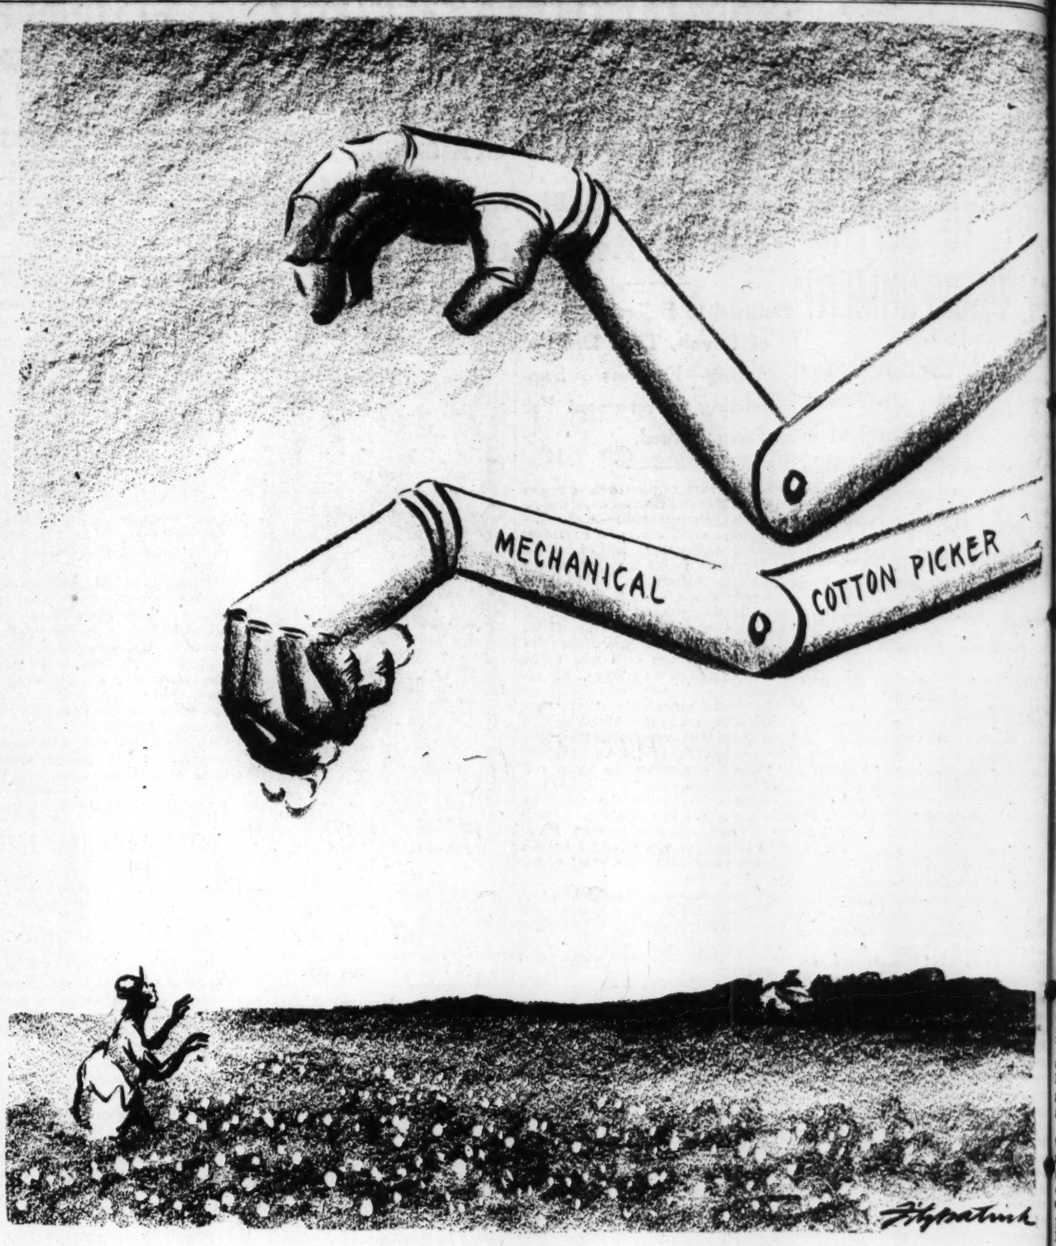

The peace and quiet of Wood's Hole, where Maj. Stark is attempting to enjoy a holiday, has again been broken by a message from Mr. Barrett asking the Major to meet him in a series of debates on the issues of the gubernatorial campaign. It must be rather embarrassing for the Major, who has shown little taste thus far for the grinding work involved in a hard-fought campaign. He won the nomination in a breeze, paying little or no attention to the challenges hurled at him by his Democratic opponent, William Hirth. But it is going to be more difficult for him to ignore Mr. Barrett's thrusts.

A series of debates, as Mr. Barrett says, would "clarify the important issues and make this campaign really constructive and enlightening." Yes, indeed. There is no finer way to take the measure of candidates and to gain an understanding of the issues than to hear them from the same platform on the same day. However, one of the subjects Mr. Barrett wishes to discuss is the Pendergast machine, which he regards as the most important issue in Missouri today. "You can tell the voters," Mr. Barrett writes, "why you think the issue is threadbare, and I will tell them why I think the Kansas City machine is a malignant growth which demands immediate and complete removal."

Perhaps we are mistaken, but it is dollars to doughnuts that Maj. Stark has no heart for such a discussion. For, although he disavows any pledges to Pendergast, the Major is the recipient of the Pendergast support and what that means may easily be discovered by a cursory glance at the primary election results, showing the amazing totals given to Maj. Stark in Kansas City and Jackson County, plus his vast winning majority in St. Louis, where he was slated by local political bosses who follow Pendergast's lead.

Mr. Barrett has put the Major on the horns of a dilemma.

LITTLE MAN, WHAT NOW?

Hearst and Landon

Publisher's ardent support of Landon, both before and after nomination, caused opponents to charge candidate was under his dominance; Governor "broke the bonds," political writer says, by denouncing teachers' oaths, one of Hearst's pet policies; gives Kansan credit for political decisiveness and willingness to take risk.

Arthur Krock in the New York Times.

LAST winter, having been advised by many counselors of the peculiar qualifications of Gov. Landon to oppose the President for re-election—geographical and personal—William Randolph Hearst headed a Pullman car caravan to Topeka and had a talk with the Governor of Kansas. After it was over, his representatives expressed themselves as pleased with Mr. Landon; Paul Block, who had drawn Mr. Hearst's attention to the Governor, was beaming; and the Hearst newspapers shortly afterward vigorously espoused his candidacy for the nomination.

Mr. Landon was nominated at Cleveland, where Hearst editors and other executives participated in effective conferences to that end, and the platform reflected certain of their chief's accusations against the New Deal.

Prior to the convention, Mr. Hearst, in conjunction with Gov. Merriam, and as an anti-Hoover political move, had brought out a California slate of delegates instructed for Mr. Landon to oppose an uninstructed group favored by Mr. Hoover. The Young Republicans of California had vainly sought audience at Topeka to request Mr. Landon to disavow the Hearst slate, as they understood him to have encouraged them to elect an unpledged but favorable delegation. When the Cleveland convention adjourned, Mr. Landon's relations with Mr. Hearst had survived efforts to rive them, based somewhat on fear that they involved the kiss of death.

* * *

To etch the Hearst-Landon connection more deeply came the nomination for Vice-President of Col. Knox, who had for several years been one of the publisher's chief executives. At the time of his nomination, Col. Knox had for some time been a rival publisher in Chicago, but he had been a "Hearst man," and opportunity was provided to the Democratic campaign management to stress the link of the past. Mr. Hearst warmly indorsed the Colonel's selection for second place and has since prominently featured his speeches, with admiring editorial comment.

Therefore, the stage was well set for a partisan representation of Mr. Landon as under the influence of Mr. Hearst and the policies of those newspapers. How effective it would have been may be judged from the fact that in the various headquarters of the two major parties are recurring reports that motion-picture audiences continue to make unfriendly demonstrations when they see any of the publisher's labels.

Mr. Landon broke the bonds and stove a huge hole in the strategy when, at Chautauqua last week, he denounced special oaths for teachers. This has been a pet Hearst policy—one of the spearheads in the anti-Communist campaign carried on by those newspapers—and Mr. Landon knows it well.

Several states have passed laws making the requirement, and Congress has attempted to fasten the oath on teachers in the District of Columbia. Mr. Landon has been justly criticised for vagueness and failure to take public positions requiring courage. But what he said at Chautauqua makes a large score on the other side, for a number of reasons.

Primarily, the utterance must be placed to his credit on the ground of personal and political decisiveness, and willingness to take a risk. Whatever public feeling in the country may be, a presidential candidate takes a risk when he goes out of his way to assail a major policy of Mr. Hearst, and Mr. Landon went out of his way to do this in the sense that nobody expected him to refer to the matter in his Chautauqua speech.

If it is also true, as several careful newspaper reporters assert, that one of Mr. Hearst's editors specifically asked Mr. Landon to eliminate the reference before the speech was given to the press, he must be awarded a second mark for courage.

And there was another factor of risk involved which Mr. Landon must have known because, however much time he may have been able to give to the newspapers of late, his private cabinet is well aware of political issues in the states where the candidate is to speak. In opposing the teachers' oath, and coming out generally against intellectual regimentation, Mr. Landon on New York State soil broke with the Republican leaders who have championed Speaker Ives' bill. Republican politicians in other states have passed or sponsored similar measures against much public opposition, and these also were placed in an embarrassing position.

It is quite true that, as between the President and Gov. Landon as public officials, no issue was made in the Chautauqua speech. Mr. Roosevelt also has definitely opposed Federal interference with the school system and the teachers' oaths, and advocates of the pledge have often attributed that opposition to radical persuasions. But no longer can the argument be as easily sustained that Mr. Landon dodges and trims on everything risky, or that he would, if elected, fall in with whatever Mr. Hearst advocates.

What the publisher will do about this defiance remains to be seen. (Hearst papers last week commented on Landon's statement on teachers' oaths as "a regrettable departure from the high plane of true Americanism to which he has consistently adhered."—Editor's note.) He is in the Landon campaign very deeply now, apparently on a one-way street.

VOTING FRAUDS IN TWO CITIES.

From the Kansas City Times.

A NOTORIOUS feature of election fraud in Kansas City is the lodging house vote. It likewise has constituted a major element of fraudulent voting in New York City. But something is going to be done about it there. In a move to eliminate the floating vote in that city, Police Commissioner Valentine has issued an order that a survey of all lodging houses is to be made every two weeks from the present time until November.

The survey will make it possible to determine whether persons attempting to vote and giving lodging house addresses are bona fide residents of such places as required by law. It also will provide a check on the affidavits of lodging house keepers as to the number and identity of lodgers and the periods of their residence. If affidavits have been falsely made, prosecution will follow.

What will be done in Kansas City to stop this form of fraudulent registration and voting here?

Spain: An Ancient Tinder-Box

Dr. Harry Elmer Barnes in the New York World-Telegram.

IF A European war breaks out over conflicting sympathies for the contending parties in Spain, it will not be the first time that the internal affairs of Spain have been the foundation of a major war. Three of the bloodiest of European conflicts had their origins in Spanish dissension and its struggles for the government of Spain.

The first of these was the long and costly War of the Spanish Succession. It arose out of a scramble for the inheritance of the Spanish domains. Spain had been ruled since 1665 by the wretchedly incompetent Charles II. His approaching death brought international complications of the first order.

The Holy Roman Emperor and Louis XIV of France desired to get control of the Spanish realms at Charles' death. England and Holland opposed this, for they desired to preserve the balance of power in Europe. To allow either the Empire or France to secure control over Spain and the Spanish possessions would give the fortunate Power an overwhelming preponderance in European affairs.

After some complicated bickering, in which Louis XIV took the lead in double-crossing the other monarchs, Charles was finally induced to make a will handing over the Spanish realms to the grandson of Louis.

England, Holland and Austria united against France in September, 1701, and a decade of carnage ensued. The Allies were victorious, in large part, as a result of the brilliant generalship of the Duke of Marlborough and Prince Eugene of Savoy. The war ended in 1713.

* * *

The second great European war which grew out of internal politics in Spain was the Peninsular War between France and England, from 1808 to 1814, in which the Duke of Wellington (Sir Arthur Wellesley, at the beginning) built up his military reputation.

In May, 1808, Napoleon put his brother, Joseph Bonaparte, on the Spanish throne. The Spanish patriots arose in revolt as a protest. In August, 1808, Wellesley landed with the first British forces, and by 1814 the French had been driven north of the Pyrenees. It was a terrific struggle over six years, and the British victory was due in part to the dogged determination of Wellesley and in part to the weakening of Napoleon's power as a result of the disastrous invasion of Russia.

In 1870 there came the third major war, in which Spanish affairs furnished the pretext for hostilities. In 1869, the Spanish liberals had offered the Spanish throne to Leopold of Hohenzollern-Sigmaringen, cousin of King William of Prussia.

The setting was ripe for war. Bismarck wished to complete the unification of Germany. He had defeated Austria in 1866 and had created the North German Federation. A glorious foreign war might turn the trick of realizing the long-deferred unification.

Napoleon III informed William of Prussia that it would mean war if Leopold accepted the Spanish throne. So Leopold renounced the claim. But Napoleon instructed his Ambassador to importune William and force the latter to declare that no Hohenzollern would ever in the future be a candidate for the Spanish throne.

William rebuffed this high-handed procedure, and Bismarck used the incident to help incite the French to declare war. The French expected an easy victory, but they were quickly and ignominiously crushed.

The next few weeks will tell the story as to whether Spain will perpetuate her traditional role as the tinder-box of European wars.

PROGRESS IN CITY'S CARE OF PATIENTS

Health Commissioner Reports on Development of Additional Hospital Facilities.

A feeling that definite progress had been made during the fiscal year of 1935-36 towards better care of patients in the municipal institutions was expressed by Dr. Ralph L. Thompson, Hospital Commissioner, in his annual report, made public today.

He stressed the development of additional facilities for the relief of institutional overcrowding. Items mentioned included:

Construction of Homer G. Phillips Hospital for Colored, to be occupied by Jan. 1; preparation to start work shortly on Malcolm A. Bliss Psychopathic Institute, adjoining City Hospital, to replace the old observation ward and provide for intensive study of mental diseases; work now under way on a new City Hospital power plant; addition of sun parlors to two wings of City Sanitarium, affording space equal to nine wards, together with kitchen enlargement and erection of a new bakery, ice plant and cold-storage plant; plans for a new ward building at Koch Hospital and completion of a new superintendent's residence; plans under way for a new hospital building and new employes' building at the Training School for the Feeble Minded; extensive repairs, improvements and landscaping at all institutions, largely with the aid of the PWA and WPA.

Negro Hospital Visiting Staff.

The report related steps in the development of a visiting staff of Negro physicians for the Negro hospital, with the assistance of the Rev. Alphonse M. Schwitalla, dean of St. Louis University medical school. It also told how the three separate visiting staffs of City Hospital, drawn from graduates of Washington and St. Louis universities and an "independent" group, had been amalgamated into a single staff, with the expectation of greatly improved service.

Under a new accounting method, to take into consideration all elements of cost of operating the institutions, the following costs per day per patient were determined: City Hospital, $3.54; Isolation Hospital, $3.01; Negro hospital, $2.45; Koch Hospital, $2.36; Training School for the Feeble Minded, $1.33; City Sanitarium, 75 cents; City Infirmary, 55 cents. St. Louis County and individuals responsible for maintenance of some patients at some of the institutions have been billed at these rates and in particular a campaign has been under way to improve collection of bills for insane patients who are not paupers.

Increase in Patient Days.

The report showed that the number of patient-days annually in all institutions rose from 1,973,246 in the fiscal year 1926-27 to 2,532,041 in 1935-36, while the number of clinic treatments rose in the same 10-year period from 99,927 to 300,756. It pointed out that the number of patient days had been virtually the same for the last five years, because the capacity of the institution had been reached.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—New York University honored Dr. William Hallock Park yesterday by naming him professor-emeritus.

In citing the 72-year-old scientist for his achievements, the university said that largely through his efforts in developing diphtheria antitoxin, deaths from the disease in New York City alone have been reduced from approximately 4500 50 years ago to a low mark of 68 last year. A teacher for 64 years, Dr. Park was on the faculty of the university's College of Medicine for 38 years.

SOVIET CLEANING HOUSE FOR NEW CONSTITUTION

fallible organization as the Commissariat of Home Affairs (OGPU) for several years had been watching a group known as dangerous enemies of the Government—without realizing what serious things they were plotting.

The trial and executions clearly were designed as a final effort both to clean out opposition within the country and to strike another blow in the long fight against Trotsky. Internally the trail is being followed by a nation-wide round-up of doubtful elements. It is not limited strictly to proved "Trotskyites" who have never been able to cure themselves of that loyalty, but of every sort of complainer down to those who do not like the Stakhanovite movement.

It can safely be said that this has caught much of the public by surprise for ever since the new constitution was announced, the idea seems to have spread that the era of greater freedom and individual safety is about to begin. However, the cleanup is almost a family affair. President or past party members, Comsomols and others who play active political roles, are mostly involved.

Maybe the cleanup will serve as a useful warning to them that the new constitutional freedom stops some distance short of including freedom to indulge in active opposition to the Kremlin.

E. E. PURKAPILL DIES AT 64

Grocer for More Than 40 Years; Funeral Service Thursday.

Funeral services for E. E. Purkapill, a grocer here for more than 40 years, will be held Thursday morning at 10 o'clock at the Kriegshauser mortuary, 4228 South Kingshighway boulevard. Burial will be in Valhalla Cemetery.

Mr. Purkapill, who was 64 years old, died of heart disease yesterday at his home, 5050A Winona avenue. For the last 31 years his store had been at 2510 North Grand boulevard. Surviving are his wife and a brother.

ARTIST TURNS WRITER; SELLS FIRST BOOK BUT IS KILLED

Charles H. Rathbone, Seascape Painter, Wanted to Win in Another Game, Says Widow.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—Charles Horace Rathbone, seascape artist, changed horses successfully in midstream, only to die before reaching the bank. His first book a collection of short stories dealing with people and life in the West Indies, is being published tomorrow. But Rathbone was killed in an automobile accident last February, just after he had sold the book.

He was a successful painter, whose Brittany seascapes decorate a good many museum walls.

"Mr. Rathbone always was interested in writing," says his widow, Martha Moore, the sculptor. "I don't know exactly why he decided to change mediums after having made a name as a painter. But I suspect it was chiefly that he was the kind of person who likes to meet new challenges. He had had considerable success as a painter, he knew that game inside out although he was only 32 years old. Just for the fun of it, he wanted to beat another game if he could."

FUNERAL OF RACHEL KAUFFMAN

Widow of Morris Kauffman Was 86 Years Old.

Funeral services for Mrs. Rachel Kauffman, widow of the late Morris Kauffman, former luggage manufacturer, who died yesterday of infirmities at her home at 4336 West Pine boulevard, will be held Thursday at 2 p. m. from the Lupton Mortuary, 4449 Olive street. Burial will be in Oak Grove Cemetery.

Mrs. Kauffman, 86 years old, and a native of France, came to St. Louis with her husband 60 years ago. Three daughters and two sons survive.

D. H. WEIR APPROVED AS CENTRAL HIGH HEAD

Committee Accepts Gerling's Recommendation, Board Expected to Ratify It.

Approval of the promotion of David H. Weir from assistant principal to principal of Central High School, as recommended by Superintendent of Instruction Henry J. Gerling, was voted last night by the Instruction committee of the Board of Education. It probably will be ratified by the board Tuesday.

Weir will succeed Stephen A. Douglas, who died May 1. He became a teacher at Central High in 1907 and assistant principal in 1920. His salary will be increased from $4500 a year, net, to $4935. A widower, 58 years old, Weir was married in July to Miss Martha Gerdes, music teacher at Central. He resides at 4116W Rosalie avenue.

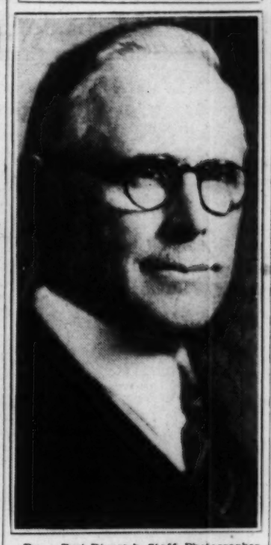

N. B. Dee was approved for promotion from the principalship of Gratiot School to assistant principal at Central, with a salary increase from $3600 to $3995. He was made a teacher at Central in 1916, transferred to Harris Teachers' college in 1926, made principal of the Hodgen ninth-grade center in 1934 and sent to the Gratiot a year ago.

Two new grade school principals were approved, at the same pay increase as Dee—John A. Bays and A. F. Ewers. Bays, who became a Central High teacher in 1916 and served later as supervisor of foreign languages, at Harris Teachers' College and at Cleveland High School, will be assigned to the Pestalozzi School. Ewers, who started in 1911 as a teacher at McKinley High School, later being engaged at Cleveland High and Harris Teachers' College, will be transferred from McKinley to the Lafayette School.

It was announced that about 50 new teachers would be employed when the schools open next week, coming largely from the list of substitutes graduated from the teachers' colleges here. Most of them will start at $1100 or $1200 a year.

The committee approved Dr. Gerling's recommendation for an automatic sprinkler system for the birthplace of Eugene Field, 634 South Broadway, which will be opened as a museum next month. Another delay, for a month, was adopted by the committee on the pending proposal of a board member, Dr. David C. Todd, for administration of diphtheria toxoid for all school children.

MAYOR IN TORONTO TRYING TO GET TROOP FOR HORSE SHOW

Mayor Dickmann is now in Toronto, Canada, attempting to bring a troop of the Canadian Mounted Police here for the St. Louis National Horse Show, which will be held at the Arena Sept. 28 to Oct. 3, it was announced at a meeting of the Horse Show Committee yesterday.

In addition, negotiations are under way to bring cavalry troops from Fort Riley, Kan., here for the event. The show will be held for the benefit of the Firemen's Relief Fund. Tickets will go on sale at the box office in the Arcade Building on Sept. 14.

RESEED ST. LOUIS LAWNS NOW, HORTICULTURISTS ADVISE

Trees and Shrubs Also Do Better in This Climate When Planted in Autumn.

Autumn planting, whenever possible, is a safe practice to follow in St. Louis climate, "because our summers have a way of breaking with a sudden descent of heat and drouth which lasts for the rest of the season," and kills or damages plants set out in the spring before they have had time to become sturdy, is the advice given in the September publication of the St. Louis Horticultural Society.

Lawns should be reseeded at this time of the year. The hot summers make it almost impossible to keep spring-sown lawns alive, the article said, while, if the seed is sown now, and the ground rolled, a substantial turf will be established before frost. A lawn is more likely to carry over the winter in St. Louis than a newly seeded plot is of going through one of our summers.

General plantings of trees and shrubs also should be done in the autumn. Evergreens may be planted at any time now before the ground freezes, while deciduous material should be put in when the wood has ripened and the leaves have fallen. They will then have the entire winter in which to establish roots, so that, when next summer comes, they will have at least a halfway chance of surviving, the article said.

FUNERAL SERVICES TOMORROW FOR MRS. NORA R. WATTS

Wife of Wabash Passenger Traffic Manager Died of Complications at Age of 60.

Funeral services for Mrs. Nora Rothwell Watts, wife of H. E. Watts, passenger traffic manager of the Wabash Railway, who died Sunday of complications at her home at 109 Skinker boulevard, will be held tomorrow at 8:30 a. m. at the Alexander mortuary, 6175 Delmar boulevard. Burial will be in the Oakland Cemetery at Moberly, Mo.

Mrs. Watts, 60 years old, was born and reared in Moberly. After her marriage she and her husband moved to St. Louis in 1909. Her father, Dr. W. A. Rothwell, was both a minister and physician and was well known in central Missouri. Besides her husband, she is survived by a son living in Miami, Fla.

Mechanical Cotton Picker Tested in Field

THIS invention of the Rust brothers of Memphis was given a try-out yesterday in a field at Stoneville, Miss. It was the first of a series of tests. There were criticisms of the amount of cotton lost and left hanging on bushes, estimated at one to 33 per cent, and the pickup of foreign matter. Experts were still uncertain as to the machine's likely effect on the South's agricultural future.

TWO PRISONERS ESCAPE FROM CITY SANITARIUM

One Recaptured Two Weeks Ago, After Escape of More Than Year Ago.

Two prisoners under observation at the City Sanitarium since their arrests on criminal charges escaped last night by picking the lock on their third floor cell and going down the fire scape.

One of them, Stanley Gotch, 24 years old, had just been recaptured two weeks before, after escaping a year ago; he was placed in the sanitarium in March, 1935, after being arrested for questioning about a holdup. The other was Joseph Byrne, 31, who was arrested Aug. 7 for questioning about passing of bogus checks.

An attendant found them missing when he went to their cell to take them to breakfast this morning.

TEAGLE DEDUCTED BIRD DOG KENNEL LOSS FROM TAXES

Standard Oil Executive Appeals When Treasury Rejects It; Calls Operation a Business.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1. — Contending he was operating bird dog kennels as a business, Walter C. Teagle, Standard Oil Co. executive, complained today to the Board of Tax Appeals that the Treasury had disallowed a deduction of $6825 as a loss on the venture in 1933.

Teagle was charged with an income tax deficiency of $4310 when the Treasury disallowed the kennel operating loss, the Government taking the position the venture was a hobby.

"Petitioner feels he is entitled to deduct his loss," Teagle's appeal said. "Certainly if he is not entitled to deduct his loss, then when his business makes a profit he should not be required to report his gains."

Teagle, who paid a tax of $94,250 on his 1933 income, said he proposed to continue his kennel operation until it showed a profit. The kennel is in Alabama.

MARKED EARNINGS RISE POINTED OUT BY BANK

New York Federal Reserve Institution Also Cites Gain in "Other Loans."

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 1. — An unusually vigorous increase for the time of year in loans, other than those on securities, was noted today by the monthly review of the New York Federal Reserve Bank as one of outstanding banking developments of August.

Principal New York City banks, the review said, showed an increase of approximately $40,000,000 in this type of borrowing in the three weeks ended Aug. 26, while reporting banks in other leading cities showed a rise of $84,000,000 in the three weeks ended Aug. 19.

The review pointed out that while commercial borrowing frequently reaches the summer low point at the end of July and shows the beginning of the autumn increase during August, this year the rise occurred after practically no seasonal decline, and carried totals to a level last seen in the autumn of 1933.

The review contained a compilation showing net profits of 253 industrial and mercantile corporations rose 73 per cent in the June quarter, compared with the corresponding period last year.

Outstanding in earnings improvement were automobile, building supply, chemical and drug, machinery and tool and steel groups which benefited from expansion in construction and revived demand for industrial equipment.

For the first half of 1936, net profits of 380 industrial and mercantile companies were 60 per cent above figures for the comparable period last year, the reserve bank said in its monthly review.

The half year showing was only about 13 per cent below profits for the corresponding 1930 period.

Discussing the 50 per cent increase in reserve requirements for member banks Aug. 15, the reserve bank noted the "only discernible change in the position of the reserve banks was a small increase in the number and amount of loans to member banks, caused by borrowings of a few banks that did not have sufficient funds immediately available to cover the increase in their reserve requirements.

"The aggregate amount of such loans to member banks was about $1,400,000 in this district and approximately $2,100,000 for the country as a whole."

Following the boost, the bank said, the ratio of excess reserves to required reserves was smaller in New York City than the average for all member banks.

The ratio for New York City dropped from 96 to 30 per cent. All member banks had a ratio of about 80 per cent compared with 120 before the boost.

WASHINGTON BUSINESS NOTES

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—Broad advance in tourist travel this summer is reported by the Commerce Department.

For the week ended Aug. 26, the department found business at New England resort hotels 12 to 20 per cent ahead of last year. A "tremendous increase" in summer travel was listed for Florida, tourist business jacked up gasoline tax revenues in Texas sufficiently to pay for the State's participation in the centennial celebrations and tourist traffic in Oregon was at a "record rate." Buffalo and Minneapolis also reported upturns and vacation travel generally upped leather goods and luggage sales in New York.

Dollar volume of new automobile retail financing in July is fixed by the Commerce Department at 8.4 per cent under June, 56 per cent above July, 1935, and 72 per cent above the same month in 1934. For the first seven months of this year, the figure was 61 per cent above the similar 1935 period.

As measured by the National Fertilizer Association, the wholesale commodity price average has reached the highest point since November, 1930.

For the week ended Aug. 15, the association's index (based on 1926-28) stood at 80.3 compared with 79.9 for the preceding week and 78.1 for the same week a year ago. The figure has shown an increase in 11 of 13 weeks since May 16 after sagging downward early in the year.

The Far West marked up the greatest advance in rural retail sales during July, the Commerce Department reports, with an increase over the same month a year ago of 25 per cent.

A 24 per cent upturn is shown for the South, 19 per cent for the East and 12.5 per cent for the Middle West. All sections showed seasonal declines under June.

AUGUST B. & O. PASSENGER REVENUE 20 PCT. OVER 1931

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—Passenger revenues of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Co., in August increased 20 per cent over the like 1935 month, Daniel Willard, president, said today.

Gross revenues for the month will be the best in several years, he added.

Total freight carloadings in August aggregated 211,054 cars, the road announced, compared with 174,204 in August, 1935, a gain of 21.4 per cent. In July of this year loadings totaled 209,723 cars.

The improvement in carloadings reflected increased movement of all classifications, Willard said.

MINING LIST, SPECIALTIES SCORE GAINS IN TRADING

Steels, Motors and Other Recent Leaders Exhibit Declining Trends—Close Is Irregular.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 1. — Mining issues came to life in the latter part of today's stock market session and, along with assorted specialties, registered gains of fractions to a point or more.

But steels, motors and other recent leaders exhibited falling trends. The closing was irregular. Transfers approximated 1,100,000 shares.

Business and industrial developments were interpreted as constructive by most analysts. The foreign situation was a confusing influence marketwise, however, and some traders apparently decided that profit-taking was the more conservative policy at the moment.

The list started unevenly and, after a dip in the first hour, most losses were shaded or canceled. Trends again turned spotty in late dealings.

The rails were steady to moderately improved during the greater part of the day, and the utilities slipped a shade either way.

Among the Gainers.

Among the gainers were Howe Sound, McIntyre Porcupine, U. S. Smelting, American Smelting, Dome, Cerro de Pasco, Alaska Juneau, Westinghouse, Waldorf System, Collins & Aikman, Mack Truck, Crosley Radio, American Chain, Baltimore & Ohio, Bucyrus-Erie, Sears Roebuck, American Can, Allied Chemical and Continental Can.

Losers included U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, Chrysler, Auburn, Douglas Aircraft, Seaboard Oil, du Pont, Johns-Manville and Electric Auto-Lite.

A few of the low-priced theater stocks were lively without getting very far ahead.

Bonds were steady. Wheat at Chicago was off ½ to 1⅛ cents a bushel and corn yielded ⅝ to 2. Foreign currencies were quiet.

Several merchandising shares, including Montgomery Ward, Associated Dry Goods, Allied Stores and J. C. Penney moved up in the last few minutes. Stewart-Warner and Standard Oil of Indiana also advanced.

Lower were American Telephone, United Aircraft, Texas Gulf, Crucible Steel and Borden.

At mid-afternoon sterling was up 3-16 of a cent at $5.03⅜ and the French franc was unchanged at 6.58½ cents.

News of the Day.

The carriers stiffened when Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore & Ohio, said his road's passenger and freight traffic for August was 20 per cent over the same period last year. He added that gross earnings for the month were the best in several years.

Waldorf System shares were given an upward tilt when the company's directors boosted the regular annual dividend rate and declared an extra.

While there were optimistic estimates of Loew's profits for the full year, the recession in Columbia Pictures net for the 52 weeks ended June 27 tended to dim somewhat the popularity of the amusement group.

The utilities remained on a fairly even keel as earnings statements from the principal power companies confirmed the progress of recovery in this field.

Due partly to the pre-Labor day lull in some sections, early guesses on the freight loadings total for last week, to be officially published Friday, indicated a small decline from the previous seven days. The aggregate, though, would be well above that of the same week last year.

Overnight Developments.

Retailers were said to be expecting substantial improvement in sales during September. Forecasts were made of an increase in distribution this month of 10 to 15 per cent over the comparable 1935 period.

Trade surveys reported that expansion of installment selling plans in department stores promises an extensive movement of higher-priced articles in coming months.

Of interest to holders of aviation stocks were the figures of the Bureau of Air Commerce disclosing that commercial lines in July broke all previous monthly records for the number of passengers carried.

FINANCIAL BAROMETER.

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—The 7 per cent dip in checks drawn against individual bank accounts in leading cities reported in the latest Federal Reserve statement stemmed primarily from the mid-month turnover that fell in the previous week, analysts indicate, rather than any diminishing in business activity.

The New York Reserve district chalked up the only increase over the previous week. Observers say that a few large dividend payments, such as the General Motors disbursement of about $100,000,000, played a dominant role in the budge.

Bank debits to individual accounts in 273 centers compared as follows:

FOREIGN MARKETS AT A GLANCE

LONDON, Sept. 1.—Industrial issues were active and strong in today's stock market, with tobacco, silk and cement shares in demand. Oils, kaffirs and gilt-edged securities moved higher, while trans-Atlantic stock and foreign bonds had an irregular tone.

PARIS, Sept. 1. — Firmness prevailed in the Bourse, there being a good demand for banking issues and coal shares. The industrial group was generally higher and rentes were also supported.

LIVERPOOL, Sept. 1.—Wheat futures closed lower due to the poor milling demand and American selling. Cotton advanced on covering and speculative buying in anticipation of a reduced American crop estimate.

TEXTILE MARKET

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—Cotton gray goods sold in fair amounts at steady prices Tuesday. Finished goods were less active. Rayon cloth were in good demand. Rayon yarns were strong, and the trade estimated August shipments set a new high record. Raw silk declined 4 cents a pound. Wool goods were bought in moderate amounts by women's wear manufacturers. Burlap was quiet.

COTTON MARKET CLOSES 6 TO 11 POINTS HIGHER

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—Early advances on continued steadiness of Liverpool and the trend toward reduced crop estimates were followed by partial reactions in cotton today. December contracts, after selling up to 11.55c, or 14 points net higher, eased off to 11.46 under realizing coupled with slightly increased hedging during the early afternoon. At 2 o'clock the market was quiet at net gains of 5 to 6 points.

Futures closed very steady, 6 to 11 higher. October, 11.47@48; December, 11.49; March, 11.52n; May, 11.62; July, 11.64. Spot steady; middling, 11.87. nNominal.

October opened 11.46; December 11.54; January 11.60; March 11.65; May 11.68; July 11.67.

Business tapered off after the close of Liverpool ended arbitraging and buying from abroad, but prices held fairly steady later in the morning. A tendency to even up accounts in preparation for the Labor day adjournment and the Government crop report scheduled for a week from today seemed to bring in some covering. Hedging was comparatively quiet during the middle of the day. At midday December was ruling around 11.50 and March at 11.60, or 9 to 10 points net higher.

Trading was fairly active at the opening and the market held generally steady during early trading. The advances encountered a moderate amount of hedging and some scattered realizing taken by further trade buying and covering. There were some purchases through houses with foreign connections.

After selling up to 11.54 at the start December reacted to 11.51 but the general market showed net advances of 11 to 13 points at the end of the first half hour.

Early weather news indicated no improvement in the western belt drouth situation. The buying was attributed partly to expectation of reduced crop estimates.

Another of the private end-August report was issued this morning placing the indicated yield at 12,091,000 bales compared with the official estimate of 12,481,000 last month and an indication of 11,951,000 bales by the same authority a month ago.

Liverpool cables reported speculative buying and covering on smaller crop ideas, with offerings limited.

Memphis Spot Cotton.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Sept. 1.—Spot cotton had a steady tone. Middling closed at 11.30c, compared with 11.20c yesterday. Sales amounted to 6071 bales.

New Orleans Spot Cotton.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 1.—Spot cotton closed steady, 11 points up. Sales, 12,919; low middling 10.68; middling 11.83; good middling 12.43; receipts none; stock, 291,129.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—Fresh concern over the danger of international complications growing out of the Spanish civil war held foreign exchange trading to meager dimensions and prices to narrow ranges in forenoon today.

Despite the general European acceptance of a "hands off" policy toward Spain's hostilities, new allegations by rebels, loyalists and nearby countries, of war activities by neutral nations brought renewed apprehension to Europe.

Holland guilders eased .00½ of a cent to 67.91½ cents in New York as French francs held steady at 6.58½ cents and Swiss franc gained .00½ of a cent to 32.60½ cents. The pound sterling improved 1-16 of a cent to $5:03¼.

In London the dollar eased ¼ of a cent to 5.03¼ to the pound compared with the overnight New York rate of 5.03 3-16. In Paris the American unit closed at the equivalent of 6.583 cents to the franc against the New York overnight rate of 6.585 cents.

At midafternoon sterling was up 3-16 of a cent at $5.03⅜ and the French franc was unchanged at 6.58½ cents.

PARIS, Sept. 1.—The United States dollar closed unofficially in the foreign exchange market today at 15.19 francs (6.583 cents to the franc), as compared with the overnight New York rate of 6.585 cents to the franc.

LONDON, Sept. 1.—Offerings of francs turned quotations in favor of sterling in the foreign exchange market today.

The United States dollar eased ¼ and closed at 5.03¼ to the pound, as compared with the overnight New York rate of 5.03 3-16. French francs ended at 76.44 francs to the pound, compared with 76.41 yesterday.

Wool Top Futures.

The market closed quiet, unchanged to 5 lower.

COTTON MARKET CLOSES 6 TO 11 POINTS HIGHER

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—Early advances on continued steadiness of Liverpool and the trend toward reduced crop estimates were followed by partial reactions in cotton today. December contracts, after selling up to 11.55c, or 14 points net higher, eased off to 11.46 under realizing coupled with slightly increased hedging during the early afternoon. At 2 o'clock the market was quiet at net gains of 5 to 6 points.

Futures closed very steady, 6 to 11 higher. October, 11.47@48; December, 11.49; March, 11.52n; May, 11.62; July, 11.64. Spot steady; middling, 11.87. nNominal.

October opened 11.46; December 11.54; January 11.60; March 11.65; May 11.68; July 11.67.

Business tapered off after the close of Liverpool ended arbitraging and buying from abroad, but prices held fairly steady later in the morning. A tendency to even up accounts in preparation for the Labor day adjournment and the Government crop report scheduled for a week from today seemed to bring in some covering. Hedging was comparatively quiet during the middle of the day. At midday December was ruling around 11.50 and March at 11.60, or 9 to 10 points net higher.

Trading was fairly active at the opening and the market held generally steady during early trading. The advances encountered a moderate amount of hedging and some scattered realizing taken by further trade buying and covering. There were some purchases through houses with foreign connections.

After selling up to 11.54 at the start December reacted to 11.51 but the general market showed net advances of 11 to 13 points at the end of the first half hour.

Early weather news indicated no improvement in the western belt drouth situation. The buying was attributed partly to expectation of reduced crop estimates.

Another of the private end-August report was issued this morning placing the indicated yield at 12,091,000 bales compared with the official estimate of 12,481,000 last month and an indication of 11,951,000 bales by the same authority a month ago.

Liverpool cables reported speculative buying and covering on smaller crop ideas, with offerings limited.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—Fresh concern over the danger of international complications growing out of the Spanish civil war held foreign exchange trading to meager dimensions today and prices to narrow ranges in forenoon today.

Despite the general European acceptance of a "hands off" policy toward Spain's hostilities, new allegations by rebels, loyalists and nearby countries, of war activities by neutral nations brought renewed apprehension to Europe.

Holland guilders eased .00½ of a cent to 67.91½ cents in New York as French francs held steady at 6.58½ cents and Swiss franc gained .00½ of a cent to 32.60½ cents. The pound sterling improved 1-16 of a cent to $5.03¼.

In London the dollar eased ¼ of a cent to 5.03¼ to the pound compared with the overnight New York rate of 5.03 3-16. In Paris the American unit closed at the equivalent of 6.583 cents to the franc against the New York overnight rate of 6.585 cents.

At midafternoon sterling was up 3-16 of a cent at $5.03⅜ and the French franc was unchanged at 6.58½ cents.

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—Foreign exchange closing New York prices: (Great Britain in dollars, others in cents.) Great Britain demand, 5.03¼; cables, 5.03¼; 60-day bills, 5.02¼; France demand, 6.58½; cables, 6.58½; Italy demand, 7.87; cables, 7.87.

PARIS, Sept. 1.—The United States dollar closed unofficially in the foreign exchange market today at 15.19 francs (6.583 cents to the franc), as compared with the overnight New York rate of 6.585 cents to the franc.

LONDON, Sept. 1.—Offerings of francs turned quotations in favor of sterling in the foreign exchange market today.

The United States dollar eased ¼ and closed at 5.03¼ to the pound, as compared with the overnight New York rate of 5.03 3-16. French francs ended at 76.44 francs to the pound, compared with 76.41 yesterday.

Wool Top Futures.

WHEAT AND CORN MARKETS LOWER IN FINAL TRADES

Late selling in wheat and corn, some of which was of a stop loss nature, was associated with reports of slackening demand for wheat and of improved moisture conditions in the grain belt. Houses with southwestern connections were conspicuous sellers of wheat. Indications of more favorable condition of pastures and better prospects for feed grains influenced some of the selling in corn and oats.

Wheat closed ½@1⅛c below yesterday's finish, September $1.08⅜@1.08½, December $1.07⅛@1.07¼, and corn was ¾@2c down, September $1.05@1.05¼, December 91¼@91⅜c. Oats lost 1½@2c, rye ¾@1½c and provisions 3@15c.

Price movements in grains early today were erratic, the result of spotted buying and scattered liquidation in a market that lacked leadership.

General commission house buying of wheat was conspicuous during the first half hour and prices firmed up about a cent, December going to $1.09¼, but the advance was not maintained. Later wheat fluctuated over a range of about 1⅜c above the previous close.

Liverpool's weakness was largely ignored, although cables said demand for cash wheat was quiet. Advices showed world shipments were running ahead of last year.

Corn futures gained as much as a cent on the early bulge but later returned to a level around the previous close. Considerable uncertainty as to corn requirements this year in view of reports of feeding of other grains, coupled with suggestions that production estimates may be revised upward, unsettled trade sentiment. The majority of private crop estimates will be released Thursday.

Oats moved sympathetically with corn while rye had a firm tone.

Provisions showed little change but were influenced to some extent by weakness in hog values.

Wheat futures purchases yesterday totaled 21,881,000 bushels, corn 10,602,000. Open interest in wheat was 91,076,000 bushels, and in corn 47,387,000.

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, Sept. 1.—September wheat was bid $1.11⅝ or ⅛c lower on the local board today.

Winnipeg wheat opened ⅛@⅝c lower and early was ⅛c up. The close was ¾@1c lower.

Liverpool wheat opened ¾d to 1d lower and in one cable was 1d to 1⅛d off. The close was ¾d net lower.

Local wheat receipts which were 21,000 bu., compared with 8000 a week ago and 177,000 a year ago included 14 cars local Corn receipts which were 15,000 bu., compared with 27,000 a week ago 66,000 a year ago included 9 cars local and 1 through. Oats receipts which were 2000 bu., compared with 10,000 a week ago and 148,000 a year ago, included 1 car local. Hay receipts which were 1 car local and 1 through.

St. Louis Cash Grain.

In the cash grain market today wheat was steady and corn 1@1½c lower.

MOST BONDS FIRM IN CLOSING TRADE

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—Most bonds closed firm today, but an appreciable number finished in slightly lower ground.

Rails clung to slender gains, for the most part, with Allegheny 5s, stamped, of 1950 up ¾ at 64, Chesapeake Corp. 5s up ⅝ at 150 and Frisco 4½s up ⅝ at 24¾ leading the list. Southern Railway 4s weakened 1¼ to 77, Missouri Pacific 5s lost ½ to 37¼ and New Haven 6s dropped ½ to 38½.

Other sections of the corporate list were fractionally mixed with small changes prevailing.

U. S. Governments strengthened late in the session and gains up to 5-32 were scored. Several of the Treasuries sold off with losses to 3-32. Foreigns closed strong under the leadership of Polish loans, the 8s gaining 1½ to 52½, the 7s adding ⅞ at 71⅞ and the 6s moving up 1¼ to 74¾.

RECORD LOW INTEREST RATE.

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—All previous records for low interest rates on New York City securities were smashed when Comptroller Frank J. Taylor sold $6,000,000 of special corporate notes at the rate of 22-100 of 1 per cent, which, with a premium netted the city 21-100 and a fraction. The successful bidder was Chase National Bank and associates.

Last July the city disposed of $5,000,000 worth of similar notes at an interest rate of 34-100 of 1 per cent and a small premium, which was the previous low price to present offering.

DIVIDEND MEETING RESULTS

By the Associated Press.

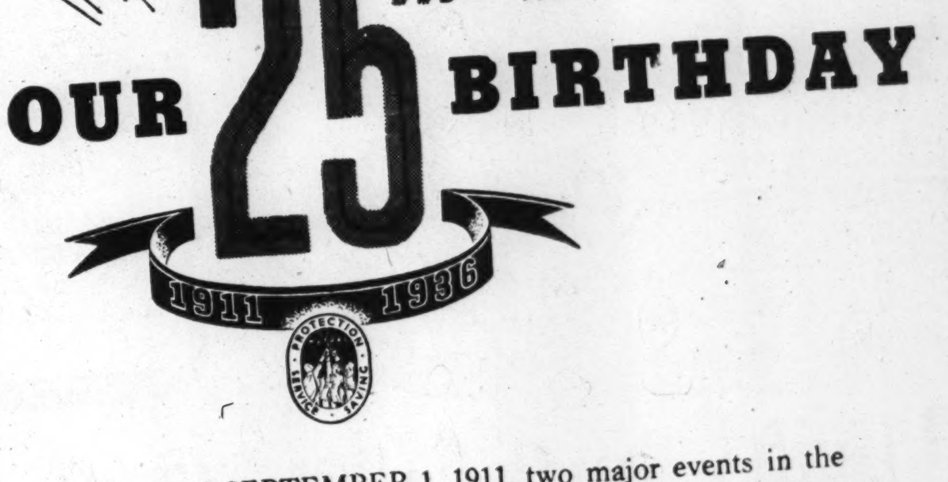

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—Directors of Waldorf System, Inc., declared an extra dividend today of 10 cents and a quarterly dividend of 30 cents on the common stock. The latter disbursement places the common on a $1.20 annual basis, against 80 cents previously. Both dividends are payable Oct. 1 to stock of record Sept. 19. On July 1 last, a dividend of 20 cents a share was paid. The company operates a chain of restaurant and confectionery establishments in New England and New Jersey, New York, Ohio and Pennsylvania, with headquarters in Boston.

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—Cash dividend payments by companies of the Standard Oil group for the third quarter of 1936 are estimated by Carl H. Pforzheimer & Co. at $29,911,506, compared with $17,653,161 in the third quarter of 1935, an increase of $12,258,345, or 69.5 per cent. Aggregate cash disbursements of the current year will first three quarters of the current year will total approximately $124,661,144, compared with $99,597,384 in the first nine months of 1935, an increase of 25.1 per cent. Larger distributions to date this year have been made by practically every important member of the group.

ON SEPTEMBER 1, 1911, two major events in the industrial annals of America occurred. On that date the Workmen's Compensation Law of Wisconsin, the first constitutional compensation law to be enacted in the United States, became effective; on the same date the EMPLOYERS MUTUAL LIABILITY INSURANCE COMPANY began business.

The Twenty-fifth Anniversary of these events finds EMPLOYERS MUTUALS a leader in the field of Workmen's Compensation Insurance in the United States with record of over $15,000,000 saving to policyholders, and an organization whose services to employers are constantly being extended.

Our twenty-five-year record of achievement in Protection, Service and Saving invites the interest of every employer and an opportunity to discuss your Workmen's Compensation Insurance problems with you will be welcomed.

G. O. P. COMMITTEE TO NAME CHAIRMAN

Barrett and Other State Candidates Decide Not to Exercise Prerogative in Matter.

Candidates on the Republican state ticket, headed by Jesse W. Barrett for Governor, will not exercise their prerogative of naming a chairman for the Republican State Committee, but will leave that selection to the committee itself. This was announced after a conference of seven of the state nominees, held in Barrett's office here yesterday afternoon.

The candidates discussed the chairmanship, it was stated after the meeting, but decided to leave the matter to the committee, which will hold its organization meeting in Jefferson City next Tuesday. Grover W. Dalton of Poplar Bluff, now chairman, probably will be re-elected unless substantial support for another selection should develop in the committee.

Henry J. Allen, former Governor of Kansas and former United States Senator, will deliver the chief address at the Republican platform convention, also to be held in Jefferson City Tuesday.

Platform planks were considered, but no conclusion was announced except a desire for "reasonable brevity," with the suggestion that a sub-committee on condensation be named. Selections for the heads of various committees to conduct the state campaign were discussed.

The candidates attending the conference, besides Barrett, were Manvel H. Davis of Kansas City, for lieutenant-governor; George E. Hackmann of Jefferson City, for auditor; J. Grant Frye of Cape Girardeau, for attorney-general; Charles C. Madison of Kansas City, and Conway Elder of St. Louis, for the Supreme Court; and John W. Calhoun of St. Louis, for the St. Louis Court of Appeals.

BOY KILLER

BOY, 15, INDICTED FOR MURDER

Roland Munroe, Chicago, Charged With Killing Woman, 65.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Sept. 1.—Roland Munroe, 15-year-old choir boy, was reported named by the grand jury today in a true bill charging murder in the hammer killing of Mrs. Agnes Roffeis, 65, crippled widow, beaten to death in her home Saturday night.

Assistant States Attorney Richard Devine charged the boy killed Mrs. Roffeis for gold and silver trinkets valued at $8. He said Munroe confessed the crime but later asserted it was in self-defense when the widow menaced him with a pair of shears. Mrs. Roffeis formerly lived in Boise, Idaho.

The youth's attorney said he would ask that the case be transferred to the Juvenile Court, but Devine asserted there was a precedent that defendants over 10 years of age may be tried in Criminal Court for a felony. A petition was being prepared to have the youth examined by a commission of psychiatrists.

30,000 Peace Pigeons.
Dogs Foretell Future?

By ARTHUR BRISBANE.

IT WAS a very interesting idea, in connection with the recent Berlin Olympic Games, to release 30,000 pigeons "to carry its message of peace to the world," as Chancellor Hitler began his speech of welcome. Nobody knows exactly where the pigeons went; but the wise ones, undoubtedly, flew as far as they could, rested awhile and then flew farther. No part of Europe at this time offers any very safe roosting place for a peace pigeon.

England has been reading some wonderful dog stories tending to show not only a great intelligence but power to foretell future events. Sir Henry T. Holland, head of the Mission Hospital at Quetta, India, where a terrible earthquake occurred recently, had a dog which literally pulled him out of bed 32 minutes before the earthquake began, and saved his life. He supposed it was burglars and went out of doors. He was out when his house fell in.

The Royal Veterinary College expert, informed of the Quetta incident, said:

"Dogs can always sense an impending catastrophe. They can even tell what sort of weather is coming, but we still have no idea how they know."

The answer to that is they do not know any more than those that guess at the weather.

A London lady was roused from her bed by her dog, Turko. She went downstairs, wandering around to see what happened. When she returned, her bedroom was filled with gas from a broken pipe. Without Turko's remarkable intelligence, she would have died.

One gentleman knew a dog that refused to cross condemned bridges or dangerous floors. Another knew a blind sheep dog that "for the first time in its life refused to answer its master's call. It knew that an inspector, who had come to destroy the dog, was with the master."

All interesting, remarkable and important, if true. But, unfortunately, no dog predicts earthquakes or weather or knows that the gas is going to leak. Sometimes their owners quite sincerely imagine such things; more often, they invent them.

What telephone girl in America has the softest, most beautiful, most easily understood voice? That question was asked in England and a Miss Cain won the competition arranged by the British Postoffice, which owns British telephones and telegraph. The finest voice having been selected, a robot was manufactured to imitate that voice by phonographic process. Now, when you want to know the time in London, you dial "TIM" and the soft voice of Miss Cain, perfectly reproduced, tells you "at the third stroke it will be 4:27 and 15 seconds—"

NEWLY CREATED SUBSTITUTES

Artificial Marble, Rubber and Reptile Skin Shown in Exhibit.

By the Associated Press.

LEIPZIG, Germany, Sept. 1.—The Third Reich's redoubled efforts to put Germany's foreign trade back on its feet were reflected in the annual Leipzig autumn fair, in full swing today.

A featured exhibit consists of the latest achievements of German scientists in the way of "ersatz," or substitute materials for those that cannot be imported now in view of foreign exchange considerations. Among these are various synthetic resin materials, and the recently invented rubber substitute, "buna."

A new artificial marble is shown, in which the veining effect is produced by photo-mechanical means on glass, a joint patent of the German Dye Trust and the Allegemeine Elektrizitaets Gesellschaft. By a similar process, ordinary leather is made to assume the appearance of reptile skin. It is asserted the most experienced eye cannot detect the difference between the substitute and the real, more expensive, article.

The Forcing Overcall

By Ely Culbertson

EVEN though the take-out double is a powerful bid, there are certain hands which are too strong for it. These hands are about equal to an opening two bid. When such a hand is held and an opponent opens the bidding, there are two types of overcalls available which are forcing to game; the forcing no trump overcall and the immediate overcall in the opponents' suit.

Ely Culbertson

The forcing no trump overcall is forcing only after an opponent opens with a pre-emptive bid of four or five. Over the pre-emptive bid you simply bid the same number of no trump. Now partner must show his best suit, and the bidding must be kept open to game.

When an opponent opens the bidding in a suit, an immediate overcall in his suit likewise is forcing the game and usually shows a void or the ace of the opponent's suit, although with particularly strong hands this bid may be made with a singleton.

♠A K J 7 ♥A ♦K Q 10 5 ♣A Q 7 3

you would bid two hearts over an opponent's opening bid of one heart; if the opponents' opening bid were four hearts, you would bid four no trump. Two hearts also could be bid over an opponent's one heart, holding:

♠A K J 7 ♥6 ♦K Q 10 6 ♣A K Q 2

Bad Play Matches Bad Bidding.

To pick a good opening lead usually is not enough. It must be followed up. In today's hand, West made a fortunate opening selection, but he failed to capitalize it.

South, dealer.

	♠4 2 ♥Q J 7 5 3 ♦Q 8 4 ♣Q 7 3
♠K Q 7 ♥10 9 8 2 ♦7 6 3 ♣K J 9	NORTH WEST EAST SOUTH	♠10 9 8 ♥6 ♦A 5 2 ♣10 8 6 5 4 2
	♠A J 6 5 3 ♥A K 4 ♦K J 10 9 ♣A

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 spade	Pass	1 N T	Pass
4 spades	Pass	Pass	Pass

Obviously, South's bidding was atrocious and, not unnaturally, landed the partnership in the wrong suit. It is true that he had a powerful hand and that he should have made a strong rebid over North's no trump, response, but still it should not have taken the form of a jump to four spades with such a sketchy trump suit. If he had correctly bid three diamonds, North could have responded with three hearts, and in that way the correct contract of four hearts would have been reached. In the four spade contract, declarer had to get help from the enemy.

* * *

WEST hit on the good opening lead of the ten of hearts, which was won in the closed hand with the ace. Declarer now led the low trump from his own hand. He saw that unless the trumps split there was a slim chance of holding the trump loss to less than three tricks, which, in addition to the inevitable diamond loser, would be fatal. Therefore he played for a 3-3 trump split and, as some small measure of insurance, played away from his ace on the first lead.

West was caught napping. He should have seen that there was a real possibility of his partner's six of hearts, on the first trick, being a singleton. If that were true, it was vital for West to get on lead quickly and return a heart for East to ruff. Obviously nothing could be lost by the play of an honor on the first spade lead. It was inconceivable that East could hold the blank ace, because that would place declarer with J-10-9-8 seven times, a holding from which he certainly would not have led the three up to the four. When West carelessly played the seven spot on the first trump lead, East was forced to overtake, and now there was no way for East to get that precious heart ruff. East returned a club, which declarer won with the ace, and then the ace and another trump were led, after which declarer had to concede only the diamond ace.

Obviously, had West properly taken the first trump lead and continued a heart, East's ruff would have accounted for the fourth and setting trick.

TODAY'S QUESTION.

Question: Is it true that a take out double always implies major suit support?

Current and Honey Turnovers

One-quarter teaspoon salt.
One teaspoon powdered sugar.
One-third cup shortening
Cold water.
One cup dried currants.
One tablespoon lemon juice.
One-third cup granulated sugar.
One tablespoon butter.
One tablespoon honey.

Make pastry by blending flour, salt, baking powder, powdered sugar and shortening with enough cold water to just hold mixture together. Roll out to one-quarter inch in thickness. Cut into four-inch circles. Cook currants in enough water to cover until soft and water is practically evaporated. Add remaining ingredients and mix well. Place filling on one-half of each circle and fold other half over it. Seal edges completely. Bake in a moderately hot oven, 375 degrees F., until lightly browned, about 15 to 20 minutes. Yield: eight tarts.

Reform After Marriage Is Not Frequent

By Angelo Patri

MY experience is that there is no such thing as a reform marriage coming out successfully. One or both of the parties is certain to be unhappy.

Most people are being themselves most of the time. They cannot help that even if they would. Ususally one tries to be his best self some of the time, but that is a strain, and it takes a long span of trying, of failing and trying again, before one attains anything like an approach to living on that high standard.

Angelo Patri

It is unfair to impose the burden of oneself upon another who, in the very nature of things, has all he can do to support his own self in decency. One does full duty when one does the utmost to sustain one's own good qualities. Anything else is certain to fail.

This is why reform marriages fail. One partner has a fault that the other sets out to cure. The reformer hopes to put his pattern of good in place of his partner's pattern. It won't work. If a man or woman drinks to excess, marriage will not cure the fault. Marriage will not reform the drug addict, the gambler, the wastrel. The notion that it will is part of the rosy mist that nature casts over those she wishes to involve in her pet scheme of love and marriage and reproduction. Don't be deceived by it. That rosy mist will rise, and the bright light of actuality will disclose the bald fact that for the habitual offender marriage is no cure. It is scarcely a brief interval of forgetfulness. Once the marriage is accomplished all reason for the change in habit is removed and it once more resumes control, this time to stay.

YOUNG girls are the most likely victims in such circumstances. They are in love with love, and almost any young man who feels the same way at the time, becomes the idol of their hearts. Whatever faults he may have are likely to be lures rather than deterents, because girls are self-sacrificing, devoted martyrs to their ideals. They are so blinded by their emotions, so wholly taken with the thought of their divine missions, that they become victims of it.

Parents of such girls have a difficult task. The girls cannot hear and cannot see anything that lies beyond that mist of love, surrounding them and the loved ones. Common sense has nothing to do with love, so reasoning is almost useless. What is to be done to save such children from their folly? Spar for time.

Time is a great enlightener. Much can happen in one day in a girl's life. Many interests lie in wait for the opportune minute. Try to take the girl away, send her or take her for a change of scene which always means a change of interests. Use every means possible. Don't make the mistake of talking too much about the matter, saying all that is to be said, with as little heat as possible.

The New York Vista as Seen By a Woman

A Returned Traveler Reports on London Gaiety and New Fashions.

By Alice Hughes

(Copyright, 1936.)

WE'VE all heard reports, this summer, of the unbridled gaiety of London. Paris, say the returning travelers, is a mere shambles frequented by a few style scouts, but the British capital positively reeks with frolic.

Red-headed Mary Lewis, vice-president of a Fifth avenue store, has just come home from London, where she was wined and dined by high-ups for her services to trade relations, and I asked her the why-fors of these reports that have turned the staid old capital from beefsteak pie to whipped cream.

"I think it is because their restaurants are big, beautiful and well-lighted, and because it is a tradition there to dress to the nines and tens in the evening," Mary tells me. "In New York restauranteurs often cling to the dim, intimate places of speakeasy times, which are certainly no help to beautiful clothes. But London places, such as the Savoy, Claridge's and the San Marco, are spacious and well-lighted, and form magnificent backgrounds for lovely women in lovely clothes. Clothes in the grand manner get a real break in the evening in London. There's an urge to dress and make merry there."

A new and interesting thought to me, and I believe sound. Outside of the Viennese Roof at the St. Regis and the Rainbow Room we have few eating houses here that impel women—and thus their escorts—to cut loose sartorially and raise mild cain. Let's change these amber light bulbs and go to Lunnon!

* * *

STRANGE but inevitable how people labeled "sophisticates" in one set of scenes fly all to pieces when faced with new problems and surroundings. My cute blonde friend, Cecelia Ager, is one of Broadway's smartest, coolest theatrical reporters. First nights, night clubs, the most exciting shows leave her not only cold, but clammy. She's wise to every trick of Times Square.

The other day I saw her off on her first trip abroad, and she was as nervous and lost as a dithering debutante. "These flowers," she said, looking around her lovely room on the Ile de France, "What do I do—send them ashore to hospitals, or what?" "Smell 'em," I suggested. "My, you have a lovely room!" "Is it?" she quavered. "Should I change it tonight?" "Why on earth?" I asked. "I thought everyone did," she said.

I gave up. One of Broadway's keen-eyed, wise girls! And so Cecelia sailed quiveringly away to visit the sophisticated capitals of the old world—to learn about something save Broadway!

* * *

THE local glamor girls have still another Dream Boy, and this time it's Paul Gerritts, the handsome youth now doing tricks on roller skates and telling stories, on the St. Regis Roof. Dressed in a magnificent tail coat, he looks precisely like Robert Montgomery and that fact, alas, has kept him out of films! But the local lasses will sigh in vain, for Paul is about to up and marry a Texas girl! . . .

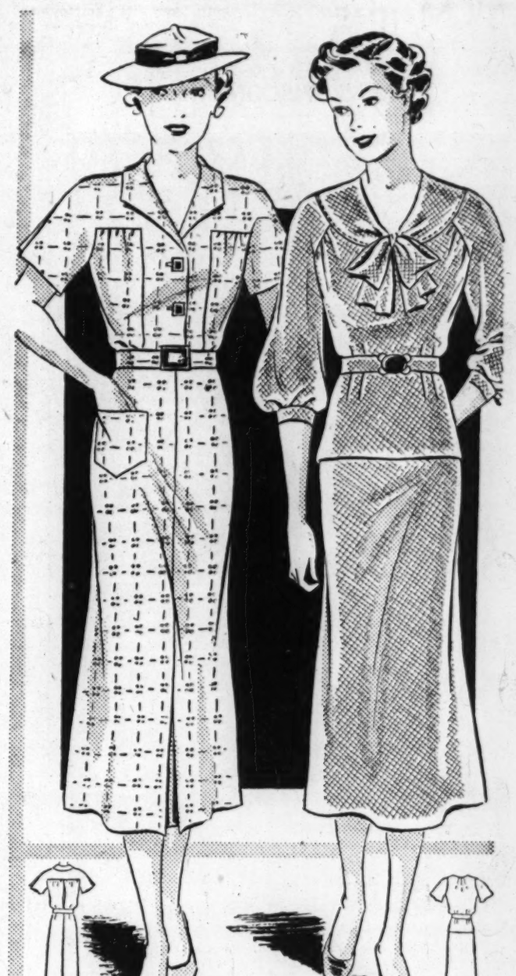

Of all the famous New York playboys of history, the one who has done the greatest about-face is Phil Plant, once the husband of Constance Bennett and the pride and terror of every night club from 42d Street to Columbus Circle. A few years ago he ran away from it all, married a very lovely girl, and now runs one of the most remarkable poultry yards in the East up at Waterford, Conn. . . .

The theater's second generation is certainly carrying on the torch, or socking the buskin, or something. In the cast of one play, at a cow-shed theater near town, are Mary Rogers (daughter of Will), John Drew Colt (son of Ethel Barrymore) and Keenan Wynn (son of comical Ed)! . . . We're all waiting for Mrs. Ada Littlejohn. She's the white-haired old British woman who has never missed a performance of the famed D'Oyly Carter Opera Company, and is reckoned the mightiest Gilbert and Sullivan addict of all time. She's with them again, though strictly on her own. The dear soul just loves the dear old shows, that's all!

Fifty head of Europe's most beautiful girls, were unloaded at this port the other day for the new French Casino show, and Seanley Klein, peppy little Frenchman in his twenties, signed for them and sighed with relief. He brings 'em over, takes 'em home.

Things Which Cause Asthma Or Hay Fever

House Dust, Pillows, Mattresses May Irritate Membranes.

By Logan Clendening, M. D.

SINCE we have been on the subject of pollen dust which causes our annual hay fever about this time of year, it may be of interest to note the very active medical research of the past few years which has uncovered a number of hidden enemies of those unfortunates who are sensitive to these things, and develop hay fever and asthma from contact with them.

Dr. Clendening

When the careful study of that hitherto much neglected condition, hay fever, began in the early part of the present century, it was found that while there were seasonal hay fevers, there were also perennial hay fevers. They could not be due to plants, and it was natural to suppos that since the eyes and the nose were the portals of entrance for the offending substances, they were some other kinds of dust. The search for what these other dusts were has been going on at a great rate ever since.

In 1922 Cooke pointed out the importance of house dust in general. Just the dust collected by a vacuum cleaner was found to cause the symptoms in many people.

The stuffings of mattresses, pillows and furniture were naturally also implicated.

One of the latest materials to be studied is called kapok. Kapok is a vegetable fiber from the seed pods of a tree grown in the East Indies. It looks like the fiber in the pod of our common milkweed, and indeed the whole pod is similar. But kapok has larger and tougher strands. It is used as an inexpensive filling for mattresses and furniture stuffing. It is found in the homes of rich and poor alike.

Now it has been found, according to the work of two Boston physicians, that in their experience kapok is a frequent cause of asthma. It does not do so until it has become old and dry, when it forms a dust. So a person might use a mattress for several years with no harm, and then develop asthma from the same mattress when it got old and dusty.

Such things explain why many patients lose their asthma as soon as they enter a hospital. Indeed, many of the old stories about asthma that used to puzzle the doctors of 30 or 40 years ago are easily explained today. One was about two sisters who lived in cities quite distant from each other. Both were bothered with asthma while at home, but when either visited the other her asthma stopped. I know of another person who, whenever he visits his brother's family, has an attack of asthma. I found out by questioning that he was always given the same room and bed, and advised him to stay at a hotel. He did, with relief of his asthma. Sometimes molds grow in pillows, mattresses or furniture, and certain people are sensitive to these molds.

It is possible to obtain specially made mattresses and pillows stuffed with material to which nobody is known to be sensitive.

Use only the yolks of eggs when making custards. The whites do not improve the custard and can be utilized for other purposes. This does not apply when making custards for invalids and people who need nourishment.

Dear Mrs. Carr:

I THINK there ought to be a law against persons who keep up a continual chatter (telling friends what is to come next or giving opinions of scenes) during the showing of a film.

The other night I again had the misfortune of having one of these "Public Pests" sit behind me. All through the feature she would exclaim "Oh, ah, goody-goody, etc." Now this is very distracting when one is trying to keep his mind on the picture, so, in order to quell the joykiller I turned around and gave her a couple of cold stares. Now, Mrs. Carr, who was right? Was my brother? Or was I?

You are right branding such people "Public Pests" but I doubt if your "cold stares" accomplished much in the way of permanently curing this girl of talking aloud in the theater. People who do such things are only admitting that they want attention and know of no way of getting it, except to "show off" in public places.

Dear Mrs. Carr:

I AM a girl 15 years old and my mother is making a wallflower out of me. Fellows ask me to go out to the Highlands, or to the show, or to the opera, or on the boat, or out to parties, but I can't go. Mrs. Carr, I do the washing and ironing and all the housework by myself and I think it is only fair that since I do all of that that I might go out once in a while. But the answer is always "No."

Sometime ago a mother wrote in asking if it was all right for her daughter to entertain friends. The girl was my age too and mother also said that that was wrong. I am invited to a party next Tuesday night but she won't let me go. She said that I'm not going to start going with fellows. Mrs. Carr, it means so much to me because I'm very seldom invited to parties as my friends don't have many.

UNHAPPY AT 15.

I think that if this party to which you refer is being given by people known to your mother and is to be properly chaperoned, there would be no harm in your attending. Perhaps your mother takes the stand that once you have a taste of party-going you will insist upon accepting every invitation that comes to you—whether the place and circumstances are right or wrong. As for being a "wallflower" my dear young lady—you have many, many years to live before you can attain that state.

My Dear Martha Carr:

"Criticism Is Necessary in All Marriage"

A Discussion of the Disadvantages of "Perfectly Happy" Couples.

By Elsie Robinson

(Copyright, 1936.)

THERE is no state more dangerous or demoralizing for a human being than that situation termed a "perfectly happy marriage."

Elsie Robinson

Mind you, I'm not saying that there can't or shouldn't be happy marriages—vigorous, vital human unions which broaden our horizons and develop our characters. Such a union is the loveliest, the most desirable relationship in life.

But that isn't the sort of thing we usually mean when we say—"a perfectly happy marriage." We mean a condition of complete contentment in which there is neither conflict nor criticism—in which two hearts "beat as one," sharing the same opinions, interests and prejudices.

The kind of union which permits a wife to boast, "We've never spent a night apart in 20 years of marriage. Ed wouldn't dream of going anywhere without asking me, even to lodge meeting."

Or which allows a husband to brag, "The little woman's never pulled a tantrum on me yet. Thank God I haven't one of those managing females—always nagging, I run things according to my ideas, and Maria keeps her finger outta the pie."

This sort of thing, I maintain, is worse for our human nature than any amount of grief, shock or hardship, and is responsible for more cussedness than all the booze, drugs and gambling and wicked ladies put together.

No human being, either married or single, could receive such coddling without becoming a Public Pest—conceited, cowardly and utterly contemptible. There is no person more difficult or exasperating to work with than such a protected, pampered husband or wife.

We SHOULDN'T be contented. We SHOULDN'T be sure of each other's approval—or safe from each other's adverse criticism.

We NEED conflict and criticism. We NEED separations and misunderstandings, disagreements and rumpuses.

We need these things for our mental hygiene. A life that is never stirred up STAGNATES, as surely and horribly as water that is never stirred up.

We need differences, in us and between us. Challenging differences. Disturbing differences. Love atrophies without such differences—loses its zest and allure.

We need — how desperately we need!—PRIVATE LIVES, PRIVATE PERSONALITIES. We need, above everything else in marriage, to BE OURSELVES. It is our fundamental duty and right.

Our bodies need time by themselves. Our minds need time by themselves. The constant, clinging intimacy which some men and women so admire, is NOT beautiful—not even decent. Nor is it a sign of affection. It is a sign of IMMATURITY.

The person who can't bear to be alone hasn't grown up. He or she is a tiresome infant, and should be treated accordingly. No person is fit to marry who has not learned to live alone at times—and permit the Other Fellow to do likewise.

Most marriages fail not because the pair are cruel of unfaithful, but because they try to make marriage a refuge from life.

They try to find in marriage all those privileges and protections and pettings which life, rightly, refuses to grant normal human beings. They are forced in the factory or office, shop or studio, to face the normal tests and take the normal beatings. Marriage seems a haven from all such unpleasantness. Joyously they create a Paradise, according to their private specifications. And proceed to pamper themselves ad lib.

As a consequence, they rapidly become so anti-social, so generally detestable, that they Can't Endure Each Other Another Minute.

Beware of a Perfectly Happy Marriage! If you aren't a pain-in-the-neck already, a Perfectly Happy Marriage will make you one within a week.

Fresh Mint Dressing

One and one-half cups water
One-half cup minced fresh mint
One-fourth cup lemon juice
One and one-half teaspoons sugar
One-half teaspoon salt

Place vinegar, one cup of the water and one-fourth cup of the chopped mint in saucepan. Simmer until reduced to one-half of original quantity. Remove from heat and strain through a fine strainer. Add remaining water, lemon juice, sugar, and salt. Chill thoroughly before adding the remaining chopped mint leaves. Yield: one and one-fourth cups of dressing.

"TAKE any job you can get, and like it.

"For heaven's sake don't go on the dole. If you do, it will make a louse out of you."

So announces Prof. Walter B. Pitkin of Columbia, consultant and lecturer on youth and its employment problems; author of "Life Begins at Forty" for the frustrated middle-aged folks, labeled by George Jean Nathan the "ostrich trade."

"I got a letter not long ago from a young married man, a college graduate, out of a job. It was a terrific sob-letter. So I sent a letter of my own by air mail to a friend in Minnesota. The two got together, and this is what happened:

"'You can start right in this afternoon and wash my dog,' he told him. 'I'll give you a dollar. And I have friends who would be glad to have their dogs washed. Of course, some of the dogs are tough, and you'll be lucky if you don't get bitten during the first week or two.'

"Well, that youngster just looked at my friend, gulped, changed color, and then asked him for time to think it over. He never showed up again.

"Now, the joker in the whole thing is that my friend had four or five real jobs to offer the young man, if he had only shown willingness to do anything. But he was too proud to wash dogs.

"I hope he starves. If a young man won't wash a dog, I wouldn't waste time with him."

* * *

PROF. PITKIN gives an example of what he considers the right way to go about it. A young man just graduated from Columbia had tramped the streets for weeks without landing a white collar situation. Finally he pulled in his belt and his pride, walked into a Manhattan cafe and said to the proprietor:

"I'm a college graduate. I want a job as a waiter."

The cafe boss was glad to see him. "You've got good appearance, and a good command of English," he said. "I'm glad to hire you."

The recent B. A. served two weeks with a tray and napkin. Then came a promotion to head waiter. The youngster is on his way in the restaurant business. As the old French proverb has it: "There is really no stupid profession."

But while Dr. Pitkin sticks to his "Take any job, and like it," as a way to get one's foot on the bottom rail of the ladder, he also believes that the unemployed youth should start out with some definite idea of what he wants to do. If he can connect with something in his favorite line, well and good; if he can't, let him grab any job that's loose, but never lose sight of his preferred objective. Don't "do the rounds" if personnel offices, he warns. Looking for "any job" brands the greenhorn as having no special abilities. This is the way he would have young men go about it:

1. Take stock of yourself and decide for what specific job or profession you think yourself best fitted.

2. Be determined to serve particular employers rather than to beg for "just a job."

3. Volunteer to work—even without pay—for reliable employers so as to get training and experience.

4. Survey the possibilities of various kinds of personal service with an eye out for: Personal work, management end of retail work, skilled salesmanship which combines selling ability with technical knowledge, cost accounting, market research and all kinds of personal and business service in the distribution field, since it is greatly needed to bring producer and consumer closer together.

5. If you can afford to travel about a bit, look in the newspapers for localities where there may be openings in your preferred field.

6. Tackle small towns and rural sections first. They offer more opportunities than crowded cities.

On this point, the professor suggests, as likely profitable territory:

(a) The Eastern Atlantic coast states, with the exception of Northern New England; the outlying sections of metropolitan centers in New Jersey and Pennsylvania; Georgia, which he says is rapidly becoming one of the most promising industrial-agricultural regions of the nation.

(b) The Southwest, outside the drouth area, with special attention to the richer parts of Texas, New Mexico and Arkansas.

(c) The Northwest, notably around the Columbia River Valley. He believes that this region is destined, because of reclamation and power projects, to develop into "one of the greatest new empires" of America. A few lean years there will be handsomely rewarded later, he is sure.

7. You can make a go of farming only under two conditions: First, part-time farming combined with part-time industrial or other work, since those who try to make a living at small independent cultivation and raising are doomed; second, study the possibilities of farm management—any well established agricultural college will gladly supply information.

As to the so-called liberal professions. Dr. Pitkin has sized them up in this terse fashion:

Insurance—They demand expert training.

Letters in which the same complaint crops up that to get a job today "you've got to have a drag," make him mad.

"Business is being glutted with inferior men who 'had connections.' And business will suffer in the end for this discrimination."

* * *

YOUTH is the same in every country in certain respects, says the Columbia savant. Taking the example of Nazi Germany:

"Hitler never really got anywhere until the high school age boy grew up to voting age. Then Hitler began to catch on.

"Although there are no signs of political movement among the youth of America, I believe an American Hitler will come upon the scene when the youth-group of from 12 to 18 years inclusive at the time of the 1929 crash has reached the voting age. That will be in 1944. Then there will be about 14,000,000 youths with a single grievance—unless things get better for them—and someone will lead them. Nobody on the present political stage will be the leader of the youth. I don't know what he'll be like. . . .

"The American Youth Congress and the youth movement in general are made up of poor high school graduates just desperate for work. But each time they convene every organization in the country that has a 'youth-ax' to grind tries to chisel in. But no matter what they are, Communist, Socialist or conservative, they have no more chance with the youth than a chinch bug plague has on Wall Street.

"The general picture is this: When the number of youths without work gets larger and larger, the opening becomes less and less. And pull counts too much.

"There'll be a lot of this youth-group voting in 1940. They'll just show themselves; 1944 is my prophecy; remember what happened in Germany."

"Take anything you can get—and like it"—urges Mr. Pitkin, but this young man had different ideas.

An Attractively Arranged Interior

By Elizabeth Boykin

"YOU take such a lot of trouble to present fresh and charming ideas to your readers that I want to help you by telling you some of the things I've done that may be useful to somebody else," wrote one of our readers whom we don't know but wish we did.

"I'm living in an old house and the kitchen when we got it was that cold mutton gravy color that comes from years of smoke from a coal stove. But we've done it all over fresh, starting with a good scrubbing. Then we painted the woodwork in a French gray of a warm pinky tone. I have a large and most substantial home made cabinet to hold glass, and below is a roomy compartment for dry groceries. This is painted French gray outside, and inside the shelves it is Chinese yellow . . . the chairs and frame of the table are the same. Over the table are two capacious shelves to hold the kitchen china, and as it happens they fit in the angle of a corner between two windows. Things so arrange themselves that I could paint the wall between the shelves Chinese yellow and the blue Willow china stands out bravely against the gay wall. The linoleum floor is a checkered design in dull blue, grey and cream, so that the blue is repeated in the china, the gray woodwork recalls the grey and the yellow intensifies the cream color in the floor. The curtains are checked muslin in sash style, and the saucepans which hang in graduated sizes over the drainboard are aluminum. I've used yellow oil cloth where needed too.

Souffle de Luxe

One-fourth cup butter
Three tablespoons flour
Two cups milk
One-third cup grated American cheese
Three-fourths cup minced celery
One and one-half tablespoons minced pimiento
One cup mushrooms, cooked
Three-fourths cup cold chopped boiled ham
Four egg yolks
Three-fourths teaspoon curry powder
One and one-half teaspoons grated onion
Four egg whites

Melt butter, blend in flour and gradually add milk; stirring constantly until thick and smooth. Add cheese, celery, pimiento, mushrooms, ham and egg yolks, then curry powder and onion. Mix well and fold in egg whites, beaten until stiff but not dry. Turn into a greased casserole and set in a pan of hot water. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) about 35 minutes until nicely browned. Yield: six portions.

Use of First Names—Invitation to a Wedding Also Includes the Reception.

By Emily Post

Dear Mrs. Post:

WILL you please explain the use of first names prefixed with titles? Sometimes one knows a person too well so that saying "Miss Smith" sounds mid-Victorian, and yet on the other hand, plain "Mary" would seem lacking in respect, especially if Miss Smith were much older than the person addressing her. Under these circumstances would you approve of the use of "Miss Mary?"

Emily Post

Answer: In the South the use of first names prefixed with title has always been an accepted custom, but north of the Mason and Dixon line this form of address is rarely used except by servants.

Dear Mrs. Post: Is a tip required after a meal which one eats at a lunch counter? It doesn't seem sensible to me but very often I see people leave something.

Answer: Ordinarily a tip would not be left for service at a counter. You can of course leave something if you want to, and especially if you are a regular customer you might like to give something occasionally.

Dear Mrs. Post: A friend of mine just told me that she was told of your having said that an invitation to a wedding at a club does not include the reception afterwards unless some mention is also made of this.

Answer: Three other readers have quoted this same opinion as coming from me. I cannot imagine where the source of this misinformation may have originated. Certainly I have always said, and now repeat, that an invitation to a wedding in a home, or at a club, or at a hotel, in fact, a wedding anywhere except in a church, is always considered as including an invitation to whatever is taking place afterwards. In short, no further invitation is needed to remain where you are.

Dear Mrs. Post: My young daughter Mary is not yet 10, and for the past two weeks her cousin Jane, of the same age, has been visiting us. I have had my hands full because I have no help whatsoever, so imagine my amazement when Jane's mother wrote saying that Mary's plea to let her Jane stay another week was very kind and if I had no objection the child might stay. I don't think in the first place the mother should have even considered the invitation of a 10-year-old child valid, and of course I know my own daughter ought to have asked my permission, but you know how children will behave. What can I do now? I really am tired and need a holiday myself.

Answer: Since children of all ages, in this day, send their own invitations, I suppose Jane's mother saw nothing out of the way in your child's letter. In fact, to have ignored it would, to your Mary, have been unforgivable. At present, I don't see what you can possibly do except second Mary's invitation. To repudiate her letter would be to bring her integrity into question—an unforgivable thing for a mother to do. But to Mary alone, you would certainly explain the situation her impulse put you in, and that asking any of her friends, without first consulting you, is not fair play.

CHAPTER EIGHT.

IT was 6 o'clock when Jim came back. The car whirled up the narrow road, turned in at the driveway and slid to a stop. Nancy was beside him as he pulled on the brake.

"You got it!" she cried breathlessly, her eyes black with fear and hope.

Jim nodded. His eyes burned, he held his lips tight as if some inner emotion was too strong for words.

"Oh, Jim—tell me."

He climbed stiffly from behind the wheel and they went together into the house. Once inside he took Nancy in his arms, swung her off her feet and whirled her about in an excess of joy. They laughed, but when he put her down the laughter was close to tears. He looked boyishly embarrassed and Nancy's breath came in spasmodic gasps. She backed away from him, her eyes staring, her lips parted, breathless in attention.

"The first of August," he told her raggedly. "It's a good job—we talked and talked—I told him about the trouble with Barlett, and Nancy he believed me," his voice lowered to keep it steady. "He said I fitted the job like a glove and—and it was your idea, Nancy." He walked about the room, his shoulders back, his step buoyant, and Nancy watched him with tears smarting behind her lashes. Even she had not realized until then how cruelly Jim had suffered.

They ate dinner on the porch. Jim talked and Nancy listened. She could never remember being so utterly happy. They would live in Duluth, he told her, and spend week-ends at the cottage. Jim would make a place for himself, he would work until he dropped to show the gentleman who had believed in him that his confidence had not been misplaced.

As he talked on Nancy dreamed. With work for solace Jim would soon forget Sylvia's existence. In his happiness he had turned to her, Nancy, he had taken her in his arms, the first caress since their marriage. Everything was going to be beautiful—beautiful. Her sigh was a little gust of pure rapture.

Nancy had carried the dishes to the kitchen and neatly stacked them with Jim, too jubilant to be quiet, following her about, when they heard voices. Debby and the two rangers came up the path. And then excitement ran high. Jim had to tell his story and he and Clive shook hands and congratulated each other boyishly. Enmity was forgotten. Debby almost wept over the coming separation, and Jack consoled her by saying he would stick by her, you bet he would. The little house rang with chatter and laughter.

At last, when the subject of new jobs seemed worn out Debby said, "Show the boys your rug, Nancy," and Nancy carried the huge roll from her bedroom. After duly admiring it Clive exuberantly suggested a rug-laying and Jim rushed for a bottle of old port, discovered in the days of settling.

"Hey, hey," yelled Jack.

"Fate brought us from far places, gave us the opportunity to know one another, and now fortune is separating us again. Let the laying of this beautiful rug be symbolic of our never failing friendship and admiration." Midst the cheers and shouts which greeted the impromptu words Clive's voice rang out clear and strong.

"Drink a toast to the little lady who made the rug—long may she hook."

"Thank you, Clive—and everybody —" She raised brimming eyes to Jim; he took her hand and led her to stand on the rug.

"Step right up, ladies and gentlemen," he shouted, "and shake the hand of Nancy Stanley, who is the best little trouper of us all. Allow me to be first." He raised her brown hand gallantly to his lips.

After the formalities Clive remembered that he was due back at the station and Debby and Jack wandered away. Nancy was glad to see them go. She wanted to be alone with Jim. She felt they were hovering on the edge of something very beautiful. The memory of Jim's arms about her ran through her like quicksilver and she hoped achingly for his kiss.

* * *

AS THEIR guests departed Nancy and Jim stood on the porch. The sky had turned from brilliant scarlet to pale mauve, a sliver of moon was barely noticeable, like a silver dart above the dark-green pines. Suddenly they became conscious of the steady put-put of a motor. Not many launches found their way to the north end of the lake, and they watched it with interest.

"It's circling around," Nancy remarked indifferently. More important things were taking her attention.

SYNOPSIS

Nancy Stanley married Jim Stanley in desperation. She loved him, but she knew he had just been jilted by Sylvia Bartlett, for whose father Jim had worked. Jim was fired from Bartlett's bank, suspected of theft. Now Jim and Nancy are living at Jim's cottage in the north woods. She has met Clive Peters, forest ranger, who is greatly attracted to her. His attentions to Nancy arouse Jim's anger, and in the heat of an argument over Clive, Nancy slaps Jim. After that relations between Nancy and Jim are strained until she advises him to try to get a job he'd heard abou in a bank nearby.

"Maybe I'd better see what they want." Jim opened the screen door—then stopped short as a clear call of greeting cut across the evening quiet. Nancy saw his face pale.

Three people were stepping from the launch to the dock. Nancy's breath caught in her throat. It was Mr. and Mrs. Bartlett—and Sylvia! As they came up the path Jim started to meet them and dazedly Nancy followed.

There was a confusion of greeting, Mr. Bartlett being very hearty and somewhat embarrassed, his wife coolly aloof and Sylvia flattering attentive to Jim. She had greeted Nancy with a brief nod.

Somehow they found chairs on the porch, Sylvia settling herself beside Jim in the swing. Unabashed by the presence of her parents and Nancy she leaned close to him, laying her long, white fingers on his sleeve.

"You don't seem very glad to see us," she pouted.

"Delighted, I'm sure," he responded brusquely.

"You shouldn't have gone away like you did, Jimmie," Sylvia gently chided him. "I came back the day after you left——" She seemed unable to go on. Her lovely voice was hushed with sorrowful intimations that Jim had been at fault.

"Sylvia has been desparately unhappy," Mrs. Bartlett put in, as if the fact were exceedingly important and to be reckoned with.

Jim said nothing. He looked strained and bewildered and distinctly uneasy. Nancy's heart sank into her little white shoes. Why had they come? There was something behind this apparently friendly call, something more than Sylvia's obvious willingness to resume relations where they had been dropped. An awkward silence fell on the group. After a moment Mr. Bartlett, who had been fidgeting in his chair, spoke ponderously.

* * *

"NICE place you have here, my boy, but aren't you about ready to forsake the wilds and return to your desk?" Just as if, Nancy thought, he had not been responsible for this exile!

"What do you mean?" Jim asked flatly.

"Don't be cross, Jimmie," Sylvia cooed. "We want you to come back. Isn't that enough?" Jim paid no attention to her, sat staring at Mr. Barlett.

"To put it plainly we have missed you at the bank—we are more than anxious for your return." Mr. Bartlett spoke heavily and Sylvia watched Jim through her lashes.

"Do you mean to say you have discovered who was really the thief?" Jim was not mincing words. Sylvia gasped softly in pretended dismay.

"I'm sure nothing was ever said of a money shortage—"

"Look here, Mr. Bartlett, you and I and the entire city of Edgeworth knew that I was dismissed because I was suspected of something—I was never sure of what it was. Please don't be afraid of a suit for damages. Kindly admit that I am right."

"Oh, please—!" Sylvia interrupted. "Can't we talk of something more interesting? We haven't seen Jimmie for so long." Although it was almost dark, Nancy saw the bewitching smile with which she sought to gain Jim's attention.

Jim did not return the smile. He leaned forward and spoke again to Mr. Bartlett.

"Of course it is no surprise to me that I am innocent, but I want this thing cleared up," he said emphatically, and in spite of her mental turmoil Nancy's heart swelled with pride. "When you let me go I was accused of nothing in words, but I felt the things you left unsaid and because you did not say them I was given no chance to vindicate myself. Now, if you don't mind, we'll have all the cards on the table."

"Well—er—" The banker was crowded into a corner. "Mistakes will occur," he finally made answer. "I'll admit I acted hastily in asking for your resignation—"

"I acted hastily too, Jimmie—and so did you." This from Sylvia. She completely ignored Nancy, seemed not to consider her place in Jim's life. Nancy shrank within herself. After all, had she a place in his life? According to law, yes; but even to herself the episode in the office of the justice lacked convincing weight. It balanced not at all against Jim's love for Sylvia.

"I'll be frank with you, Jim," Mr. Bartlett was saying. "The loss of money showed up again several weeks ago, but I am happy to say it is now a thing of the past." He slid quickly over this admission. "We have missed you, all of us. We want you to come back and take your rightful place among your fellow men."

* * *

"OF COURSE I am very appreciative. You can readily understand what these months have meant to me, but—I must decline." At Sylvia's startled exclamation Jim quickly rose. "Shall we have a light, Nancy?"

"Oh, yes," rousing herself with difficulty. "Won't you come inside? The evenings are cool."

"No—no, thank you—we must be getting back to the hotel." Mr. Bartlett waited until Jim came from the house with a lighted lantern. "But, Jim, my dear boy," he said anxiously, "surely you will not hold a grudge; surely you are big enough to accept an apology and——"

Sylvia, facing the light, stood out in bold relief, her eyes glittered, a tiny heart-beat was in her throat. One side of Jim's face showed dully white, the other was an indistinct blur. Nancy saw a nerve twitch in his cheek as if answering the throb in Sylvia's white throat. The lines around Mr. Bartlett's mouth and eyes seemed to be etched with charcoal. The light robbed Mrs. Bartlett of her makeup, giving her the appearance of owlish irritability.

Nancy pushed her chair against the wall where she would be out of the circle of light and folded her hands tensely in her lap. If Jim gave in to Mr. Bartlett and Sylvia the end had come. The thought of returning to Edgeworth as the ball and chain which had fastened itself to Jim was intolerable.

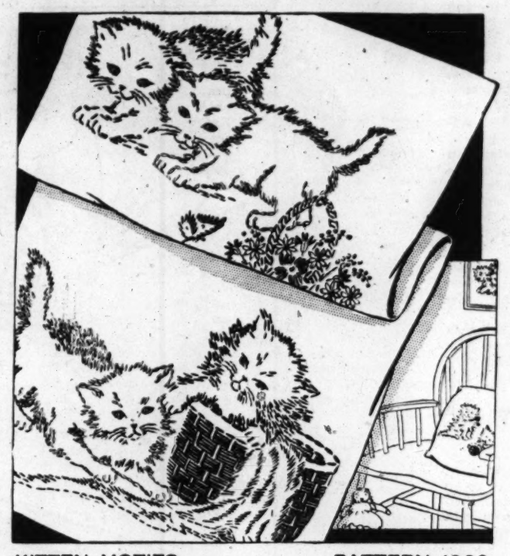

Even if he stood his ground, was not the battle lost? Wearily she admitted that it was. In truth there had never been a battle. Jim's heart had never wavered from Sylvia. She had been a fool to read a dawning love for herself into his exuberant happiness.

Jim's return from Duluth, his half-hysterical embrace, the wonderful moment when he kissed her hand as she stood on the rug—they were but wistful dreams. Jim had come into his own at last and she had no place beside him.

Inner Harmony To Counteract Outer Turmoil

By the Rev. J. F. Newton

DAVID MACK sent me a copy of his wise, sweet-spirited, happy little book of "Arm's Length Philosophy," as he calls it. It was waiting for me on my return from the hospital, and gave me a lift.

Hence my wish that others might feel its spirit, see its flash of insight, and learn its wisdom which is almost too simple to be found out. Its truth is over-looked because it is so near by.

Like so many good things this little book was born at a bad time; a dark day when the load was heavy and the road rough. It was then that he learned a truth that made the dim path clear.

To his surprise, he discovered that the things that make life rich, real and worth-while are within arm's length, actually within reach, if we have wit enough and humility enough to see it.

In short, he saw that the very heart of the world for each man is within himself, to be made a service-station of heaven or hell, as he—and no one else—determines. It's up to each of us.

If within himself is turmoil, all the beauties outside are of no personal benefit. While, if within is harmony—a man at peace with himself—the turmoil outside cannot break in.

It was the entrance-gate leading into a new way of living, giving a new direction to his days; and most of all a mental state that makes each day, no matter what befalls, a joy to live.

In addition, he learned that by tending his own patch first of all, a man is also helping to make this a better world to live in; making a part-payment to life for its spiritual riches.

And this truth he teaches in no dull, dry manner, but in brief and pithy ways, with "cadenced wave and undertow;" now a poem, now a picture, or a bit of homey lore of everyday life we know.

All the old glad, sad, holy things of life are here, from the love of a man for his pipe to the love of God, new every morning. And faith and hope and love and fun, and gentle pathos, too.

THERE are days when the judgment skips on a few cylinders—this looks like one of them. Best to ooze along the familiar groove where too many decisions will not need to be made. Steer around the tendency to resent; avoid sarcasm.

Misused Intelligence.

The gorilla with a machine gun is brute ignorance and extra power—results: fatal, terrible. But not as bad as human intelligence misdirecting power. The gorilla does not know how to make another gun, does not know how to repair the one he has, how to reload it, how to make more munitions. Human warfare is man using his intelligence to make trouble instead of to prevent it.

Neapolitan Noodles With Lamb

Three cups boiled and drained noodles
Three-fourths cup butter
Two tablespoons flour
Two cups milk
One and one-half teaspoons salt
One-fourth teaspoon pepper
One teaspoon curry powder
Three cups diced cooked lamb
One No. 2 can peas
Paprika
Lemon slices
Parsley

Fry noodles in one-half cup butter until golden brown. Melt two tablespoons butter and stir in flour, adding milk gradually stirring until dissolved. Cook slowly and add salt, pepper and curry powder. Arrange noodles around edge of platter and pour lamb and peas which have been heated and seasoned in center, or arrange on individual plates in the same manner. Dot with butter, sprinkle with paprika. Garnish with slices of lemon and sprigs of parsley. Yield: six to eight portions.

Let's EXPLORE Your MIND

By ALBERT EDWARD WIGGAM, D. Sc.

See Whether His Opinions Agree With Your Own

1. —Of course, owing to the existence of the male sex, women have more to laugh at than men, but what little is known by psychologists indicates we are saved by the fact that women have slightly less sense of humor than men. Two psychologists compared 124 men students from Wesleyan with 154 women students from Smith, in rating the degree of funniness of a group of jokes, and concluded the women found the jokes less funny, as a whole, than did the men. However, since the jokes were originally selected by men, these authors think a series selected by women might show the reverse of the above results.

2. —As explained by Drs. Louis Dublin and Alfred Lotka in their able new book, "Length of Life," the "life span"—the longest time the strongest may expect to live—has not increased, although average length of life has increased by some 30 years. The prime example of life span is that of Christen Jacobsen Drakenberg, a Danish sailor, born in 1626, who lived 146 years! At 84 he enlisted in the Danish Marines and served in several wars, and when a mere lad of 111 married Maren Larsen, a sweet young thing of 60 summers, who later died. At 130 he proposed to several ladies, but without success." He was somewhat of a rake, but after the age of 141 is said to have "led a respectable life!" Atta boy!

3. —If it be really wholesome neglect, it is one of the wisest things parents can do. In fact wholesome neglect is one of the greatest secrets of education—setting up the conditions, opportunities and incentives for study and development and then letting the child alone. Continual watching and lecturing children gets nowhere.

Baby Buggy

By Eileen Tower

THE girl who opened the door in answer to my ring hung listlessly to the knob as I began, "I saw your sign in the window." At that she drew the door wider, and I stepped into a dim narrow room.

"Sit down a minute while I turn the light off under the potatoes." A faint odor of frying grease pervaded the room. Behind a screen I could see the corner of a gas plate and hear the water running in a sink. I sat down on the thin mattress of the daybed that creaked under my substantial weight.

The lid of a battered trunk rested against the window sill and over the back of a near-by chair sagged two dresses and a suit of clothes.

"Packing is a messy job," I murmured as the girl came from behind the screen, one hand at her ear pushing in a pin that held her curly auburn hair off her hollow cheek.

"It is now, but when I packed to come here". . . her cinnamon eyes dropped to the line of shoes in front of the trunk. I moved over to the baby buggy, advertised in the window. It stood at the end at the couch, beside the only lamp in the room.

"Is it for your own baby?" The girl's soft voice was eager but unsteady.

"No, it's for my niece's baby. She doesn't expect him for several weeks. That's a nice buggy."

"Too good for here, you mean." The bitter words were tempered with resignation. "It isn't, though, but I shall go on paying for it—maybe forever." She twisted a narrow band on her wedding finger. "How much do you think it is worth?"

"It is in good condition?"

"He slept in it just one night." The tall girl stood beside me now. "It was to be his crib, too, but he died. It killed him in a way." She turned to me wildly. "Do you think it could have? Oh, do you?" The agony in her voice spoke the desperation in her eyes.

"No, my dear, I'm sure it couldn't have." Her distressed face was very young; not more than 20, I decided. I have never looked that frail or that lovely at 20, nor now, at 40, had I seen greater pain.

"I shouldn't have let Mr. Carthway give it to me." The girl fingered the satin pillow. "But I needed it and he meant to be kind."

"He owns a store on Tolman avenue. Harry worked for him when he needed extra help, but that was not very often." The girl bent over the trunk. "This is our wedding picture." She dusted it off with her long hand. "I was plumper then and prettier."

I wanted to tell her she was beautiful now, like clay that has been turned and fired, but instead I studied Harry's face. He was tall, too, and dark, with a proud buoyant look, but though the eyes were sweet the smiling mouth was weak.

• • •

"I WAITED on table in the Dixie until the doctor wouldn't let me any more, and just about then Harry lost his job because Larson's garage closed down." I shoved a lumpy pillow against the ugly wallpaper, and leaned back uncomfortably. The girl's voice had steadied, and her eyes could meet mine again.

"Harry could hardly wait for the baby. We'd have made out somehow, though there wasn't much, but Harry did an awful foolish thing." Her eyes defied me.

"He isn't bad, really," she defended him; "he just didn't think until it was too late. He was dreadfully sorry he'd stolen it even before they came to get him."

"What did he take?" The pity in her voice for him hushed the tones in my own throat.

"A baby buggy. Not near as nice as this one, and when Mr. Carthway found out why Harry'd done it, he tried to have the charge withdrawn." The running water in the sink cut the sudden silence in the room.

"Harry had been warned once before, so the Judge said he'd better think it over for six months in jail."

"And the baby?"

"Harry never saw the baby." She rocked the carriage gently and her voice was hushed as if a baby slept in the room. "He was cut up something awful when I told him, but he says maybe some day we can have another."

"What are you going to do now?"

"I'm going home to my mother's farm and Harry'll come in four months. Mr. Carthway got him some books on farming and Harry's crazy to get to plowing already."

"How are you going to get home?" The girl's unconscious dignity made the question hard.

"With what I get from the buggy. I'll have to make it do."

"I'll buy it." Harry's wife had need of this deep reserve of strength and courage. "Where does your mother live?"

I paid more than I could afford for the buggy Tommy rides in, but the girl's home was a long way off.

HARMONICA WELL—The well that plays an harmonica is a 38-foot shaft sunk by Frank Baker while drilling for water. Instead of water, air, under considerable pressure, began to rush up through the 2-inch pipe. The owner attached reeds to the pipe, in an endeavor to convert the phenomenon into a natural pipe organ. Later an harmonica was placed on top of the shaft, on which the escaping air played bizarre music. It is really a breathing well, as the well exhales for 12 hours and inhales with the same force for a nother 12 hours. The effect on the harmonica is the same.

Puddle Muddlers Attempt to Find Home of Chicken

By Mary Graham Bonner

"WE HAVE a rooster in our barnyard whose name is Sir Count Prince Noblem Duke Lord King Rooster," said the chicken, "but he is always called Sir Count."

Top Notch cocked his head on one side and listened carefully.

"Oh no," said the chicken. "He is lovely. He is so generous, and he is always good-natured. They say around the banyard that Sir Count always has a pleasant smile on his beak, and that he is so nice to everyone that it makes everyone feel fine and friendly and in good spirits."

"It can't be the same one," Top Notch said, and Willy Nilly added, "Now maybe it is."

"Maybe," agreed Top Notch. "As yes, no doubt he learned to mend his ways by being with me."

"With us you mean," said Rip, the dog.

Top Notch gave a superior look. "You're wasting time," said Willy Nilly. "You must get started, and be sure to tell them that their chicken is well and safe."

"Come and take a rest in my meadow," he said.

"He rested all night under my wing," quacked Mrs. Quacko. "He's not tired." But Willy Nilly was not paying any attention to their chatter. Why had not Christopher come when he called? Where was the crow?

They All Club Together

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

THE Gaelic hurling team is back home again with all on board. It just finished a benevolent tour of the United States, which was a surprise because nobody knew that war had been declared.

* * *

There are 15 men on a side until the whistle blows, and then there are 30 men on each other. The object of the game is to escape with your own life and two others.

* * *

We'll explain the contest in a very few bruised words. Each side is allowed three substitutions during the game, provided the injured players are unconscious. Now, if a player is just a little bit silly, it's up to his captain to complete the dizzy circle if he hopes to make a substitution. So, if you are only half dead, the captain lends you the other half. He whacks you over the ears with a hurling stick and you are carried off the field with your feet in advance for direction flags.
